Special Rules for the Installation of Electricity

The following rules shall be observed as far as is reasonably practicable in the mines

Definitions

Potential

The terms "Potential" and "Voltage" are synonymous and mean electrical pressure Difference of Potential

The expression "Difference of Potential" means the difference of electrical pressure existing between any two points of an electrical system or between any point of such a system and the earth as determined by a volt meter

Potential of a Circuit

The potential or voltage of a circuit machine or any piece of electrical apparatus is the potential normally existing between the conductors of such circuit or the terminals of such machine or apparatus

(a) Where the conditions of the supply of electricity are such that the difference in potential between any two points of the circuit cannot exceed three hundred volts the supply shall be deemed a low voltage supply

(b) Where the conditions of the supply of electricity are such that the difference of potential between any two points in the circuit may at any time exceed three hundred volts but cannot exceed six hundred and fifty volts the supply shall be deemed a medium voltage supply

(c) Where the conditions of the supply of electricity are such that the difference of potential between any two points in the circuit may at any time exceed six hundred and fifty volts the supply shall be deemed a high voltage supply

Grounding

Grounding any part or an electric system shall consist in so connecting such part to the earth that there shall be no difference of potential between them

Explosion or Flame Proof

Explosion or flame proof casings or enclosures are those which when completely filled with a mixture of methane and air and the same exploded are capable of either entirely confining the products of such explosion within the casing or of so discharging them from the casing that they cannot ignite a mixture of methane and air combined in proportions most sensitive to ignition and entirely surrounding the points of discharge and in most intimate proximity therewith

Underground Station

An underground station is herein considered as any place where electrical machinery is permanently installed

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the Committee on Conference on House Bill No. 313.

Mr. FEENEY. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House. About two weeks ago when this code was pending before this House I opposed it as a miner and as a man who has worked in the mine since I was twelve years of age, and I am opposed to it to-night, as I was two weeks ago. For this reason I am opposed to it: That it does afford proper protection in what is known at the Pittsburg district, in Western Pennsylvania, from the very dangerous gases that are met with in that field. It affords less protection under this code, if it passes, than we have under the old law. I have been in the vicinity where these terrible mine disasters have occurred, when they have happened, and I have seen the charred bodies taken from those mines, and I have seen the widows on the outside of those burning mines weeping, with their children about them, and I have sympathized with the poor widows, those poor mothers, who still have some hope that their loved ones would be brought from that burning mine alive, and in many of the disasters right in the place where I live. Men have never been taken out, and in one single mine out of three hundred men penned into one of those mines not a single man was saved.

I stand before you as a miner of twenty years experience, and I expect to go back to the mines when I leave here. I realize that great pressure has been brought to bear on many of our members to vote for this code, but I ask you before you cast your votes to be careful, for you will rue the day that you do this. The State Mine Inspectors are men who, when there is a disaster, or a mine explosion, are responsible; they are the men, gentlemen of this House, who were not consulted when this code was drawn. Don't you think that these men from the bituminous mine region of Pennsylvania should have been consulted. These inspectors, who have been brought up in the mines as boys; men who have been educated in the technicalities of the mine, and these men should have been consulted. These men have gone over the code and have examined it, and they have said "If this thing passes you can look out for more disasters in Western Pennsylvania." Recall the great Marianna disaster where so many lives were lost, and it was caused by the high voltage of the electrical currents that went into that mine. Take another or several of the other mine disasters in Western Pennsylvania, and what was the cause of those disasters, and what was the cause of that? The high voltage of the electrical currents. In 1908 three of these mines were allowed to have a voltage of five hundred, and they had no less than 650 volts. This is the portion of the code that I tried to have amended to 150 volts, and I was overruled. This would have been sufficient. I know what miner's gas is, and I know that in some mines where no gas is supposed to be at present, in two years from now there will be enough gas in that mine to blow it up, and the result will be that there will be more lives lost and more widows and more orphans in this district. Had the mine inspectors in Western Pennsylvania been consulted before this code was drawn there would have been more protection than there is to-day, and we would be in a position to ask for the passage of this bill instead of trying to have it defeated. This is a matter of life and death, and I hope that this bill will be voted down. I am appealing to you to-night for the sake of the poor families and the poor men who are compelled to work in the mines of Western Pennsylvania, and I appeal to you from my heart, and I know that I am right and what I am talking about, because I expect to go back to the mines myself when I leave here, and I want more protection instead of less.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House. On this last night of the session of 1911, for the first time during my legislative career, I wish to say a word with reference to my efforts in behalf of legislation during the session and a word in favor of the efforts of the mining committees of both the House and Senate, who have labored almost incessantly upon this code. Every person who is well known in Pennsylvania as an authority upon this subject has been consulted, and I want to say to this House that I, as one of the members of Jefferson county, have been watching the formation of this code with a critical eye. It so happens that I represent, in part, one of the bituminous mining counties of this State. We are known as the central mining district of Pennsylvania. I have, up to this time, been assured, not only by the miners but the operators as well, that we have come as near to an amicable agreement as is possible in cases of this kind. The subject which we have endeavored to cover by this report is very important. From what I have learned in listening to the argument of the gentleman from Washington, it would appear to me that there are only two things to which he himself objects. I don't pretend to be a miner or an expert upon this subject, and for things bearing on the operation of a mine, for information on the subject, I would go to a miner or to an operator to get it, because neither one side nor the other should have the whole say so in a matter of this kind. I have been assured by the miners of my district, and let me say to you that there are in round numbers over 50,000, and in almost every particular they are satisfied with this code. I have been assured by the most prominent operators in our district that, while it is not satisfactory in every way, that they believe that it will be an improvement on what we already have. It would also appear that the time has come when there should really be a code. It marks the starting point. It stands in the same position, relatively, as the school laws of Pennsylvania. It is not desirable on a subject of this kind that we should have peacemeal legislation. I submit to the gentlemen of this House, despite the arguments of the gentleman from Washington, that it is almost an entirely complete piece of work; that no man who has any part in it need be ashamed of.

I, too, have sympathy for the widow and the children that are left behind in case of disaster. The gentleman has said that there should be no accidents; and that every precaution should be taken to prevent accidents in the future. I agree with him entirely, but I am sorry to say that in nearly all the mine disasters, so long as coal is mined in this great State of ours, they will occur, but is it reasonable to presume that every time that an accident occurs, or that there is an explosion, that it is caused by electricity. Why this is known to everybody who is familiar with the mining district. I assume that the provisions of this code don't protect the mines of the western district of Pennsylvania to the extent that there can be no future accidents, and the assertion has been made that the provisions of this code don't protect the miners as they should be protected, but it may be that they are mistaken. If you could absolutely protect the miners from these gases and prevent these accidents by the taking out of electricity you would absolutely at once take out all electricity. It would at least appear so to me. I want to say to the gentlemen of this House that it would be almost suicide for a member of the Assembly from Jefferson county to come into this House and make a false statement in order to secure the passage of a law relating to the bituminous region. I want to say to you that I have taken pains to talk with the leader or the head of the bituminous region in our district, and he has set his approval upon this code. I want to say to you gentlemen that I have reserved my decision in this most important matter until the last moment. It now comes to that point where we either have a code or we have no code. I have now the personal assurance of representative men, and of miners who work in the mines, and of experts in every phase of mining, men as competent and as experienced as the gentleman from Washington; men who have had personal experience in mines; men who have seen explosions, and I have had their personal assurance that the code is very much of an improvement over the law as it now stands. It seems to me that this is a most important measure, and I do hope that you will see your way clear to render a decision in accordance with the evidence secured from men who are familiar with the conditions of the mining district of Western Pennsylvania, and from the evidence that has been submitted I do maintain that the argument advanced by the gentleman from Washington is not sufficient. I have the utmost respect for the gentleman from Washington, and it does seem to me, in all due respect for him, that he should be satisfied with what has been done for him by this House. I want to say right here that I have remained seated upon several occasions, and so far as I was concerned allowed pieces of legislation to go by that to me seemed might be improved upon, because the gentleman from Washington advocated it, and I left it to his judgment. I refer particularly to a piece of legislation bearing on the proposition that a man without two years' experience should not go into a mine, whether he be a miner or whether he be employed about the mines, without his certificate, and that bill went through this House without any protest from me.

I wish to say for the information of the gentleman from Washington that he has been very well taken care of so far as this House has been concerned, with regard to legislation affecting the miners of Pennsylvania and with regard to legislation affecting the laborers of Pennsylvania. I want to say to you right now that, as the gentleman from Washington has seen fit to describe those things that take place at the mouths of mines, with which I am familiar, and which we all deplore, I protest to that spirit which seems to condemn the whole code on the strength of those accidents, and I submit to you gentlemen that he has not advanced an argument. I submit in all fairness that this House cannot afford, after having passed a bill like the school code, and after having done this grand work of passing the road bill and several other important matters that have been covered, and after all the other ground which has been so well covered, we cannot afford to go back on a committee and on these 50,000 people in Central Pennsylvania, who have agreed that this piece of legislation is an improvement on what we now have. I hope you will see your way clear to indorse the report of this conference committee upon my personal assurance that I have waited until the last moment before making up my mind to give it my unqualified indorsement.

Mr. PITCHFORD. Mr. Speaker, I would like the privilege of interrogating the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Feeney.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FEENEY. Yes, sir.

Mr. PITCHFORD. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact that the mine owners of your district appeared before the Mining Committee and presented 16 amendments which were entered in this bill which is now here?

Mr. FEENEY. I don't quite understand you.

Mr. PITCHFORD. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say that Western Pennsylvania, which is your district, got all the amendments into this bill that they wanted.

Mr. FEENEY. No.

Mr. PITCHFORD. Is it not true that the Mining Committee allowed three weeks to elapse for the purpose of getting the miners of Western Pennsylvania to embody any amendments they wanted?

Mr. FEENEY. In reply to that I will say that it is a fact that the miners from the Western Pittsburg district were refused the amendments they wanted. Is that not true?

Mr. PITCHFORD. No sir, that is not a fact.

Mr. FEENEY. That is the fact.

Mr. PITCHFORD. That is not the fact. Mr. Speaker, all parties interested in mines and mining in the bituminous coal fields were given an opportunity for a hearing before that committee. The gentleman from Washington knows, because he was there pretty nearly all the time. I want to say that there never was a more cordial hearing given to anybody than to the men who appeared before that committee, and they were received and treated with the utmost courtesy by our chairman here [referring to Mr. Wilson]. I don't claim that this code will prevent in future accidents or that accidents will not occur in the bituminous coal field in the future, and no man ever alleged that anything could be done to prevent that. No, sir, they could not do it, and I want to say furthermore, that the miners in Central Pennsylvania, and most of them in the western fields of the bituminous coal districts, numbering over 100,000 men are in favor of this code. The president of the district was down here last night, attended this conference and has agreed to it, and the miners are for it.

Mr. FEENEY. I speak for Western Pennsylvania, where these disasters have occurred, and I have spoken the truth. The gentleman has stated that our miners got all the amendments they wanted in that code, to which I take exception.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Feeney. The gentleman who introduced this measure didn't know what it contained.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FEENEY. I would like to get through with my speech. Mr. FEENEY continuing: I desire to say that I worked in that district ever since I was a boy, and I want to say that my friend here has been very much alarmed about the labor of his committee and the expense that has been involved, but I will say, after seeing those terrible accidents, that it is not a case of dollars and cents with me, but it is a case of life and death. I will answer any question that the gentleman from Elk desires to ask if I can.

Mr. FLYNN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman who made the statement that the gentleman who introduced this bill didn't know what it contained. Didn't the gentleman from Washington make the fight in the committee for 250 volts?

Mr. FEENEY. Correct.

Mr. FLYNN. I ask further if he himself didn't offer an amendment in this committee making the maximum voltage 500 volts?

Mr. FEENEY. No; there is a misunderstanding somewhere about that.

Mr. FLYNN. As a member of the Committee on Mining I wish to state that the only opposition—the only real opposition which the gentleman from Washington has presented to this code is the fact that he was opposed to the provision of 600 volts. He offered an amendment to reduce that voltage to 250 volts. I submit to you that 250 volts is just as dangerous as 600 volts. I also submit to you that when you go above 200 volts the danger is not any greater no matter what the voltage is. The only question at issue is the report of the committee on conference. That consists of a single amendment and that amendment, which the committee has adopted, was submitted to the president of the Mine Workers' Union of District No. 2, who referred it to the members of the examining board. This code has been the work of men who are informed on this subject. Some of the greatest mining experts in the United States have given their time to perfect this bill, and it has been agreed upon by the chief of the Department to Mines. It has been agreed to by the representatives of the Miners' Union, with the exception of one small faction in the western end of the State from which the gentleman from Washington comes. I don't mean to state when I say that that everybody unanimously agreed to everything and with all the provisions of this code, but like every other bill as important as this and as far-reaching, compromise became a necessity. We might have worked until doomsday and not get a bill with which everybody would be perfectly satisfied. There are necessarily conflicting ideas in any bill of this kind in its preparation, but I do state without fear of contradiction that this bill as it is presented to you to-night is the very best that can be done at this time, and in my judgment represents an intelligent compromise.

This bill has the indorsement of the Honorable James E. Roderick, chief of the Department of Mines. It has been eighteen years since the last bituminous coal code was passed. Many new conditions have arisen, brought about by modern mining methods, and it is high time that the mining laws should be changed to meet these conditions.

The fatalities about mines have increased, and this bill is an honest effort to reduce fatalities and personal injuries to a minimum. The remedies suggested by miners, mining engineers, the State Department of Mines and many experts are: Closer supervision of the inside operations, which is provided for in this bill by two fire boss examinations instead of one, assistant mine foreman to assist the mine foreman in closer supervision, shot firers, use of safety explosives, tamping with incombustible material, dampening and removal of the dust and increased ventilation, all of which is provided for by this measure.

Patrick Gilday, president of the United Mine Workers of District No. 2, who represents 50,000 miners in the Central District of Pennsylvania, was here yesterday and approved the bill as it is now presented to this body.

The opponents of this bill have not at any time, either before the committee or on the floor of either house, pointed out even one specific reason why this bill should not become a law. They were repeatedly asked to state wherein the bill was objectionable, and in every instance they have refused to do so. It is safe to conclude that when they fail to point out specific reasons for their objecting to the bill they have no good reasons for opposing it.

Some objection has been taken to the voltage of the electric system permitted in mines. This objection is not well taken, for the reason that a careful examination of the reports of the Department of Mines for the past several years shows that the injuries received from electricity are but about 5 per cent. of the total injuries received in mines. It is one of the lowest causes of injuries known about the mines. Electricity has been in common use in and about coal mines for many years and is approved by the laws of all coal mining States. The records of the State Department of Mines show that there were more men killed and injured by the old mule and tail rope haulage system than are now killed or injured by the electrical haulage system.

Mr. MAGEE. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that two years ago I came into this House at the same time with the gentleman from Western Pennsylvania and I found him to be a man of character, and he impressed me that way. I made some inquiry about this matter among the miners and among the operators on this particular subject. I believed what they said. I went down and saw the crowds and know what these men said and how they regard this bill. I am familiar with the sentiment of 50,000 miners and they ought to know what is best for them.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the committee on conference?

Section 9 That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act or any part thereof are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the committee of conference?

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I wish to call your attention to the fact that this bill, which was defeated yesterday, has not been changed by the conference committee. It provides:

That in all counties of this Commonwealth having not less than two hundred thousand nor more than three hundred twenty-five thousand inhabitants the county commissioners of such counties shall appoint nine sober judicious and intelligent citizens residents of the county from which they are appointed for at least four years prior thereto as a board of assessors for a period of four years or until their successors are duly qualified not more than six members of said board of assessors shall be of the same political party

The county commissioners and the board of assessors appointed pursuant to the provisions of this act shall subdivide the county into convenient districts and shall perform all the duties of assessors under the laws of this Commonwealth as to the valuation of property for county purposes

Now, gentlemen, the county commissioners and the assessors shall make the assessments. Gentlemen, I think the assessors should make it. It further provides:

The said board of assessors shall during the first year of their term of service make or cause to be made a full just and equal assessment of all property within the cities boroughs and townships and their several sub-divisions comprised within

They would cause to be made, without doing the work individually. While the men for two dollars a day would do the work, they would reap the benefit of the higher salaries. Gentlemen, further it provides:

All such assesors shall assemble in convention together with the county commissioners at least once in each year upon the call of the county commissioners of the county by whom they are apopinted for the purpose of comparing adjusting revising et cetera the value of properties and to furnish the county commissioners with such other information as shall enable them to properly perform their duties in cases of appeal

Now, as to the salaries. The compensation of such assessors shall be twenty-five hundred dollars. That is all stated in one line. In the following line it states that the salary shall be three thousand dollars each, so there is some confusion there as to which it will be, and it also calls for the necessary traveling expenses, subject to the approval of the county commissioners and county controller. So the expense is not only the salaries, but the traveling expenses may be added to it, and according to these provisions the salaries will amount to $25,200 for the assessors and the clerks, and the amount of which I sincerely believe is ten thousand dollars more than is necessary for such work. Further, gentlemen, this is supposed to be a representative government, and the representatives from these three counties—Lackawanna, Schuylkill and Westmoreland—numbering sixteen, ten of the sixteen are opposed to this bill. Therefore, the vote should carry in the proportion of ten to six against this measure.

Mr. HOBBS. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Ulerich.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Ulerich, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ULERICH. I will

Mr. HOBBS. Would you please give us some information as to the sentiment of your constituents in Westmoreland county in regard to this bill?

Mr. ULERICH. As far as the sentiment of my people are concerned they are against this bill. Our five members here are against it, and I think they are for the reason that our people do not want it.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Brennan.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Brennan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRENNAN. I will.

Mr. HOBBS. I would like to ask the gentleman from Schuylkill the same question.

Mr. BRENNAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I did not think that we would have any more trouble with this bill after yesterday, when it met with such unmerciful defeat. There is one thing about killing a bill. You never know when you have done it. Because this bill was killed the people in my county are calling me "The Legislative Snake Killer." I have not heard of one of my constituents who is favorable to a measure of this kind. In the killing of this bill yesterday morning four of the five representatives from my county voted against it. So far as my county is concerned. I do not think that there is one person in the county who wants such a measure. For that reason I ask the members of this House not to adopt this report.

Mr. HOBBS. Mr. Speaker, I wish to have it thoroughly understood that so far as political party is concerned that it has no significance. It should have none so far as the bill is concerned in taking the position I am taking. This is only a matter of principle, as I see it, and I believe that we, as representatives of the people here, are not justified in enacting laws which are against their desires, and I sincerely believe that the constituents of Lackawanna county, at least 75 per cent. of them, are opposed to this measure and it appears to me that this is only politics, and one of the principle motives of this measure is to take care of certain political friends for certain political jobs, and, further, that such men may be used for campaign purposes. I sincerely hope that this report will not be adopted.

Mr. KLINGERMAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, from my portion of Schuylkill county I have heard that they want this bill to pass, and I ask the members of this House to give us their votes on this measure.

Mr. EHRHARDT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I have no desire to intrude on your time nor to prolong this discussion longer than necessary. I am satisfied that the people of our section want this bill. We want an equitable, just and fair assessment, which we cannot get under existing conditions. In our section we have a ward assessment, as in the other two counties to which this bill applies. These assessors may be from men in various walks of life, men unacquainted with the valuations of land. The taxpayers have to go to the courts to get a proper assessment. If we have this law, you are only paying a fair salary, and the responsibility is localized and centered on nine men. This law would give us the assessment that we ought to have, and I ask the House to pass this bill.

Mr. BRENNAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lackawanna, Mr. Ehrhardt, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. EHRHARDT. I will.

Mr. BRENNAN. When he states that the people of his county are anxious for this bill, why did he not eliminate Schuylkill and Westmoreland counties and take it for Lackawanna?

Mr. EHRHARDT. There are members from the different counties on the committee. We had a member from Schuylkill county on that committee.

The question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the committee on conference?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken, whereupon a verification of the roll was called for, and the vote was as follows:

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time from the third reading postponed calendar House Bill No. 707 (Senate No. 365) on page 8 of to-day's calendar.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 707 (Senate No. 365).

An act providing for an appeal from the judgment of aldermen and justices of the peace within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania regardless of the amount in controversy or of the amount of the judgment rendered

The question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. This is a bill that was introduced by Senator Wasbers, of York county. It is not in the House. This bill has been suggested by the various laundrymen throughout the Commonwealth. The purpose of the bill is this: Under the present law a judgment for an amount under $5.33 cannot be appealed to the common pleas courts. The result is that when laundrymen are sued for the loss of a package of laundry, and judgment is given against them, they have no redress to the higher courts. This bill has been requested by a vast number of people, as has been shown by the correspondence that the members of the House have received. I know, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House that the oil trust is against this bill, but the small sum of $5.33 would hardly affect their dividends. I ask the gentlemen of the House to support this bill.

BILL DROPPED FROM CALENDAR.

Mr. VON TACKY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be stricken from the calendar.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. GANS called up the report of the committee of conference on House Bill No. 600.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 600.

The report was read as follows:

To the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned committee of conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives, for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 600, submit the bill without amendments as our report.

DAVID A. WILBERT,
OSCAR E. THOMSON,

An act regulating drivers and operators of all vehicles and persons riding or leading animals on the public highways requiring the display of lights upon vehicles and prescribing penalties for violation of the same

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever any person driving or operating a vehicle of any description or riding or leading a horse horses or other animals of draft or burden upon any of the public streets or highways in this Commonwealth shall meet another vehicle or animals of draft or burden being led ridden or driven thereon such person shall reasonably turn to the right of the center of such street or highway sufficiently to permit such vehicle or animals to pass without interference and whenever any person driving or operating a vehicle or riding or leading a horse or horses or other animals of draft or burden shall overtake another vehicle or animal being led ridden or driven such person shall pass to the left thereof and the person so overtaken shall upon warning or signal turn promptly to the right of the center of said street or highway to allow a free passage to the left Where the width and condition of the streets or highways permit slower moving vehicles shall keep to the right of the center of such street or highways

Section 2 From one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise there shall be displayed upon every vehicle being driven operated or standing upon the public streets or highways of this Commonwealth at least one fixed light visible for at least one hundred feet both to the front and rear of said vehicle

Section 3 The constables and police officers of the cities boroughs townships and counties of this Commonwealth may arrest upon view and without warrant any person violating any of the provisions of this act

Section 4 Any person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be subject to a fine of not less than one ($1.00) dollar nor more than five ($5.00) dollars for each offense to be collected by summary conviction before any magistrate or justice of the peace as like fines and penalties are now by law collected or in case of non-payment of such fine within forty-eight hours shall undergo an imprisonment in the county prison for a period not exceeding five days Provided however That nothing in this act shall limit or annul the special restrictions placed upon the operators of motor vehicles or the penalties to which they are subject for violation thereof

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the committee of conference?

Mr. DERSHEM. Mr. Speaker, this report varies very little from the bill which was defeated this morning, except that it reduces the fine from five to one, instead of from ten to five. This measure, if enacted into law, would work a hardship on the people living in the rural districts, and taking into consideration the fact that the Legislature is giving the people many new laws which will necessitate many changes in the conducting of the affairs of the rural communities, I believe our people at home would be just as well satisfied if this Legislature would adjourn without enacting this obnoxious measure into a law.

Mr. MATT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the further consideration of this bill be indefinitely postponed.

Mr. KNIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The Speaker announced that the chair was in doubt, and a division having been called for, and 66 members having voted in the affirmative and 86 in the negative, the motion was not agreed to.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker, I want to say in the interest of two hundred thousand farmers that if you enact this into law and place it on our statute books that two hundred thousand farmers will be heard from.

Mr. TUNIS in the Chair.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, before this roll is called I desire to say just a word in favor of the provisions of this bill. From what has been said, and from the noise that has been made, you would think that a great hardship were being put on us who represent the rural districts. Mr. Speaker, I come from a district embracing twenty townships and twenty-four boroughs, in which there are more people than in any district in Pennsylvania. I come from a district numbering 293,395 according to the last United States census. A great many of the people in my district are dairymen, and a great many of the people in this same district are producers of garden truck, farmers, if you please, and I want to say in relation to the district, and I say this in all seriousness, gentlemen, that it has as many good roads and as many night travelers as any district in this State. Speaking for my constituents and for their protection, it seems just and right to me that this bill should pass. Mr. Speaker, there seems to be a bold attempt on the part of the gentleman from Philadelphia to have me join the "Lame Duck Association." But I do say this, that this bill is a protection to every man on the highways at night. You would not countenance for one minute for the railroads in this land whirling at almost a mile a minute not to have headlights on the locomotives. It is a warning to you. Neither would you countenance for one moment to see the automobile going up and down the highways without a headlight, warning you of their approach. The light is there for what? Not only for the protection of those occupying the cars, but also for the protection of the people in the highways. How many of you, many, many of you, have been in machines after dark and have seen, if you were able to see at all, something suddenly appear before you, and many of you have been ditched for what, not to protect the occupants of that machine, but to protect the wagon or the vehicles, the driver of which has gone to sleep sitting in his seat. You can howl and show all sorts of derision, but this is a matter of fact. I want to say further than that. It ha been stated, and is evidently true, that many of the peopl who are opposed to showing the danger light along th roadside have left an old wagon to be smashed up so tha they may get a new wagon. They will tie a crippled hors on the highway and he will be struck down by a machin in order that they can get damages. They don't do tha in my district, because my people want this bill passed I think it is a very righteous bill.

Mr. AILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have only a few words t say, and, gentlemen of the House, I have just as muc time as you have. I can stand here just as long as yo can howl. When you come to sum up the work of thi Legislature you will find a very small amount that the farm ers have gotten, that they have a just right to ask for They don't want this particular piece of legislation. They know enough to take a lantern along on a dark night and can see well enough on a moonlight night to keep ou of the way of my friend, even when he comes driving zig zag along the road.

Mr. NORTH. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House I believe that this bill is worthy of more consideration While I enjoy this entertainment just as much as any one I hope that you will think for a minute and you will realize that this is a serious piece of legislation. This bill pro vides that for a man to drive a vehicle along the highway he must have his lights so fixed as to be visible for at least one hundred feet both to the front and rear of said vehicle Legislation of this kind is too drastic. The law does not require any one to do impossibilities, and I venture the assertion, without fear of contradiction, that a law of this kind, if placed on the statute books, will mean serious trouble for a great many people. The gentleman from Allegheny disclosed the true purpose of this bill when he referred to the railroad train. This bill is drawn solely in the interests of the automobile people, and I want to say that I am in favor of it to a certain extent, but we have been during this whole session encouraging the provisions for good roads and the automobile people will derive the most benefit from them. I introduced a bill which has been passed and signed by the Governor, removing these open ditches and culverts on the highways, but I want to say further that the method that was used in getting this bill to its present position does not reflect very much credit on the members of this House.

The question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the committee of conference?

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL TO HON. WILLIAM E. CROW.

Mr. SPROUL. Mr. President, It is certainly a pleasant privilege that I have at the close of this long and important legislative session to address you, Senator Crow, as the spokesman for our colleagues in the Senate of Pennsylvania. It is one of the rewards that comes of long service, and to me it is a pleasure indeed to have the honor of expressing to you, on behalf of my associates here, the appreciation in which you are held by every member, official and employee of this body. To-day, following the custom of the Senate, you are relinquishing the gavel of authority to your successor, and after having for two years directed the proceedings of this great legislative body, you are surrendering to another the responsibilites of the high place of presiding officer of the Senate of Pennsylvania

It is a great thing to have been, by the choice of your fellow Senators, the head of this upper chamber in the lawmaking body of this imperial Commonwealth, but it is a greater thing to have filled this great place so ably, so courteously and so thoroughly that you have earned and held the respect, affection and approbation of every man in the chamber.

The uncertainties of human affairs, the innovations of politics, and the problems of life, make it almost impossible that the same men who have been with you here during the session just closing shall ever again be assembled together, but let me say to you that wherever our inclinations or our fortunes may take us, we will ever remember with gratitude and high regard our association with you, and the kindness and thoughtfulness which have charcterized all of your personal and official relations with us, one and all.

As a mark of our respect and esteem, the members and officers of the Senate have procured a memento, which I am directed to present to you as a token of affection and regard, with the hope that it may be to you a pleasant reminder of your relations with us in the session of 1911, and to your wife, your children and your children's children a testimonial of the honor of your family name. Good friend, in behalf of the Senate I give you this, and with it earnest good wishes and highest regard.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, Senator Sproul and gentlemen of the Senate, I can scarcely be expected to say much on this occasion. I want to express to one and all my sincere appreciation not only for this beautiful and magnificent gift that has been presented, but for the many kindly expressions that have been made by the gentleman who has been elected as the spokesman on behalf of the Senate. Whether or not they are deserved is a matter for you to judge. When I took the office I pledged myself to discharge the duties of this position with fairness and with fidelity. I have endeavored to the very best of my ability to carry out that pledge. I want to thank the members of the Senate, one and all, without any regard to party or creed, for the uniform courtesies that they have extended to me during the trying hours of this session. For myself and for those who are nearest and dearest to me, who will have the privilege and pleasure of participating in the joys of the possession and use of this gift, I extend to you my sincere thanks.

Mr. NULTY. Mr. President, I want to say on behalf of my friends on this side of the body that we have been treated with respect and courtesy, and I move that a rising vote of thanks be extended to the retiring President pro tempore of the Senate.

Mr. HALL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was unanimously agreed to.

PRESENTATION OF GAVEL BY CHIEF CLERK TO HON. WILLIAM E. CROW.

Mr. FOX. Mr. President, I am requested by the Chief Clerk of the Senate of Pennsylvania as an expression of the devotion and regard which he has for the President pro tempore of this body who has just left the Chair to present to him this gavel. I do so with very great pleasure.

Mr. CROW. Mr. President, Senator Fox, and gentlemen of the Senate: Because of the close personal relationship that existed for so many years between the Chief Clerk of the Senate and myself, I can scarcely find language to express my appreciation of this gift. I will do so personally to him.

PRESENTATION OF TESTIMONIAL BY APPROBATION COMMITTEE TO HON. CHARLES H. KLINE.

Mr. BALDWIN. Mr. President and fellow Senators: As we arise at the closing hours of this session we realize fully that many warm friendships and pleasant associations have been formed. We have been meeting for the past five months. During this time it is possible that some contention and honest differences of opinion have arisen, but at this time when we are about to separate all differences and contentions are forgotten and pleasant memories and kind regards for our fellow Senators take possession of our mind. If I could say so and be modest, I would venture this assertion, that there is no legislative body that I would sooner be associated with than the fifty men who make up the Senate of Pennsylvania; they are congenial, agreeable, friedly, capable, the best fellows that I know. Of course, in our associations here we have become more intimately associated with certain Senators than with others. This may have come from our service on the same committees, but I think rather it comes from that natural cause that kindred spirits always get together. We realize that the most important work of this Senate is the work that is done in committees. It was my good fortune two years ago and at this session to serve upon the same committee as Senator Kline, of Pittsburg. We know that the duties and responsibilites of the Appropriation Committee are probably greater than those of any other committee in this Senate. Almost from the beginning of the session he has to begin to make his visitations over the State, and a little later he is holding hearings and conferences, studying, figuring and planning how to hand out this money to the different institutions that are so deserving of it. I want to say to the Senators that I believe at this session this duty has been even more arduous than in the past, for the reason that the Chairman of the Senate and House committees have tried to carry out the wishes of our Governor by keeping these appropriations within our revenues. That they have made honest, earnest, conscientious endeavor to do this we thoroughly believe, and I believe in a reasonable way that they have succeeded. It is my pleasant duty, and it has been suggested by some of the members of the Appropriation Committee at this time, upon the part of that committee to present to our very good friend Charley, the Chairman, a slight token of our esteem, our regard, our friendship and great affection. We know that he will not value it from any intrinsic value it has in itself, but from the esteem, friendship and regard of those members of the committee who present him with this gift.

I say to you gentlemen that none of us would think half as much of being a Senator of Pennsylvania if it were not for the friendships and associations. If it would not be out of place on the part of that Committee, I would like to quote a few lines from James Whitcomb Riley, as representative of our friendship to our good Chairman and also as a representation of my personal friendship for our Senator from Pittsburg.

When a fellow ain't got a cent
And is feeling kind of blue,
And the clouds are dark and heavy
And won't let the sunshine through,
It's a great thing, Oh, my brother,
For a fellow just to lay
His hand upon your shoulder
In a friendly sort of way.

It makes a man feel good,
It makes the teardrops start,
You sort of feel a flutter
In the regions of your heart.
You can't look up and meet his eyes,
You don't know what to say,
When a hand rests on your shoulder
In a friendly sort of way.

Oh, this world is a curious compound,
With its honey and its gall,
With its cares and bitter crosses,
But a good world after all;
And a good God must have made it,
Leastwise that's what I say
When a hand rests on my shoulder
In a friendly sort of way.

Senator Kline, on behalf of the Appropriation Committee take great pleasure in presenting these gifts. They represent our esteem, our regard and our friendship.

Mr. HALL. Mr. President, I believe it my duty to endorse everything that has been said by the gentlemen who have preceded me. In reference to Senator Crow and the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee. I want to say of Mr. Crow that he has been absolutely fair in all his treatment of this side of the Chamber. I agree with every thing that has been said. As for our Appropriation Chairman, Mr. Kline, he knows I am his friend. He has been fair with all of us, and I just want to add the testimony of his side of the House endorsing everything that has been said about both of them.

Mr. KLINE. Mr. President and fellow members of the Senate: In the same language of the Honorable and esteemed Senator from Potter, as James Whitcomb Riley would say, "statement of this character kind of makes a fellow feel he has some friends after all," and I know that the members of the Senate of Pennsylvania appreciate what a gigantic task the Chairman of the Appropriation Committee has if he desires to do his duty, and that is, make the Senators of the Senate of Pennsylvania do their duty, that is, legislate, and not make a legislator as well as executive officer, of His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth. I assure you my friends, that if you have been cut and have not received the amount that you claim you should have received. I know that you fully appreciate the task, and further that you are broad enough as men of affairs to realize that we try to do the best we can, and when we do the best we can the world can ask no more, and, my friends, this is the way you show your gratitude to me for the work that I have tried to accomplish to the best of my ability. Let us always remember in walking down the pathways of this great life here below, that gratitude is the sweetest flower that buds, blossoms and spreads its perfume in the garden of the human heart; and further permit me to say that words are inadequate to express my appreciation of the token of honor and esteem in which I have been held this day, and, gentlemen, permit me to say in conclusion that I will cherish this magnificent token to my last days here on this earth below.

J. H. ZERBY, Chairman.
WILLIAM H. ENT, Secretary.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Woodward, presents the report of the committee of conference on House Bill No. 1119.

The Clerk read the report as follows:

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 1119.

To the members of the Senate and House of Representatives:

We, the undersigned committee of conference on the part of the Senate and House of Representatives, for the purpose of considering House Bill No. 1119, entitled "An Act making an appropriation for the payment of services and expenses of fire wardens and those assisting in the extinguishing of forest fires," beg leave to submit the following as our report:

CHARLES H. KLINE,

F. E. BALDWIN,
Committee on the part of the Senate.

JAS. F. WOODWARD,
FRANK J. KLUMPP,
W. F. WHITMAN,
Committee on the part of the House of Representatives.

An Act making an appropriation for the payment of services and expenses of fire wardens and those assisting in the extinguishing of forest fires

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the sum of sixty thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary be and the same is hereby specifically appropriated for the payment of services and expenses of fire wardens and those assisting in extinguishing forest fires for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and eleven

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the committee of conference?

Mr. AILMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know what kind of fire wardens these are that we are proposing to pay for before I would like to sanction the payment of this money. Not long ago we had a fire, and a gentleman met one of these wardens on a train, and this man said to him, "How do you go about putting out a fire anyhow?" The fire warden is the man who asked the question. The saw mill man didn't have time to explain the facts to the fire marshal, but while the warden was wondering how to put it out some one else was doing the work. Just a little while ago you killed a most practical measure for preventing forest fires. I think it a waste of state money when you refuse to hold corporations responsible or men who kindle fires or who are the cause of their being started, and then pay $60,000 to incompetent fire wardens to put fires out who don't even know how to do it.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the committee of conference?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows viz:

On the question,

Will the House adopt the report of the conference committee?

Mr. AILMAN. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, I am very sorry to feel called upon to get up in these closing moments to make a speech on this conference report. All I want to say, to use a very slang expression, is that the farmers have been getting a very raw deal on the road question. In the last few months I have had it said to me, "You farmers went on and spent a million two hundred thousand dollars and have taken that money out of the Treasury, and you now come here and complain that you are not getting as much as you asked for."

If the township roads have received any such sum in the last two years or four years I would like to see the man who got it. If there is anybody here representing townships that have gotten one cent from the State for township roads in the last three years, I hope he will get up and tell it. I was at a great loss to understand what was meant, and I found out that it was because we had passed a deficiency appropriation for some six hundred thousand dollars to pay a debt that the State promised and contracted for, that you promised to us in the most sacred way you possibly could on the statute book of the Constitution, that every township that would abolish the road tax the sum of fifteen per cent. would be paid by the State Treasurer, but you did not do it, and we passed this appropriation to keep that promise. What would you think of me if I would deal that way with you in a store, and I would come to you and I would pay an old debt and you would want some little assurance as to the future, and I would rise up in my dignity and say, "Look what I paid you this morning!" Two years ago the Legislature took another step forward in the line of promises. I said "promises" because that is all the step forward they took. They promised us the sum of fifty cents on every dollar raised in the township, which would take at least one million and a half per year. We passed that in the House here. It went over to the Senate and they knocked half a million off and the Governor knocked another half million off, and that put us back just where we started, and you think us unreasonable when we come in here and insist that you keep your sacred promises. This was in 1909. The two bills are about the same. That bill promised three millions of dollars and this bill promises three millions of dollars. Our friends in the death chamber cut it down a half million dollars and the conference committee cut it to one million dollars, which is one-third of what you are not only morally but legally obligated to give us. If the party in power, the party in majority, can stand that I think we can, and you may consider that I speak with braggadocio, or whatever you please, but I stand here this morning and speak not alone for one farmer but for five hundred thousand of them. If you can afford it, we can afford to make it a campaign issue for the next two years, and we will preach this question from Dan to Bersheeba throughout Pennsylvania. Our Harrisburg friends are congratulating each other every time they meet in the last twenty-four hours on this beautiful park we are going to have here in the future. I like it just as much as anybody else. You have promised them a little appropriation of one hundred thousand dollars a year. Since you treated us this way on the road proposition, don't you be quite so rapid to spend that out of your own pocket, because it will not be available when you come to reach for it, and if they have deprived us of this money in the matter of roads they might deprive you of it on the Capitol Park scheme.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentlemen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Juniata, Mr. Ailman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. AILMAN. I will.

Mr. WOODWARD. Do you not know how much money has been appropriated for road purposes this year?

Mr. AILMAN. Yes, sir, I think so. I think three million dollars, under the Sproul bill. Two millions for the State roads and one million under the Jones bill.

Mr. WOODWARD. For the information of the gentleman from Juniata, Mr. Ailman, I would state that the appropriation this year for road purposes that will be taken from the current revenues during the next two years will amount to $6,500,000, and I also wish to inform the House that under the provisions of the Jones act $1,707,000 will be taken from the revenues during the next two years.

Mr. AILMAN. The House will of course understand that these millions they are going to pay are for old debts, for paying old debts and current expenses for the next two years. That is all we are getting out of the appropriations this year. In the General Appropriation Bill last night we appropriated two hundred and fifty thousand dollars for some road away down in the southern southwestern corner of the State. I do not know where it is or what it is for. Just what use that road is in the State I have not been informed, and I am too obtuse to see. It was said it was a national road, and that it was a permanent road, and that they will not have to make this appropriation again. If you have ever built any roads in your county that are peramanent I would like to see them, because the best of roads you ever saw wear out in a few years. If we are defeated in our efforts with the conference committee we will take it to the people and see what they have to say about it.

The question recurring,

Will the House adopt the report of the committee of conference?

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives draw his warrant on the State Treasury in favor of each of the above members for the sum opposite their respective names.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE ON HOUSE BILL NO. 627.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer a motion at this time.

The SPEAKER. The motion will be read by the Clerk.

The motion was read as follows:

Moved that the vote by which House Bill No. 627 (Senate No. 100), entitled:

An act providing for the appointment by the district attorney in counties having a population of over one million and less than one million five hundred thousand inhabitants of a chief county detective an assistant county detective and special county detective defining their duties fixing their salaries and authorizing the payment of the same together with necessary traveling expenses by the county failed on final passage on Tuesday last be reconsidered.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, in order that there be no misunderstanding in relation to this bill, I desire to say just a word. In 1905 the Legislature of this Commonwealth passed a detective act which was applicable to Allegheny County alone. The limits of the county were fixed at from five hundred thousand to one million inhabitants. That act was passed based upon that population, and under the act a detective bureau was established whereby ten detectives were provided for such counties and at the counties' expense, and in 1907, on account of the increased population, an amendment was made to the original act, leaving the population the same but increasing the detective force from ten to fifteen. By the last census Allegheny County has exceeded the one million mark, so that to-day there is no law which provides for the maintenance or keeping of that detective bureau. Now the members of this House are perfectly familiar with the fact that we have passed many of these acts during this session in order that certain conditions could be met. Now in this case I want to be perfectly frank with the members of this House. I felt at the beginning of the session that this was not necessary, but I examined the law in relation to the matter and I find that it is, and that unless this bill is reconsidered the people in Allegheny County and the outlying districts will have absolutely no police protection, because we will have no provisions by which we can keep that force of men necessary for the preservation of place in that county. When we found that out we went to some of you personally in order to have your support in this matter. We come to you and asked you to allow us to have this bill reconsidered and pass it, because it does not cost the State one cent, but will be paid by the taxpayers of Allegheny County.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. Speaker, when this bill was first presented to the House I was under the impression that it provided simply for an increase in the detective force in Allegheny County, and I felt that it was unnecessary, but since Mr. Allen and Mr. Alter have discovered that Allegheny County will be without a detective force if this bill does not pass I withdraw my objections, and I now ask the members of this House to pass this bill.

Mr. MAURER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALLEN. I will.

Mr. MAURER. Is it not a fact that there are vacancies now in your force that have not been filled?

Mr. ALLEN. There are two, and they have been vacant for some months. It was believed, Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, by the district attorney that, inasmuch as Allegheny County had passed beyond the one million mark, that it had no right to employ anybody else, because they had no law for it.

Mr. MAURER. I do not understand why if they have these vacancies for the last two months they do not make these appointments, and why they come here and ask for more. There seems to be something else back of it all and Mr. Allen's explanation was not satisfactory to me that the population would have anything to do with the law as it now stands.

Mr. McINERNEY. Mr. Speaker, as far as Mr. Allen's arguments are concerned it is just within the last few days that he has changed his mind. As far as Allegheny County is concerned I do not believe that they want this force there. We have to go over to Scranton whenever we need detectives and I ask the members of this House to vote this measure down.

Mr. ALLEN. In answer to the gentleman, I want to say that a wise man changes his mind sometimes, but a fool never.

Mr. ALTER. Mr. Speaker, I had hoped this session might adjourn without any further clashing of opinions on the part of the Allegheny County delegation. But this is a serious matter. The simple question before the House is just as it has been stated by my colleague, Mr. Allen.

Unfortunately we find ourselves in this position: That unless this bill which provides for an increase in our detective force, an increase which I believe to be justified and necessary, because I have confidence in the district attorney who says it is necessary, unless this bill passes then until the meeting of the next Legislature the county of Allegheny will be absolutely without a detective force. Now the gentleman from Philadelphia may not think that this is a matter of importance because in their city the city is practically the whole county and they can rely upon their city detective force, but in Allegheny County outside of the city we have a population of over five hundred thousand with no city detectives to look after it, and experience has shown that in the administration of justice these county detectives are an absolute necessity. Under the act of 1905 there were ten county detectives provided for and under the act of 1909 five additional. Because that act of 1909 applied to counties with a population between five hundred thousand and a million and because we have outgrown the one million class we now find ourselves in this position, that if we do not pass this bill every county detective will have to be discharged and until the next session we will have no county detective force. I hope in view of this question that the members who may have some doubt as to the necessity of the increased force as called for in this bill, will vote for the bill in order that we may overcome this difficulty. I also want to say to my friend from Berks that the county detective force of Allegheny County has never in this history of its existence been employed in connection with any strikes or labor trouble of any kind whatsoever. It is purely a detective force used in the administration of justice in the county of Allegheny.

The question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I desire at this time to call up House Bill No. 378 (Senate No. 301), on yesterday's postponed calendar, entitled

A joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth allowing counties cities boroughs townships school districts or other municipal or incorporated districts to increase their indebtedness

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is this, that we have no calendar nor no file folio of bills on our desks and cannot conduct legislative business.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. It is my opinion that we are still acting upon the legislative day.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. The gentleman is not correctly informed.

The SPEAKER. The Chair decides that the point of order taken by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, is well taken.

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I appeal from the ruling of the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will vacate and will call Mr. Hecht to the Chair.

Mr. HECHT in the Chair.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. J. R. K. Scott, appeals from the decision of the Chair upon the point of order raised by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott;

On the question,

Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the decision of the House?

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker, in support of my appeal from the decision of the Chair upon the point of order that we are without a calendar and therefore not a legislative body I hold that the decision of the Chair is entirely illogical. This House adjourned at twelve o'clock last night and at one o'clock this morning reconvened for the last legislative day of this session. The resolution of the House was to adjourn this day, the twenty-fifth day of May. We are a legislative body. We are a legislative body for the transaction of legislative business. When we took our recess at five o'clock this morning until ten o'clock this morning, we did not adjourn, we merely took a recess in this present legislative day. We started at one o'clock this morning. When we left this legislative hall we left it while we were still acting in our legislative duties. We are on the same day in our calendar and bills. We come back here and proceed along with our legislative work and the point of order raised by the gentleman from the other side that we cannot proceed because there is no calendar upon the desks is not well taken. If our calendar has been removed in our absence, we don't know by whose hands, that fact does not alter the fact that we are still working in the same legislative day. I appeal from the decision of the Chair as being illogical. If such rules could exist there would be no security in the operation of the legislative body in the transaction of business. Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, the legislative calendar is still before the House and I therefore ask that the appeal that has been taken from the decision of the temporary Speaker of the House will be sustained.

Mr. S. B. Scott. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House——

POINT OF ORDER.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point.

Mr. ALLEN. Mr. Speaker, my point of order is that this question is not debatable.

The SPEAKER. The Chair decides that the point of order taken by the gentleman from Allegheny is well taken.

Mr. S. B. SCOTT. I desire that the Speaker shall read rule three before making his decision.

The SPEAKER. The Chair withdraws his decision and recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott.

Mr S. B. SCOTT. My colleague from Philadelphia has as usual made an elaborate speech, but missed the point. This is a new legislative day, May 25, the day upon which we adjourn. Now there never has been a calendar printed for May 25th. We, of course, can consider the conference committee reports, but that does not require a calendar, but when the calendar printed on the 24th day of May expired there can be called up no business because there is no calendar or no files on the desks. According to parliamentary ruling the position I have taken is impregnable

Mr. HOWARD. Mr. Speaker, I respectfully submit that this bill can be called up. We always have a right to refer for the information of the members to the location and the number of the bill on the previous day's calendar. Under the rules, we have a right to act on bills after those bills have been printed and put on our desks. I respectfully submit that we can act on this bill. This is a reconsideration of it. The members ought to have this bill on their desks. The bill was delivered and printed and was put on our desks. We had it to act upon and it is natural now to reconsider our vote on it. I think this bill is properly before the House.

Mr. RONEY. I submit that the gentleman cannot call up the bill at this time, unless the bill is actually on the desks of the members

Mr. STEIN. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that these hair-splitting technicalities are entirely uncalled for. I am thoroughly informed myself on this matter and if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. S. B. Scott, will take the trouble to send for the bill as others have done I think we can proceed in this manner. I am perfectly willing to furnish him with my copy of the bill.

The question recurring,

Shall the ruling of the Chair stand as the decision of the House?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. S. B. SCOTT and Mr. WALLACE were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the decision of the Chair reversed.

Agreeably to order,

The House resumed the final passage and consideration of House Bill No. 378 (Senate No. 301), entitled:

A joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth allowing counties cities boroughs townships school districts or other municipal or incorporated districts to increase their indebtedness

The question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, this resolution which is now before the House is a resolution that was offered by Senator Tustin, of Philadelphia. It has passed the Senate and is now before the House for the purpose of amending a section of the Constitution allowing the borrowing capacity to be raised from 7 per cent. to 10 per cent. in the municipalities of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. After this resolution passes this House, if it should pass, it must come again before the next Legislature, and after having passed the Legislature it must be submitted to the people and they must pass upon it by their votes before it becomes a matter of constitutional amendment. When this resolution was originally before the House it was objected to by one of the gentlemen of the House on the grounds that it would cost the Commonwealth two hundred dollars for the purposes of advertising this constitutional amendment. That object is removed because in this present Legislature we have passed three or four resolutions for Constitutional amendments, all of which will be advertised at the time of this advertisement, and therefore the increased expense would be trifling, but Mr. Speaker, and gentlemen of the House, it would be unfair for the members of this House to vote down this resolution for two reasons: first, because it is good legislative practice to allow a resolution of this character to pass the first Legislature which gives the people notice for two years to decide whether or not they want the resolution passed by the second Legislature and then submitted to the people. The same thing was done almost unanimously. The resolution made a Constitutional change. This amendment was passed and due notice given to the people and when it came the second time to this House it met its defeat. No harm can come from this House passing this amendment, and I ask the members of the House to vote for this measure. A resolution offered by the gentleman from Allegheny recently applied to all of the districts outside of the city of Philadelphia. Now all that we ask in Philadelphia is to have the same question submitted to the people of that city to say whether or not Philadelphia wants the right to have her borrowing capacity extended from seven to ten per cent.

We are a progressive city. We are becoming one of the greatest cities of this nation and this legislation is a step in advance, a step in the right direction. We have been called upon editorially to pass this legislation which is almost unanimously supported by the press of Philadelphia and we have been abused by our refusal to pass it. I cannot understand the position of the gentleman from Germantown. I cannot understand if he is here to advance the interests of his constituents why he opposes this bill. He lives in a section where the man of wealth lives. They are the men who to a great extent will benefit by the advancement of the city of Philadelphia. He does not know the feeling of his constituents when he comes here opposing this measure. I also cannot understand the position of the young man from South Philadelphia, the section down along the wharves. There is a great deal of money spent in his district and I cannot understand why he should want to ask the members of this House to vote down this measure which means so much to his city. If there are two men in this House who ought to be glad to support this measure they are the gentleman from Germantown and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Roney, and not the gentleman from the 14th ward, Mr. J. R. K. Scott, who gets none of the benefits of it.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. J. R. K. Scott.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. J. R. K. Scott, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. I will.

Mr. R. J. BALDWIN. I would like to know whether or not it is not a fact——

Mr. J. R. K. SCOTT. I thought the gentleman desired to interrogate me.

MR. R. J. BALDWIN. Maybe the gentleman from Philadelphia will be glad when I get through.. Isn't it a fact that all of the rural districts throughout the State of Pennsylvania, outside the city of Philadelphia, can borrow for municipal purposes and for county purposes sixteen per cent., while the city of Philadelphia is suffering from the condition of being allowed to borrow only nine per cent., with the extra two per cent. allowed for the School Code? If that is a fact, I think all of the rural members should support the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. J. R. K. Scott.

MR. S. B. SCOTT. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, in all my legislative experience I have never seen such an attempt to rush through a piece of legislation as has been done in this case. This thing has been on our calendar for weeks. When it came before us first we defeated it. It is now called up as a last dying attempt to get it past the House. Last night I feared just such an attempt and remained until the last. Otherwise I might have gone home, like many of the members did. Let us speak upon the merits of this bill for a moment. It is not true that this measure is demanded by the people of Philadelphia. We have the same borrowing capacity as the rest of the State, and a change is not necessary. I wish to call to the attention of the members of this House that should this amendment pass the borrowing capacity will be raised to thirty per cent.—ten per cent. for the city, ten per cent. for the school district and ten per cent. for county purposes, so that many municipal districts in this State would be bankrupt in a very short time. This Legislature has passed a resolution introduced in this House by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Breitinger, which gave to the city of Philadelphia the unlimited power to borrow. If we pass this legislation we will be in the absurd position of passing one piece of legislation and in the same session passing other legislation which repeals the first.

MR. RONEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to say that this particular resolution does not apply only to Philadelphia, but applies to every rural district. In regard to the argument that this was being passed for the purpose of municipal progress, I desire to say that I stand just as much as anyone for a city beautiful, but I don't want my city bankrupt. I want the city solvent and run on a good financial basis, which will not embarrass the good citizens of this municipality. The resolution which was offered by my colleague, Mr. Breitinger, provided for unlimited means for the borrowing of money for municipal improvements such as wharves, subways and so on, and I ask you to bear in mind in this case what this would mean to the taxpayers of Philadelphia. They would have to be taxed accordingly, and this would work a hardship on the property owners. We do not want this increased taxation. The people from my district do not want this borrowing power increased from seven to ten per cent., and I ask the members to vote against this bill.

MR. V. G. ROBINSON. Mr. Speaker, this question of this very constitutional amendment has been discussed before and voted down. As we are at the present time we have no calendar and we have no bills upon our desks. Is it just to the members of this House to require them to vote upon a question of this importance when we have neither calendar nor the bill from which to ascertain the matter upon which we are voting? I repeat, is it just that this bill should be brought out at this time to be disposed of? In the resolution that was introduced with respect to the other counties of the State and against which I attempted to say something, it at least had the saving clause in it that the resolution should not carry unless it was sustained by the vote of three-fifths of the electors, as I recall it. Is there any such provision in this resolution? The clock has been turned back, and we are beyond the period that has been fixed for adjournment, and it does seem unseemly that this matter should be pressed at this time, and therefore, Mr. Speaker, I move that the consideration of this bill be indefinitely postponed.

MR. DALLAS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER announced that the noes appeared to have it. A division having been called for and less than the majority of the quorum having voted in the affirmative, the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

PRESENTATION ADDRESSES.

The SPEAKER. The business of this session has been concluded. The Chair turns over the subsequent ceremony to the honorable gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Harrison Townsend, who will take the Chair.

Chairman TOWNSEND. Gentlemen of the House, I thank you for this greeting. I had prepared an address to make to you gentlemen, but the time has gone by so fast that we have to cut our addresses short. We are here for a specific purpose to-day to do honor to the Speaker and the Clerks of the House who have been so faithful in the performance of their duty. We are all pretty tired. I only want to say that this is a time when we want to be generous and magnanimous and charitable and forget the imaginary slights that you may think have been put upon you. I feel that you all agree with me that this is the time to forget everything of that kind, and we are now here to give everybody, from the high office of Speaker down, the glad hand and say Godspeed. I want to say that this committee, of which I have the honor of being chairman, have a few gifts to present. I wish to say, also, that the speakers are limited to three minutes on account of the lateness of the hour.

I will call upon the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott.

Mr. JOHN R. K. SCOTT. Mr. Chairman, Mr. Speaker, and members of the House of Representatives. I have been selected to present to you, Mr. Speaker, these tokens of our high respect and appreciation of you, as our presiding officer. Mr. Chairman, in presenting these gifts to the Honorable John F. Cox, who has acted as Speaker of this session, we but slightly voice our high respect, our high appreciation, our deep affection for the Speaker of this House. It but slightly bespeaks our great respect for his strong, manly fairness, his impartial decisions and deliberations over our body. This administration will pass down into time as an adminstration of progress. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House, much of the merit of this administration belongs to the Speaker of this House, the Honorable John F. Cox. He has not passed through this session without criticism; no fearless man can pass through his life's work without criticism. Some of us appreciate him most highly; some don't, but as to the future, when we look back on his consistent course in this Legislature of the last session, they will find that he shines out strong in his legislative life, and that he has been the shining star of the session. His loyalty to the fearless, brave man who promised as a candidate to the people of Pennsylvania his integrity, and who has shown to the people of Pennsylvania his breadth, his honesty and his character, the Honorable John K. Tener—because of the Speaker's loyalty to our chief executive, no other star that shines out in the legislative career of this session shines as brilliantly as that of the Honorable John F. Cox. His loyalty to his constituents, his loyalty to his home city, when his home city was attacked by those friends and enemies in their fight for what they thought was right for Pittsburg—it was the guiding hand, the strong, determined stand, the logical position of the Speaker of this House that brought the legislation that we have passed to-day for Pittsburg, which ought to make the Speaker of this House famous in the years to come in his home city of Pittsburg. Mr. Chairman, the loyalty of the members of this House to the Speaker is the cause of our high appreciation of him. When he goes back to his home city, to his neighbors, he may speak of the fact that those of us from another section of the State appreciate this manly man as we met him at the last session before this one. Last session we bade you our good-byes and gave you all our well wishes and we hoped that it might be to your honor and our joy to see you presiding over this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as Governor, but such was not the case. We hope that when you leave us now you will advance onward in positions of honor, and that your people at home will appreciate you as you ought to be appreciated; that your people at home will hear the voices of this House proclaiming their high appreciation of your integrity, and that they will put into your hand greater honor and greater power. We hope, Mr. Speaker, that those who are dear to you will find happiness and long life, with you, and we hope that when you look at these little trifles that this House has presented to you, that you will appreciate them as being of some value, but not of as great value as our love for you.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Dearden.

Mr. ROBERT R. DEARDEN. Mr. Chairman and fellow-members: Occasions like these are always full of tender pathos and sentiment. When men come together, to dwell together, as it were, along common lines, engaged in a common work, inspired by a common mission, especially if that mission be to subserve the interests of the people at large, it is full of meaning; and then when the hour of parting comes at last, when the hand grasp occurs, when the good-byes are recorded, then, it seems to me, that we strike just about the most beautiful side of our human nature—the tender side, the heart side. They find life full of pleasant memories, so many delightful spots and so many sweet cases; they find all that is sweet, even as we find it at our firesides, and whether it be along the lines of victory for some great cause or not, men are welded together, and when at last the hour has come for which they have looked so long, when the good feeling period has come, on an occasion like this, a man is to be very much pitied, in my estimation, whose heart would not be stirred. The associations we have formed here with one another we shall treasure among the most delightful of our lives. I have passed through many similar scenes like this in the legislative halls of this Commonwealth, and I want to say that some of the sweetest associations in my life have been formed in this legislative work. You who are here for the first time will especially remember things that have occurred that will be treasured, and in which you will rejoice. We came together here some five or six months ago all inspired, all realizing keenly how great were our responsibilities to ourselves and to our Commonwealth, and appreciating what was expected of us, and were ready for the fray. Here we are today with our record complete. I want to congratulate every man here among my fellow-members upon the part he has played in this splendid program. Mr. Chairman, I take great pleasure in seconding all that has been said by my good, big-hearted friend, Mr. John R. K. Scott, in paying tribute to the Speaker of this House. I may add just a word to what has already been so splendidly said. It is this: That, while I have not and many others have not always agreed with him or with his rulings, and sometimes rather questioned his apparent want of diplomacy, we have never yet failed to observe that the Speaker tried to do the best he could with the light he had. Mr. Speaker Cox, you have displayed a high order of ability in the chair. We well knew before you entered upon this second round of your administrative duties how able you are as a parliamentarian and as a presiding officer over a legislative body. We now want to congratulate you upon your success during the work of the past session. I hope that your coming days will be full of honor, and we hope for the welfare of your family also, and that is the sentiment of your friends who regard you so well. Mr. Speaker, we hope that prosperity may abide with you, and that your days may be long in the land and that you and yours may have a goodly heritage through all the coming generations, and forevermore.

Speaker JOHN F. COX. Gentlemen of the House, I have never before realized, as I do now, the absolute inadequacy of words to express the emotions of the heart. I am glad that I am limited in making my speech, because I cannot make a speech today. I am only here to thank you gentlemen for these gifts—for their intrinsic value, of course, but also for the seeming fitness of things—the things that are useful. I am here to thank you for the sentiment which prompted these valuable gifts. I appreciate very much more, however, to-day what has been said by the gentlemen who have acted upon your part to make this presentation. Of course, I had expected generous treatment from my distinguished colleague and Republican worker, the eminent gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. John R. K. Scott because we have stood shoulder to shoulder in these matters of organization and party question, and every one would naturally expect that he would say something kindly to me as we take our farewell to-day, but I also very much appreciate what has been said by that other distinguished gentleman, who has not agreed with me in questions of party policies—my old friend with whom I sat in this House a quarter of a century ago, the Honorable Robert R. Dearden, of Philadelphia. (Applause.) I accepted this position as Speaker of this House this time with some misgiving as to what would be the outcome of my administration. Two years ago I assumed the duty under favorable skies. There was no politics in it two years ago. We had a Governor who decried politics in matters of legislation and we have one of the same character now. I realized when I looked over this House and saw the Republican majority so divided, and the Democratic minority here was also divided, and when I saw within these walls those other independent political elements—the Socialist and the Keystoner—I felt then that it would be an herculean task to undertake to preside over your deliberations with perfect satisfaction. I have attempted to preside over the destinies of this House with the purpose of earning the approval of its members, and how far I have succeeded you well know. If I have made mistakes they have been mistakes of the head and not the heart. I can say truthfully that in matters of legislation I have known no party, no faction, and have ever attempted to serve the best interests of this great Keystone Commonwealth of ours. (Applause.) I take home with me the best wishes for all of you. I shall carry memories as long as I live in my heart of hearts. I thank you again, and I wish all of you long life and prosperity. (The Speaker was overcome with emotion, his eyes were filled with tears, and he closed his remarks amidst prolonged applause.)

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eugene J. McAleer.

Mr. EUGENE J. McALEER. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House. It gives me a great deal of pleasure and satisfaction as your representative to say a few words in your behalf to one of the officers of this House who has served all of us so well and so faithfully during this term. Of course, we all know that the Speaker deserves all that has been said in his behalf, but I don't know of a man connected with this House who has given to all of us as much satisfaction on at least three occasions as our friend—everybody's friend—Tom Garvin. He has always been genial and good humored, and nobody has ever seen a frown on his face. You may wonder why I have been selected, on behalf of our committee, to present this token to Tom Garvin. I will tell you why—I am the only man on the floor who has not asked for a verification of the roll call. Mr. Garvin, we esteem you, and we express our love and best wishes to you as long as you live.

Mr. Thomas H. Garvin. Mr. McAleer and gentlemen of the House, I certainly appreciate this gift very highly and accept it with the assurance that it will help to keep ny mind on the members of the session of 1911, and I hank you.

Speaker JOHN F. COX. Gentlemen of the House, I desire to personally present this emblem to you, Mr. Garvin, n appreciation of your faithful service.

Mr. Thomas H. Garvin. Mr. Speaker, I thank you.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Elk, Mr. Flynn.

Mr. JOHN M. FLYNN. Mr. Chairman, it gives me great pleasure at this time on behalf of my fellow-members to bestow, as a slight token of esteem upon the worthy Resident Clerk of this House, the two paintings which we see before us. In doing so I feel that I hope of every member of this body, when I say that I hope, that he will live long to see them grace the walls of his home. During the strenuous days of this session it has been a pleasure to all of us to look upon his smiling countenance, and we would go to him for many favors which he has so cheerfully bestowed. The highest tribute which I can pay him at this time is the fact that, no matter how long his service here, I have always found that in the discharge of his duty as the Resident Clerk he has known no party, neither has he known friends or foes, but has treated all alike. It has been my experience, and I am sure it has been the experience of others, and it will be the experience of every member present, and will be in the days to come, to be able to vouch for this statement.

Mr. Charles Johnson. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House, I thank you.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Juniata, Mr. Ailman.

Mr. JEROME T. AILMAN. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, to me has been assigned the pleasant task of presenting a small token in the shape of a silver set to one of our good friends and fellow servants here. His neighbors and acquaintances call him the Honorable James Moore, but whom we know more familiarly and with no less respect and are pleased to call "Jim Moore." Mr. Moore has distinguished himself by serving in this House as a member for some three terms and for the last ten years has filled different places at the desk of this House. We owe him, not to disparage the merits of any other, as much, if not more, for the fact that the machinery of this House, is moved so smoothly. Everything seems to be in its right place at the right time, and if nobody else looked after it we knew very well that Jim Moore did and would. I can compliment you from the fact that you deserve the bright distinction of being one of the few men who can do things. I need not tell you that there is always a place for people who do things, and the better they can do some one particular thing the better the place. I don't know how the machinery of this House would run if the nestor of it should be taken out of it. Mr. Moore, we ask you to accept this token with fullest appreciation of the members of this House.

Mr. James Moore. Mr. Ailman and gentlemen of the House, I desire to show you that I fully appreciate this gift, not only for the gift itself, but much more for the sentiment that goes with it and I assure you that you have my heartfelt thanks.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Allen.

Mr. GEORGE W. ALLEN. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House, the first time, a little less than five months ago, when I first entered this hall I saw something like a hundred and eighty-four new faces—the faces of members and the faces of a corps of officers, none of whom I knew before. To-day, after spending five or six months, and it seems almost like a dream, because in that time, friendship, and fraternal feeling has sprung up in the hearts of, I believe, almost each one of us for every other. The boys at the desk have all been accommodating and they all seemed to perfectly fit in their place and among those boys is one that for five years has served the interests of this body, always accommodating in anything that you asked for, and if you ask for anything he would know where to find it. This man is unassuming in his deportment and that endears him to everyone of us, and only on behalf of this House and in appreciation of his services, and out of respect for Mr. Meals, the assistant resident Clerk, I take pleasure in presenting to him a watch.

Mr. I. Dale Meals. Mr. Allen and gentlemen of the House, I accept this token with many thanks.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Hess.

Mr. AARON B. HESS. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House, as I arise to take my place on this occasion I am profoundly impressed with the rapidity with which time is speeding by and with the brevity of life itself. A little more than four months ago this House assembled from every community of this Commonwealth. Many of us were strangers to each other and strangers to the duties that devolved upon us. As we paused to learn to know our duty to our fellows the cycle of time sped by so speedily that to-day almost without realizing, we are assembled to say good-bye and to move out along the paths we are wont to travel, and the legislative session of 1911 is but an experience and a memory. May I request you to pause and gaze with me upon the splendor of that memory? The pathway starting amid the winter snow and restlessness of anticipation, leads on into the beautiful valley many flowers of realization, of the grandest uplifts that come to human kind. It has been my experience and I am sure it has been yours that here and there, our lives have been touched by human kindnesses and the inspiration that arises from a thorough knowledge of one's fellows, and as we pause before parting and take a retrospective view the wealth of love and kindness that has been ours strews the path with roses, until we fancy we can see it continuing ahead of us until their fragance and its beauty shall have blended with life in a better world. It is eminently fitting and proper to close an experience such as this by some fitting expression of our appreciation of those about us, and it now becomes my very pleasant privilege to address my remarks to our genial Journal Clerk, Mr. J. E. Brackoney, of Allegheny. In him are combined not only a handsome face and figure, not only a genial and appealing disposition, but rare genius and strict attention to duty. In the midst of the crush of labor he has the rare facility of scattering his wit, which falls like a summer shower upon the thirsty plain, and I now ask him to accept at the instance of this House in whose behalf I present it, a silver coffee set. May he live to use it long.

Mr. J. E. Brackoney. Mr. Hess and gentlemen, I thank you.

The CHAIRMAN. Mr. Hecht, the gentleman from Philadelphia, was to present a token to Mr. De Pierro, but in his absence it gives me pleasure as chairman to present a hunting case gold watch to him.

Mr. Salvatore De Pierro. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House, I thank you very kindly.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Tunis.

Mr. WILLIAM S. TUNIS. Mr. Chairman and fellow-members of the House. Being one who knows how to take orders, in this particular case I will take orders and confine my remarks to the limit—three minutes. I have been assigned a very pleasant duty in presenting to one of the employes of this House a small token. I desire to present to Mr. Henry B. Reilly a hunting case watch. No matter what we may forget about the session of 1911, we will never forget and always bear in mind the man, the ideal man who called the roll.

Mr. Henry B. Reilly. Mr. Tunis and gentlemen of the House, words cannot express my appreciation for this beautiful timepiece that you have presented to me. Whenever I look at this watch I will think of the members of the Pennsylvania Legislature of 1911.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Abbott.

Mr. EDWIN M. ABBOTT. Mr. Chairman and fellow-members. To me this is the most delightful part of this session—that fraternity and true brotherhood seems to exist between the members of this House and the employes. We are aware of the fact that each part is necessary in this great machinery, and I take great pleasure on behalf of your committee to present to our desk clerk, Mr. F. C. Beecher, this token by which he will be able to remember the members of the session of 1911.

Mr. F. C. Beecher. Mr. Abbott and gentlemen of the House, I wish to assure you that I appreciate this present and will always keep it and remember it as a valuable token. I will keep it as a valuable experience in this House.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Jefferson, Mr. Wilson.

Mr. HENRY L. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, gentlemen of the House and ladies and gentlemen, as this session has gone forward we have performed a great deal of work, and I wish to say as one of the members that I appreciate the work which has been done by those who have to keep up the Journal, and I wish to say that one of those who has done his share in this direction has earned the goodwill and approbation of the members of this House. I take great pleasure in presenting Mr. Harry Bonsall this gold watch.

Mr. Harry Bonsall. Mr. Wilson and gentlemen of the House, I thank you.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Warren, Mr. Schofield.

Mr. JOSEPH A. SCHOFIELD. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House. The congenial task has been allotted to me to present to our competent, obliging, dignified and gentlemanly Sargeant-at-Arms a gift as a token of our friendship, esteem and regard. My selection is a peculiarly fitting one, inasmuch as I was born and lived for many years in the old Twentieth ward of Philadelphia, the ward in the City of Brotherly Love in which C. W. Wills resides. We have been together now, gentlemen, for five months; many warm and lasting friendships have been formed, precious memories have been instilled into our hearts which even time cannot efface. We have had disappointments, of course; life would not be worth living if all was sunshine, with no clouds, but regrets have been submerged into oblivion by the joys of good fellowship. Our great regret, however, must ever be that we are as ships that pass in the night, hail, pass and never meet again, and that the paths of many of us will diverge to-day never to be parallel again. All the world loves a man—a strong, self-reliant, manly man, a man who knows his duty and fearlessly performs it, and to show our appreciation of such a man I take unusual pleasure on behalf of the gentlemen of the House of Representatives in presenting to Geo. Wills, our Sargeant-at-Arms, a purse of money and traveling bag in which to carry it.

Mr. George B. Wills. Mr. Schofield and gentlemen of the House, I don't know how I can appreciate it, but every time that I grab that bag I will reflect back to the session of 1911, the same as I did for the token of 1909.

The CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Henry.

Mr. JAMES T. HENRY. Mr. Chairman and fellow-members, it has been so well said that the Speaker has ruled in this session with honesty of purpose and with justice and integrity, and we agree with every word that has been said in behalf of our honored friend, the Speaker of this House, but we must not forget that there was another smiling man, a tall, blue-eyed, silver-headed son of venus, who stood by that desk and told the Speaker when he had forgotten what the next thing was that had to be done. I take great pleasure on behalf of the members of this House to present this token of esteem to Mr. Lightner.

Mr. Jacob Lightner. Mr. Henry and gentlemen of the House, I hope this purse will contain enough to buy a few more smiles, and I thank you for it.

Mr. CHAIRMAN. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McNichol.

Mr. THOMAS F. McNICHOL. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, it has been said that the hour of parting has arrived. I feel safe in saying that there is a feeling of good fellowship, and this House appreciates valued assistance, but I feel that I have been honored when I have been selected to present this token of esteem to the chief of our fleet-footed pages. I am sometimes disposed to start in and become a boy again, and for that reason I take great pleasure in presenting this purse to the chief of our page boys, Mr. Seiler.

Mr. Clarence Seiler. Mr. McNichol and gentlemen of the House, I thank you for this gift.

The CHAIRMAN. I have been requested by the Committee on Education to call upon Mr. Ulerich to briefly address the House.

Mr. Ulerich. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, ladies and gentlemen, a few moments ago a gentleman of this House came to me and asked me to perform a duty—no I will not call it a duty, because it is a very pleasant service. I said no, and I thought that the end of the matter, but it seems he did not. Gentlemen of the House, at the beginning of this session one of the most important pieces of legislation that ever came up before a body of this character was introduced into this House, and our very excellent Speaker appointed a committee of men with a view of performing a duty that was assigned to them, and he appointed as chairman of that committee a western Pennsylvania man whom I knew exceedingly well because he served with me when I was the county superintendent of Westmoreland county. I have reference to legislation which we have commonly referred to as the School Code. Now as a member of that committee I was in a position to see the work that was done, and I consider the work of our chairman foremost in producing one of the most competent pieces of legislation that was ever brought to the attention of this House, and in behalf of the members of that committee I have great pleasure in presenting to you Mr. John S. Carroll part of that silver table service which you see on the table.

Mr. CARROLL. Mr. Chairman, members of the Educational Committee, members of the House of Representatives, and ladies and gentlemen, I feel as weak at this time and perhaps more weak than my brethren who came to you in their acceptance speeches. I want to say this to the members of the Educational Committee that my heart is full of gratitude and I want to thank you who labored so faithfully with me in my efforts to present to this House a School Code in such good form. I want to say to you that I certainly appreciate this gift. I appreciate not only its money value, but also what it signifies when it comes from the hearts of the people who made the gift, in order to show their appreciation of a service rendered. I want to say in behalf of the Committee on Education that I dare say it would be a difficult matter to get together a body of men who would be more zealous in order to make it a success. Whether I made errors in the management of the School Code I do not know, but the real credit of whatever good there is in it belongs to the hard and conscientious work of the members of that committee. I want to say to the members of this House, that I do not think it possible to gather together a body of men who would labor more consistently to accomplish a task than did this one. For almost ten weeks we labored night and day to bring about the desired result. I wish that every member of that committee who is present here now would stand up in order that the members of this House might see just who composed the committee that made possible the introduction of the School Code which was finally passed by the House.

Mr. Thomas H. Garvin. Mr. Speaker, I desire to present to you as Speaker of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, a gavel.

The Speaker (JOHN F. COX). I desire to thank you, but I may not be able to do so as I don't expect to be back again. In this connection, I desire to state that I have remembered our assistant clerk, Mr. Moore, with a chair, but that has been delivered at his home so that it cannot be presented in your presence. When I first came here and acted in the capacity of Speaker, I believed that Mr. Moore was the best parliamentarian in the State. That was my estimate of him two years ago. But since my experience of the session just passed I feel that I can pay a higher tribute to him and I am disposed to say at this time that I think he is the greatest parliamentarian in the United States.

The Speaker (JOHN F. COX) in the Chair.

ADJOURNMENT.

The Speaker (JOHN F. COX). This being the day and hour fixed by resolution of this House for adjournment I now declare the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania adjourned "sine die."

REASONS FOR PARDONS AND COMMUTATIONS, JANUARY 1, 1909, TO JANUARY 1, 1911.

COMMUTATION NO. 1—1909.

January 22, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Philadelphia, at June Term, 1908, George Eells was convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree, and on October 29, 1908, he was sentenced to be hanged.

The applicant, George Eells, was born in Philadelphia, and is now 63 years of age. He is a veteran of the Civil War, and was for many years a police officer. Fifteen years ago he ceased to live with his wife and children, and lived with Ella Paschale, by whom he had three children. He supported both families, and was very devoted to the children by the Paschale woman.

In May, 1907, this woman left him and the children and went to live in the house next door to Eells' house, with an aunt, one Mrs. Endress. A brother of Mrs. Paschale came to 330 Monroe street (Eells' house) to take care of the children. Eells accused the woman of intimacy with other men—particularly with one Frank Jewell, a man as old as himself, who was a brother of Mrs. Endress and the father of a certain Kate Jewell—and accused all these people of furthering that intimacy. They, on the other hand, were insulting and aggravating to him.

On Sunday evening, about 7 o'clock, March 29, 1908, Eells had just come off duty, and was in the parlor of his house. He was there seen by the brother of Mrs. Paschale, trying his revolver, which, as he told the witness, was out of order. He had done this a week previous. Having the weapon thus accidentally in his hand, he went out on the front door steps. At this moment Ella Paschale and Kate Jewell came out of the alley between the adjoining houses. Eells conceived the idea that they were going to meet Jewell. He spoke to them, and they made a taunting reply. He flared up, and fired at them; striking the Paschale woman under the eye, from the effect of which she died, and the Jewell woman in the neck, from which wound she recovered. Mrs. Endress then came out of the alley, and he fired at her, killing her. A fourth shot went wild. All the shots were fired in rapid succession; a fifth cartridge in the revolver was not fired. Eells was then seized by a bystander, gave up his weapon, and was taken in charge by the police. Eells promptly engaged counsel, but little seems to have been done in the way of preparing a defense, and the prisoner's witnesses were subpoenaed on the second day of the trial.

The Board is in receipt of the following letter from the Hon. Robert Ralston:

"Court of Common Pleas No. 5.
Philadelphia, Jan. 19, 1909.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.
(In reapplication of George Eells).

Sirs:—The prisoner was tried before me on June 23, 1908, for the murder of Ella Paschale, and convicted of murder of the first degree. The prisoner, at the time when he killed Ella Paschale, also shot and killed a Mrs Endress, and shot Kate Jewell in the neck. She recovered from the wound. The prisoner's defense was insanity, but the evidence fell short of establishing that the prisoner was insane.

The prisoner is a man about sixty-two years old. He had been on the police force for many years. On the trial, it appeared that the prisoner had left his wife some fifteen years ago, and had lived with Ella Paschale until some time in May, 1907, and had three children by her. Ella Paschale left him on account of quarrels she had with him, and went to live in the adjoining house. The prisoner became very jealous of her, and believed she was going with other men. His companions and those who came in contact with him, noticed a great depression of spirits and much worry about his domestic affairs. On the night when the crime was committed, the prisoner was in a state of jealous rage, which was the result of a long period of brooding over Ella Paschale. He apparently believed at the time, when he shot her, that she was going to meet another man. His motive for shooting Mrs. Endress and Kate Jewell appears to have been because Ella Paschale lived with them and they had taken her part.

The appeal for clemency, I understand, is based upon the man's age, his long and excellent record on the police force, and the fact that he had, by long brooding upon his troubles, gotten into a very depressed and excitable state of mind.

At the request of the prisoner's counsel, I have set forth the above facts for the information of the Board.

I am, with great respect,
Your obedient servant,
ROBERT RALSTON."

———I have written the above because I deem the present case one which should be submitted for the consideration of your Honorable Board.

ROBERT RALSTON."

The Board is also in receipt of the following letter from the Hon. Mayor Sulzberger with reference to the case:

Court of Common Pleas No. 2.
Philadelphia, Dec. 29, 1908.

To the Board of Pardons.

Gentlemen:—At the hearing of the rule for new trial in the matter of the conviction of George Eells, I sat with the trial Judge, the Honorable Robert Ralston, and with Judge Magill.

We all concurred in the propriety of the verdict and judgment of murder in the first degree.

Nevertheless, it was then and still is my impression, that the case was a proper one to present to the Board of Pardons, in order that it, as the proper tribunal, might investigate whether, under all the circumstances, there was room for grace by way of mitigating the severity of the punishment.

Very respectfully yours,
MAYER SULZBERGER."

In view of the fact that the applicant is of advanced age; that by long and faithful service he had established an excellent record as an officer; that being a policeman, he had the right to carry a weapon, which at the time of the shooting was accidentally in his hand; that by long brooding over his domestic troubles he had gotten into a very depressed and excitable state of mind—as set forth in the letter of the learned trial Judge—that there was no time for premeditation; and in the heat of passion, roused by the taunts and insults of the women, he fired the deadly shots—the Board respectfully recommends that the death sentence imposed upon the said George Eells be commuted to that of life imprisonment.

COMMUTATION NO. 2—1909.

January 21, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for Fayette County, at June Term, 1907, William L. Cate was convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree, and on August 6, 1907, the defendant was sentenced to be hanged. The Supreme Court reversed the judgment of the court below, and a venire facias de novo was awarded. The case again came to trial, the defendant was convicted of murder in the first degree, and on October 20, 1908, was sentenced to be hanged. On December 7, 1908, application for commutation of sentence was filed.

The applicant is a native of Tennessee, and is now about fifty years old. He was occupied there as a miner and as a watchman. While engaged in the latter employment, during a strike he was twice assaulted; the first time receiving a serious injury to his forehead, and the second time receiving a serious injury to his head, just above the ear. These injuries made pronounced depressions in the skull, and from then Cate has been a continuous sufferer. Cate came to Pennsylvania in 1905, and in September of that year was elected as the police officer of Bellevernon. He was regarded as an efficient officer. On account of failing health, he resigned in October, 1906, and was succeeded by Thomas L. Guess, whom Cate had recommended for the place. Cate was afterwards, for a brief period, a policeman at Monessen. A recurrence of spells of epilepsy caused him to abandon this character of employment, and he sought and obtained work in the coal mines near Bellevernon.

On May 15, 1907, the day prior to the homicide, Cate, having suffered an epileptic attack, left his work about noon, went to his home in West Bellevernon, and remained there. All that night he walked the floor, suffering great pain. The next morning at about ten o'clock, having eaten no breakfast, he crossed the river to Bellevernon, and during the succeeding three hours drank from ten to fifteen ten-ounce glasses of beer. While there he had an altercation with a bartender, whose enmity he had incurred while he was a policeman. The bartender called Cate a vile name, which seemed to be the spark needed to blaze the embers of his rage, and he completely lost control of his passions. He went to his home, and it was proven that he was intoxicated. Securing a revolver, he returned to town and again made the rounds of the saloons. Because of his condition, he was refused further drinks, and, soon after two o'clock was arrested by Policeman Guess for drunkenness. Several of the State's witnesses testified that Cate was "very drunk." He was taken to the lockup, where, while being searched, he drew a revolver, and then shot Guess, the bullet entering the forehead.

Cate and Guess had always been friends, the former frequently assisting the latter in making arrests on Saturday nights, and at other times when unemployed. No motive for the homicide was apparent.

In support of the application for a commutation of sentence, nine of the trial jurors of the second trial unite in a petition praying that mercy be shown and that a recommendation of commutation of sentence be made.

The Hon. E. H. Reppert, one of the trial judges, has written the Board as follows:

"Uniontown, Pa., Nov. 16, 1908.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sirs:—Cate, in appearance and bearing, is a man of very inferior mental equipment, and was so found on an examination by disinterested representatives of the State Board of Charities, made by my request. His condition was further aggravated by his life and intemperate habits. At the time of the homicide he was quite drunk, the question for the jury being simply the degree to which his intoxication affected his responsibility for the act.

It might well have been a very serious question whether a verdict of second degree was not more in accord with a close analysis of the evidence. Under all the circumstances, it is my judgment that this application for a commutation to imprisonment for life is meritorious; and, in all probability, if the jury had possessed the power to render such a verdict, they would have so done.

Very respectfully yours,
E. H. REPPERT."

The Hon. Robert E. Umbel, the judge presiding at the second trial, writes the Board as follows:

"Uniontown, November 16, 1908.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons, Harisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—In re-application of William L. Cate for commutation of death sentence to life imprisonment, I beg to submit the following in his behalf, viz:

I endorse and approve the second reason urged in his petition. I have given this case much thought and careful consideration. It has been tried twice in the Oyer and Terminer of Fayette County, with the same result each time, and the juries trying the case under the evidence submitted could not be severely censured for the verdicts rendered, and in my opinion if a dozen trials should be had in this case, the result would unquestionably be either a verdict of murder in the first degree, or a verdict of not guilty on account of the defendant being irresponsible or insane at the time he fired the shot that killed his victim; which latter, in my judgment, is what the verdict should have been, and then, under the statute, we could have taken the necessary steps to have him confined for life. The means now urged and proposed will accomplish the same purpose, and perhaps more effectively and better for the protection of the community. I therefore join, with all the force my recommendation can carry, in the prayer of the defendant, that your honorable Board give his application favorable consideration.

ROBERT E. UMBEL."

The second reason of the applicant's petition, to which Judge Umbel refers, is as follows:

"He is a man, naturally, of low mentality and uneducated. He was injured twice on the head several years ago, which produced marked indentations in his skull, have so affected his brain as to make him a subject of epilepsy. The eight physicians called as witnesses in the case testified that, in their opinion, your petitioner, at the time he fired the shot that killed the deceased, was irresponsible. He is in poor health."

The Board is also in receipt of a letter from Thomas H. Hudson, the District Attorney of Fayette County, who represented the Commonwealth at both trials of Cate. The letter reviews the case at some length, and concludes as follows:

"I think the ends of justice, however, would be fully met by commuting his sentence to life imprisonment, and I most respectfully request your Honorable Board to make such commutation."

Because of the reasons presented in the letters of the trial Judges, and the recommendation of the District Attorney, the Board respectfully recommends that the sentence of death imposed upon the said William L. Cate be commuted to that of life imprisonment.

Lieutenant Governor.

COMMUTATION NO. 3—1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Philadelphia County, at September Sessions, 1907, Raphael Perrie was convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree, and was by the said court thereupon, December 13, 1907, sentenced to be hanged.

Application was made to this board at the October Session for commutation of death sentence to life imprisonment, which application, after due consideration, was refused. Subsequently, at the January meeting of the board, an application was made for a rehearing in the case, which was allowed, and the case was again argued at the February meeting, when much additional new evidence was produced, thus convincing the board that sufficient doubt exists as to the guilt of the prisoner to warrant a recommendation of commutation of the death penalty to a sentence of imprisonment for life.

The homicide, of which the prisoner was found guilty, occurred on the evening of September 2, 1907, on Baynton Street, Germantown. Joseph Consoli, the deceased, engaged in an altercation with two brothers, James and Raphael Perrie. Four or five shots were fired, and Consoli was killed. James Perrie immediately absconded, and his whereabouts have been unknown to the police ever since. Raphael, the petitioner, was arrested, tried and convicted of the crime.

Since the previous application for commutation was heard affidavits have been secured from nine witnesses, who did not testify at the trial that it was James, and not Raphael, who had the revolver and fired the shots. Affidavits have also been produced from parties living in Lakewood, N. J., stating that James Perrie was at that place within a few days after the shooting, when he admitted that he was fleeing because of a crime he had committed in Philadelphia and with which his brother was charged.

The case as now presented to the board is of such a character as to warrant the belief that sufficient doubt exists of the applicant having been the one who fired the fatal shots, and the board is constrained to recommend to your Excellency the commutation of the sentence of death passed upon Raphael Perrie, the applicant, to that of imprisonment for life.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General.
HENRY HOUCK,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

COMMUTATION NO. 4—1909.

June 16, 1909.

To His Excellency, Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Philadelphia, to No. 384, July Sessions, 1908, Robert E. Brown was, January 26, 1909, convicted on an indictment charging him with murder, and after refusal of a new trial was, March 8, 1909, sentenced to be hanged.

An application for commutation of sentence of death to that of imprisonment for life was filed with us April 12, 1909, and the same was fully heard and considered at the June meeting of the board.

After a careful consideration of the case as presented to us, and having special reference to a letter from Judge Charles B. Staples, of the Forty-third Judicial District, who specially presided at the trial, we recommend that the application for commutation be allowed.

The prisoner, Robert E. Brown, is a young man of about twenty-two years of age, comes from a good family, and prior to the commission of this crime seems to have borne a good reputation. The victim of the homicide was Mrs. Annie Casner, wife of George W. Casner. Before marrying Casner she and Brown were lovers, and were engaged to be married. A quarrel between them led to their separation, and soon afterwards Annie married Casner. Previous to the separation of Brown and the woman there had been illicit intimacy between them, and the woman became pregnant. At the instance of Brown, and, as he alleges, with the connivance of the husband, an abortion was performed. Mrs. Casner, after her marriage, resumed her intimate relations with Brown and finally left her husband. The intimacy between her and Brown was kept up from that on.

Brown being out of employment in the spring of 1908—he was a butcher by occupation—determined to enlist in the United States service. It is alleged that he had been endeavoring to persuade Mrs. Casner to return to her husband, which she declined to do. On the evening of the 24th of June, 1908, the prisoner met the woman on the street, late at night, and had an interview with her, wherein he endeavored to induce her to return to her husband, she resisting his importunity, and shortly after midnight, the woman persisting in her refusal to go back to her hus-nd, and, according to defendant's statement, that he de-ed to keep her from going to the bad altogether while was away from her, and in order, as he avers, that he ght meet her in the future life, etc., he plunged a knife o her heart, from the effect of which she died almost stantly. Brown at once absconded, and soon afterwards is discovered at the house of a relative in the neighbor-od, gave himself up, and admitted the commission of the t.

On his trial the defense was insanity, the allegation be-z that by reason of brooding over his previous relations th the woman, their separation, etc., his mind became balanced to such an extent as to render him irrespon-ole for his acts.

The letter which Judge Staples addressed to the board plains the situation of the case as it appears before the ard, and it is on this letter mainly that we base our commendation for commutation. The letter is as fol-ws:

"o the Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsyl-vania:

(In repetition of Robert E. Brown for Pardon).

Gentlemen:—I presided in the Court of Oyer and Terminer the City of Philadelphia at the trial of this case, in which e defendant, Robert E. Brown, was convicted of murder in e first degree.

Upon a motion for a new trial by the defendant, a rule was anted, and an argument was had in banc, Judges Ralston, artin and I sitting. It was the unanimous decision of that ourt that no error had been committed in the trial of the se, and that the defendant was justly convicted of the crime ith which he was charged, viz: murder in the first degree. hereupon he was called for sentence, and by me sentenced to hung.

In my charge to the jury I instructed them that if they ound from the evidence in the case that the defendant was sane at the time the act was committed, which resulted in e death of the girl killed, they should acquit him; but if they ould not so find from the evidence that they should then nsider whether or not he was guilty of murder in the first murder in the second degree, and, as I could see nothing in e evidence to warrant a verdict of murder in the second egree, I instructed that jury that, in my opinion, they should nvict him of murder in the first degree, if they found from e evidence beyond a reasonable doubt that he had killed er.

I felt it was my duty as judge to charge as strongly as I id, but at the time and since, I have felt that as a man, iewing the acts of a boy, that this is a proper case for par-on and commutation of the sentence of death to life imprison-ent. I do not have any doubt about the defendant's insanity. am clearly of the opinion that at the time he committed the ct he was sane; but from all the evidence in the case, and om the appearance of the defendant during the trial, and t the time of sentence, I am fairly convinced that he was ot accountable to that degree that a man ought to be in order to nflict the punishment of death for an act like that for which e was convicted.

I know it was a horrible crime, and I have no such mawky entimentality as would tend to make me reluctant to do my ull duty in a case which might result in the death punish-ent. But when I am confronted with the age of this boy nd his want of what I would consider strong mind, I think he ends of justice would be well subserved if his sentence ere commuted to life imprisonment; and, for these reasons, hereby recommend to your Honorable Board that if, after a areful consideration of the case, you think it advisable, the entence of death be commuted to that of life imprisonment.

Very respectfully yours,
CHAS. D. STAPLES, P. J.
April 6, 1909. 43rd Jud. Dist. Spec. Presiding."

In view therefore of the foregoing, we recommend that he sentence of death imposed upon the applicant, Robert E. Brown, be commuted to that of imprisonment for life.

Harrisburg, October 20, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of York, to No. 19 January Sessions, 1908, Henry Snyder was convicted, April 28, 1908, on an indictment charging him with the crime of murder. After refusing a motion for a new trial, the said Court, on January 9, 1909, sentenced the said defendant to be hanged. On appeal to the Supreme Court the judgment of the Court of Oyer and Terminer was affirmed, April 26, 1909. The date of execution was fixed for August 3, 1909, but a respite staying the execution until September 21 was awarded. On September 1, 1909, application for commutation was filed with this Board, and a further respite was awarded staying the execution until October 26, 1909.

The application for commutation was heard at the September meeting of the Board, and the case held under advisement until the October meeting; and now, after a thorough and exhaustive examination with regard to the facts and circumstances attending the prisoner's connection with this homicide, and a careful study and consideration of the record before us, we are of the opinion that the application merits our approval, and the Board therefore recommends that the sentence of death passed upon the applicant, Henry Snyder, be commuted to that of imprisonment for life.

The homicide for which the applicant was indicted took place under the following circumstances: The applicant, a young man between twenty-one and twenty-two years of age, with two companions, spent the evening of November 16, 1908, in the city of York. They were all country boys, living in the neighborhood of the village of Pleasureville, some five miles from York. While in York that evening these boys indulged in the use of intoxicants, Snyder drinking six glasses of beer between the hours of 8.30 and 10.30 o'clock. About half past 10 o'clock the three started for their homes in the country, all riding in one buggy. They took with them a quart of whiskey, which the three drank on their way to Pleasureville or within a short time after reaching that place, all within about an hour and a quarter. At Pleasureville these three boys met two other boys, who were neighbors and companions. These last-named two were William Hoover and Kerwin Hoover, brothers, several years younger than Snyder, being about seventeen and eighteen years old respectively. These two Hoover boys were the victims of the homicide. Shortly after this meeting at Pleasureville the first-named two companions of Snyder proceeded on their way, presumably to their homes, leaving Snyder and the two Hoover boys to go their way, which lay in a different direction. The first-named companions of Snyder did not see or hear anything of the fatal occurrence that happened within a few moments after the parting. Very soon after the separation and just after Snyder and the Hoovers had turned a corner in the road, four shots were fired in rapid succession, and about a minute later two more shots were heard. On the following morning the bodies of William Hoover and Kerwin Hoover were found lying in the road just beyond where they had turned off with Snyder. William had a bullet wound back of the right ear and Kerwin had a similar wound in the forehead. Both were unconscious when found, and both died soon afterwards without regaining consciousness.

Snyder was arrested the following day, charged with committing the homicide. He was tried on an indictment charging him with the murder of William Hoover, and although there were no witnesses to the killing, yet the defendant made certain confessions which fixed the deed upon him, and there is no doubt but that he committed the homicide. There is no evidence of any quarrel or altercation, and the actual happenings of this sad affair will never be known. Snyder himself is unable to give any explanation, and seems to have no recollection of what really did take place. He and the Hoover boys were the best of friends, the families living on adjoining farms, and, so far as is known, no possible motive for murder existed.

The following is a concise statement of the reasons advanced in support of the application for clemency:

1. Impaired mentality of prisoner, resulting from epilepsy and other causes.
2. Great intoxication of prisoner when the crime was committed.
3. The crime was committed on a sudden impulse, without consideration or reflection.
4. The prisoner, when the crime was committed, was less than twenty-two years old, and had a very good reputation for peace.
5. Public sentiment favors commutation of the sentence.

The report of competent and reputable physicians who examined this applicant bears out the allegations of impaired mentality of the prisoner to such an extent as to render him irresponsible. His family history shows there was a strong inherited taint of epilepsy and alcoholism. His father was an epileptic until about thirteen years of age. His father had seven brothers and four sisters. One of these brothers was out of his mind at twenty-two years. He had one son who had St. Vitus' dance. Another of these brothers died young from spasms. A third brother was treated in the hospital of the University of Pennsylvania for mental trouble, and he had religious mania. One of the sisters had a child who had St. Vitus' dance. Another sister had a child who died from spasms, and a son who since the trial of this prisoner died a maniac in the State Asylum, and also a daughter who is an imbecile. The prisoner's mother is subect to sick headaches. She had a brother who died young, and another who is a heavy drinker. She has a sister who has a child who suffers with St. Vitus' dance, and a sister who died from spasms. The prisoner's brother Clarence had spasms twice. His paternal grandfather worked at a distillery, and was a steady drinker of whiskey for years. His paternal grandmother had sickheadaches a great deal, and in later life became feeble-minded. There were collaterals on both sides who drank to excess. The personal history of the prisoner, as detailed in this report, shows Snyder to have been an epileptic from infancy. His mind was weak. Although he went to school he could not learn, but was dull and stupid and could not make progress. He could not be trusted to undertake any work alone, but always had to be guided and overlooked. He was not in the habit of drinking, having been intoxicated but once prior to this fatal night, and that some three years before. During his youth he fell from a loaded wagon, and the wheels of the vehicle passed over his head, injuring him very severely and aggravating his mental weakness.

The conclusion of the report of Dr. George E. Holtzappel, which is concurred in by Dr. M. J. McKinnon, who was present at the examination, from which report we glean the foregoing information with regard to the family of Snyder, is in the following terms:

"In short, after a careful consideration of his antecedents, of his own history and of his own physical make-up, we have in him in brief a very marked neuropathic heredity. With the occurrence of both major and minor epileptic attacks until he was seventeen years of age and slight minor attacks since that time, with mental incapacity at school and at home, with an injury to his head, with a minor attack the evening before the alleged murder, and a large amount of beer and whiskey within a few hours before the tragedy of which he is charged—from my knowledge of this case and the natural disposition of epileptics under practically similar circumstances, I believe that Henry Snyder at the time of the tragedy was suffering from an irresistable epileptic impulsion, when he was not able to distinguish right from wrong, and that he is to-day a demented epileptic."

The friendly relations between Snyder and his victims and the entire absence of motive for murder remove the thought of premeditation and malice.

The fouth and fifth reasons above quoted are sustained by a large number of affidavits, letters and petitions on file with our record, showing that the sentiment of the community favors commutation of the death sentence by reason of weakness of mind of the applicant.

Therefore, for the reasons hereinbefore set forth we are of the belief that Executive clemency should be extended this prisoner to the extent of commuting the death sentence to that of imprisonment for life, and we therefore recommend that such commutation be granted the applicant, Henry Snyder.

Respectfully submitted,

Lieutenant Governor.

COMMUTATION NO. 6—1909.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Board of Pardons.
Harrisburg, October 20, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Philadelphia, to No. 1, November Term 1907, Walter Hallowell was, on March 12, 1908, convicted on an indictment charging him with murder. On October 29, 1908, the motion for new trial filed on behalf of the prisoner was overruled, and the defendant was thereupon sentenced b the Court to be hanged. The Supreme Court of the Co monwealth, on March 1, 1909, affirmed the judgment the Court of Oyer and Terminer on appeal. On June 1909, application for commutation was filed with th Board, and this application was finally considered at th October meeting of the Board. Upon due examination int the merits of the case the Board recommends that the a plication be granted, and that commutation of death se tence to that of imprisonment for life be awarded th applicant, Walter Hallowell.

The applicant is a young man of about thirty-one thirty-two years of age. The victim of the crime was young woman named Anna Sabold, of about the same ag as the prisoner. These two persons had known one a other for a considerable time; there are allegations of th existence of an intimacy between them at one time, bu later on the woman seems to have rejected him. The hom cide was committed on the streets of Philadelphia, on th 14th of October, 1907, about 5.30 or 6 o'clock in the a ternoon. The weapon used was a pistol. The first sho slightly wounded the woman, and she fell to the pavemen then the assailant leaned over her and shot her agian a short range, and then threw the revolver at her. She die from the effects of the shooting within a few days. Th prisoner was apprehended immediately on the commissio of the act, and there is no doubt about his guilt.

The reason assigned in the application for clemency i that the prisoner was at the time of the perpetration of th murder, and is now, insane.

On the trial of the case there was medical testimony o both sides of the question of the prisoner's sanity; as wel as testimony of his strange actions and appearances; als of the fact of his having venereal diseases. It cannot b doubted that the actions of the man were peculiar in man respects, and there is grave doubt as to his responsibilit though the jury found him guilty of murder in the firs degree. He appears to be a degenerate, and his miserabl physical condition is largely the result of his unrestraine indulgences.

Judge Ralston, who presided at the trial of the prisone while asserting the correctness of the verdict, concludes tha his is a case where Executive clemency can be properl exercised. The following is a copy of the letter of th Judge, addressed to the Board:

"October 6, 1909.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons, Harisburg, Pa.
(In reHallowell).

Sirs:—I have been asked to express my opinion upon th propriety of extending clemency to the prisoner. Although h was properly convicted, nevertheless his mind was weak an his body shattered by disease—syphillis—he had no adequa motive for the killing, and his condition was very close to th line of insanity recognized by the law as an excuse for crim

After carefully considering the matter I have reached the con clusion that it is one in which your Honorable Board migh very properly commute the sentence of death to imprisonmer for life.

I am, Sirs, Very respectfully,
Your Obdt. Servant,
ROBERT RALSTON,
Trial Judge.

Upon a careful examination of the papers before us, an there appearing to be a serious doubt as to the prisoner' accountability owing to his impaired mentality, and havin due regard to the suggestion of the Trial Judge, we believ that it would be an act of wisdom, as well as of mercy, t extend clemency to this unfortunate convict, and we there fore respectfully recommend that the sentence of death im posed upon the applicant, Walter Hallowell, be commute to that of imprisonment for life.

Respectfully submitted,

COMMUTATION NO. 7.—1909.

December 15, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Clinton, to No. 1, January Term, 1909, Frank Letampo vas convicted on an indictment charging him with murder, and, on April 28, 1909, was sentenced to be hanged. The victim of the homicide was Antonio Mazzani. Both parties were Italians. The murder occurred on the 22d day of November, 1908, in the borough of Renova, Clinton County.

The defendant has applied to the Board for a recommendation to Your Excellency that Executive clemency be accorded him in the commutation of the death sentence to that of imprisonment for life. At our meeting this day we gave a careful hearing to the application, and, after due consideration of the case, we find the application deserving of a favorable endorsement. We therefore recommend that the death sentence imposed upon the applicant, Frank Letampo, be commuted to that of imprisonment for life.

Letampo is now about forty-two years of age. He has been in this country since 1888, and is a naturalized citizen. He is a native of the Province of Salerno. He has lived in Clinton County and the borough of Renova for nearly twenty years, most of the time being in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He is a married man, and has a family of two children, aged respectively nine and seven years. Several months prior to the homicide his wife deserted him, running away with another Italian, a Calabrian. Letampo naturally became suspicious of and inimical to all Calabrians. After his wife left him he and his two children lived with an Italian family in Renova by the name of Curzio; but some time in November, 1908, he had made arrangements with another family to keep house for him at his own house in another part of the town. On the evening of November 22, he, with this other man and woman went to the Curzio house to get the children and move to the Letampo home. At the Curzio place they found a party of Italians engaged in playing cards for drinks. Letampo did not take part in the game, and had nothing at all to do with the players. While he and his friends were there a dispute arose between two of the Italians engaged in the play, and a fight became imminent. The parties quarreling moved to another room, and as they were about coming together near the door leading to the yard Mrs. Curzio stepped between them and separated them. Mazzani passed out or was pushed out the door. Letampo was not a participant in this quarrel in any way, but was attending to his own affairs. He happened to be close by when Mazzani reached the outside of the house and just at that moment a shot was fired by some one, Mazzani was struck by the bullet and left the premises; he died from the effects of the wound within a few days. Mrs. Curzio testified that Letampo fired the shot. Mazzani made statements, which were received in evidence as dying declarations, that Letampo had shot him. Letampo has always stoutly maintained the contrary. It is a significant fact in this connection that another Italian, known to have an enmity against the man whom Mazzani was fighting, disappeared from the locality that night and has not been heard of since. The theory is advanced that this fugitive is the man who fired the shot, and that it was intended not for Mazzani, who was killed, but for the other man with whom he was contending.

After the shooting Letampo and his children and the man and woman who came with him went to Letampo's home, and they all retired to bed. Some time during the night Letampo was arrested, charged with the murder. No weapons were found on him, and he was not known to have had any weapon that evening. No motive whatever is ascribed for his killing Mazzani, other than his hatred for Calabrians in general.

Lack of motive, and the defendant's good reptation, are, in brief, the grounds of this application for relief. They make a substantial foundation on which has been built the structure of a strong plea for clemency.

In his present perilous position the defendant's good reputation proves itself to be of valuable assistance to him. The testimony of his neighbors, of his employers, of his fellow workmen, and of the citizens of Renova generally, is that he has been an exemplary citizen, quiet, industrious, inoffensive, peaceful and law abiding. Public sentiment seems to be overwhelming that the application should be favorably received. The letters and petitions filed with us show that the Judges of the Court, various county and borough officials, the foremen of the different departments of the Pennsylvania Railroad shops where he worked, and a host of neighbors and acquaintances, endorse his plea for commutation.

Judge Hall, who presided at the trial, writes as follows:

"Ridgway, Pa., Nov. 4, 1909.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen:—In re application for Executive Clemency of Frank Letampo, convicted of murder in the first degree in Court of Oyer and Terminer of Clinton County at January Term, 1909, and sentenced to death April 28, 1909, I have the honer to report: That this defendant had been a resident of Renova, Pa., and vicinity for a period of seventeen years prior to the commission of the crime, during all of which time it is universally conceded that he was an honest, sober, industrious, law-abiding and in every way exemplary citizen.

A few months before the crime was committed a native of Calabria eloped with his wife, leaving him with two very small children, of whom he was excessively fond. He seems to have then reached the conclusion that all Calabrians were scoundrels, without any redeeming qualities, and that it would be for the good of society if they were exterminated. There is no doubt that this idea finally became with him an actual obsession.

On the night of the tragedy, the victim, who was a Calabrian, was drunk and offensive, and became engaged in a quarrel. Letampo had no acquaintance with him and no interest in the quarrel, and could have no motive in committing the crime, except the obsession to which I have referred.

There is a universal sentiment in Clinton County that this is not a case in which it is necessary or proper that the defendant should suffer the extreme penalty of the law, and that the ends of justice would be fully satisfied if his sentence were commuted to imprisonment for life, and as I personally fully agree with this opinion I recommend that the death sentence be commuted.

Very respectfully,
HENRY ALVAN HALL,
Trial Judge."

It would seem, therefore, from an examination of this record, and ascribing to the endorsements and recommendations the importance which their character merits, that the case is entitled to merciful intervention on the part of the Executive, and that the clemency sought can with propriety be granted. Accordingly we recommend that the sentence of death imposed upon Frank Letampo be commuted to that of imprisonment for life.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

COMMUTATION NO. 8—1910.

March 16, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Blair, to No. 3, January Sessions, 1907, Rocco Cirrullo was convicted on an indictment charging him with murder. The verdict of the jury was rendered on the 24th day of April, 1907, and on the 5th day of August, 1907, the prisoner was sentenced to be hanged. An appeal to the Supreme Court was entered, but was not pressed, so that the judgment and sentence in the court below was not in any way disturbed.

An application for commutation of the death sentence was filed with this board November 11, 1907. The case was heard at the regular meeting in November, 1907, and held under advisement. At the following January meeting the application was refused, "with recommendation to the Governor not to issue death warrant for the present on the ground of present probable insanity." The case has been pending on our calendar up to the present time. No death warrant was ever issued.

At the meeting held this day the board took up the matter for final determination. After giving the application careful consideration, and believing, by reason of the reports of the alienists on file with the papers, that there exists grave doubt as to the prisoner's sanity, both at the time of the commission of the murder and at the present time, we have concluded to recommend that executive clemency be extended the applicant, Rocco Cirrullo, in commuting the sentence of death under which he now rests to that of imprisonment for life.

The homicide of which the prisoner stands convicted, the murder of his wife, Mary, occurred on the 27th day of December, 1906, at their home in the City of Altoona. The murder was unprovoked and brutal. While his wife was preparing their evening meal, Cirrullo picked up an ordinary table knife and, without warning, fell upon his wife and cut her throat, from the effect of which assault she died soon afterwards. He then, apparently satisfied that he had done a proper act, deliberately gave himself into the hands of the police. He has been in confinement ever since. On his trial, the following April, the only defence advanced was an allegation of insanity. No expert testimony was offered in support of this defence. There was some testimony relating to certain peculiarities and of strange conduct from time to time on the part of the defendant and of hallucinations he entertained with regard to the chastity and faithfulness of his wife. These notions with respect to his wife, it appears, were entirely without foundation. Acting under the impulse of these hallucinations he committed the felony charged. The jury promptly rendered a verdict of first degree murder. Although an appeal to the Supreme Court from the judgment of the Court of Oyer and Terminer was entered, it was not prosecuted, there appearing to counsel not to be any reversible errors in the trial. Pending this appeal, however, an application was made to the Court of Oyer and Terminer for the appointment of a commission de lunatico inquirendo; whereupon the court suggested that an expert on insanity be called on to examine into the mental condition of Cirrullo, and Dr. Morris S. Guth, Superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane at Warren, was notified. He made an examination of the prisoner and reported his opinion to the court. This opinion stated that Cirrullo was then "suffering from degenerative delusional insanity, and was at the time the murder was committed." This report bears date November 4, 1907. Soon after this date the application for commutation was filed. Judge Bell, who tried the case in the Oyer and Terminer, in transmitting to the board the report of Dr. Guth, in his discussion of the report, concludes as follows:

"The theory of the Commonwealth was that Cirrullo was feigning insanity, and nothing mentioned by Dr. Guth, as coming under his own observation, would be inconsistent with that theory. At the same time Dr. Guth is a most eminent alienist, and if his report would cause your Board to doubt as to the sanity of Cirrullo I would not interpose serious objections if you would commute this penalty to imprisonment for life. Doubt as to sanity would not warrant a jury in acquitting or finding a verdict of murder in the second degree, but might warrant the intervention of the pardoning power. But I do most earnestly protest against any mitigation of the penalty further than commutation to imprisonment for life. I regard Cirrullo as a most dangerous man to be at large, and if he were merely confined in an insane asylum he might be discharged or might escape. In my judgment he should at least be securely locked up for the remainder of his life."

After hearing the application in November, 1907, and while holding the case under advisement, the board requested Dr. Woodbury, the Secretary of the Committee on Lunacy of the Board of Public Charities, to make an examination of Cirrullo and report as to his mental condition. Complying with this request, Dr. Woodbury reported to the board, under date of December 10, 1907, as follows:

"* * * As the result of my examination of Rocco Circullo, I find that he is suffering with chronic delusional insanity with hallucinations of hearing, and is passing into dementia." *"

In view of this report the board at the following January meeting refused the application for commutation, but recommended that Your Excellency withhold the death warrant for the present on the ground of probable insanity.

In April, 1909, still having the case undisposed of, the board requested Dr. Woodbury to make a further examination of the prisoner under the hope of receiving additional information to assist in reaching a proper conclusion with regard to the application for clemency. This request was cheerfully complied with, and on May 14, 1909, Dr. Woodbury submitted his detailed report, concluding in the following language:

"My opinion is that the mind of Rocco Cirrullo has been clearing up during the past year, and is now nearly, if not completely restored; but his physical condition is bad, and he should be removed to more sanitary surroundings for further observation."

The case was still held under advisement.

Again in January, 1910, another request was made for Dr. Woodbury to examine the prisoner, with a view of enabling the board to decide finally what disposition should be made of the application for commutation that justice might be done the prisoner and the rights of the public be properly safeguarded. The report submitted in answer to this request bears date February 3, 1910. It gives full details of the examination of the prisoner on January 27, 1910. The doctor summarizes the result of his examinati as follows:

"Opinion: Rocco Cirrullo shows a decided degree of men enfeeblement, but at present has no active delusions or hall cinations. It is not possible to declare with certainty how mu of his present dementia is to be ascribed to the effects of clo confinement, without regular exercise or opportunity to co verse with others, and the monotony and poverty of his di during the last three years, and how much is due to the disea of the brain which produced the excited condition which w observed on my first visit. If due to the first cause, his r moval to more sanitary surroundings, and to a place where might meet with others who could understand his languag and where he would be more generously fed, might restore hi to his normal condition. The natural intellectual capacity this man, however, is low, and if compared with the averag he is sub-normal, although he cannot be classed as an imbecil He has sufficient intelligence, however, to do agricultural labo and if he regained his physical health, could probably wor for the State, and be made self-supporting, if an opportunit were offered.

On the second hypothesis—that his brain is the seat organic change, and that he is really suffering with organ dementia—the mental powers will continue to gradually weake more and more until he loses them entirely. The fact that h has made some improvement since the last examination, tha he has actually learned to read, that he reads with more un derstanding and with greater facility, that he answers que tions more intelligently, and that his behavior is exemplar as a prisoner, all lead to the conviction that whatever be th cause of his mental aberration, he is really making progres toward recovery of his normal intelligence.

Now, with regard to the moral part of his nature, and t the question whether or not he is a victim of moral insanity I would say that this part of the inquiry deserves due con sideration. Has he the average ability to discriminate be tween right and wrong, and what is the degree of his re sponsibility before the law? He belongs to a family who wer poor, and came from a locality having low standards of edu cation and morality. He never went to school, and grew u with few opportunities of mental and moral improvement. H does not appear to have had any adequate religious or ethica instruction, and exhibits no intelligent interest in the doctrine of his church. At the same time, his docility as a prisone and his ability to control his conduct and submit himself t discipline, would indicate that he is not morally insane, al though he may be exceptionally ignorant of his ethical re sponsibilities. A weakening of the moral powers, however, is constant attendant upon many causes of mental diseases, an this may be an early symptom of progressive insanity, espe cially in the form known as "dementia praecox," or early de mentia.

It may be stated in connection with the history of this pa tient, that sexual delusions, especially relating to the infidelit of a wife, are very common in the condition of paresis an dementia, and may be the first symptoms of mental alienation The dominant homicidal impulse naturally grows out of thi persistent delusion, and only needs a favorable opportunity, o slight provocation, to carry the thought out in violent deed The behavior of Cirrullo after committing the crime favors thi view and to satisfactorily explain his course of action through out the entire history of the case."

Having in mind these several reports of the experience alienists who examined Cirrullo, and who brought to bea on his condition their trained method of observation, i seems to the board that there is so much doubt with regar to the sanity and soundness of mind of this applicant tha it would be better to err on the side of mercy than to mak a mistake in enforcing from an unaccountable human be ing the penalty of death for the committing of murder. W therefore recommend that the sentence of death heretofor imposed upon the applicant, Rocco Cirrullo, be commute to that of imprisonment for life.

COMMUTATION NO. 1—1909.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,

BOARD OF PARDONS.

Executive Department, January 20, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions in and for the County of Tioga, to No. 24, January Sessions, 1908, Daniel W. Ayers was indicted on a charge of maliciously breaking and entering into a building with intent to commit a felony and larceny. On arraignment the defendant pleaded guilty, and thereupon, March 6, 1908, was sentenced by the court to pay a fine of one hundred dollars to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of two years and three calendar months.

An application for recommendation for pardon has been presented to the board, and upon hearing and after due consideration and mainly upon reasons founded upon feelings of mercy and humanity, the board unites in a recommendation that executive clemency be granted the prisoner.

The applicant is a resident of the City of Corning, State of New York. He is a man thirty-five years of age. Previous to the commission of the crime for which he is undergoing imprisonment he had borne a good reputation. He is married and has a family, consisting of a wife and six small children. His wife is twenty-five years of age, and his oldest child is seven years of age and the youngest eleven months. He was dependent upon the result of his daily labor for the maintenance of this large family, and he worked faithfully and diligently for their support. Shortly before the commission of this crime he met with an accident, which partly disabled him, and by reason of his inability to work his family became destitute and in great need. Under the stress of his depressed circumstances, seeing his family on the verge of starvation, he, in company with another man, came across the State line into Tioga County and broke into a store and stole a quantity of the goods there found. He was apprehended soon after, and his imprisonment followed as above detailed. His wife is in poor health, is entirely without means of support, and she and her six small children are now a charge upon the community in which she lives. Her statement under oath with regard to her condition of want and her helplessness has been presented to the board, and a large number of letters and recommendations on file with the application coming from members of her own community fully corroborate her statements. So that the case of the applicant seems to be a meritorious one, viewed from a humanitarian standpoint, and it will be a justifiable act of mercy to permit him to go back to his family and help take care of them. For this reason we recommend that executive clemency be extended to this applicant, Daniel W. Ayers, and that a pardon be granted him.

Respectfully submitted,

NO. 2—1909.

January 22, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of Allegheny County, at September Sessions, 1908, William Lindsay (with three others, named Jenkins, Ebright and Miller) was indicted on several charges of larceny, receiving, and entering. On being arraigned, he pleaded guilty, and on September 24, 1908, was sentenced to pay a fine of six and one-quarter cents, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny County Jail for the term of one year.

William Lindsay, the applicant, was employed as an engineer by Wildberg and Company. The three other men who were indicted at the same time, were employed as engineers by firms occupying premises in the same block.

During the flood of the spring of 1908 all of these men worked continuously for sixty hours in removing goods to places of safety, and during this strenuous labor each of the men appropriated a pair of gum boots, the property of Stewart and Brothers. An intimacy was thus formed which resulted in Stewart and Brothers' engineer giving the applicant eight pairs of shoes, and in the engineer of the Standard Manufacturing Company giving him a sink and two drain-boards; all of which things he took home, informing his wife that he had purchased them.

William Lindsay is 56 years of age; has a wife and family, and had never before been accused of any crime whatever. On the contrary, he has always been a steady, industrious and reliable workman, sober and law-abiding citizen, and a faithful husband and father. He worked nine years for Wildberg and Company, and was never absent, except on one occasion when he took a vacation of two weeks. Wildberg and Company have expressed their intention of putting him back to work immediately upon his release.

It may be well to state that the case was given far more importance than it deserved, by reason of the fact that some of the newspapers exploited it as a gigantic conspiracy to steal $50,000 worth of merchandise. It developed that the defendants had obtained, together, about $200 worth of boots, plumbing supplies, rugs and wall paper—most of which goods were returned to their owners.

The District Attorney of Allegheny County at the time of this transaction was Harry L. Goehring, Esq., and it will appear by the affidavits filed with the papers in the case, that he promised to do everything in his power to secure a pardon for the applicant. Mr. Goehring died on December 14, 1908.

The Hon. William A. Magee writes the Board:

"* * * Mr. Lindsay, prior to his sentence on this charge, bore a good reputation in the neighborhood in which he lived, and I think if his sentence were commuted at this time, he would make a good citizen henceforth, and the ends of justice would have been served."

In view of the facts and circumstances above stated, the Board respectfully recommends that a pardon may now issue to the said William Lindsay.

NO. 3—1909.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.
Executive Department.
Board of Pardons.

Harrisburg, January 20, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—T. Edwin Atkinson, a young man twenty-one years of age, was indicted (under the name of Edward Atcheson) in the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Allegheny, to No. 725, June Term, 1908, on the charge of larceny. A plea of guilty was entered to the indictment before finding by the grand jury, and thereupon, August 14, 1908, this defendant was sentenced by the Court to pay a small fine and to undergo an imprisonment in the Allegheny County Workhouse for two years. A man by the name of Fred Huff, who was jointly charged and indicted with Atkinson, was at the same time sentenced to undergo an imprisonment of three months in the Workhouse.

The said Atkinson now applies for pardon, and the facts, as developed on an examination of the history of the case and of the records before us, abundantly warrant the Board in recommending that the application be granted.

The applicant was employed during the summer of 1908 by the Duquesne Warehouse Company at the Pennsylvania Railroad Terminal in the City of Pittsburg as a warehouseman, receiving reasonably good wages. Working with him there were two other men, Fred Huff, aged thirty-six years, and Tom Hamilton, aged forty years. The three men thus employed seem to have united in a system of theft of articles from the warehouse platform. Suspicion pointing to them, their houses were searched and a small quantity of the stuff was found in the possession of Atkinson, and the remainder of the stolen articles was found in the houses of Huff and Hamilton, the other two men, both of whom were married men. All three men were placed under arrest. When the case against Atkinson and Huff was called for trial Atkinson had no counsel, and no one of his family or friends was present. Immediately after he had entered his plea of guilty, a statement which has since been admitted to have been erroneous and unsubstantiated, was made to the Court by the detective who had accomplished the discovery of the culprits, that Atkinson was the principal offender, that he was a bad boy, and that his family desired him committed to prison. In the light of subsequent investigation this statement was found to be unwarranted in every particular. His co-defendant, Huff, was represented by counsel, and had members of his family present to look after his interests. Evidently through a misapprehension of the real state of affairs induced by the erroneous and mistaken statement above alluded to the Court sentenced the younger man, Atkinson, who really was the less guilty, to two years' imprisonment, and the older and more experienced man, Huff, who was without doubt the more guilty, to three months' imprisonment. Subsequently the third man, Hamilton, was, on a separate indictment, sentenced to one day's imprisonment.

That this applicant, Atkinson, thus through no fault of his own became the scapegoat, and is now undergoing an imprisonment of undeserved severity in view of the light sentences imposed on the other two culprits, is manifest; and this condition became appreciated by the trial Judge and by the District Attorney, both of whom have addressed the Board in writing, recommending that the Board take the proper action to relieve the prisoner of his unfortunate predicament.

Judge Cohen, who tried the case, writes:

"Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 11, 1909.

To the Honorable Board of Pardons of Pennsylvania:

(In re application of T. Edwin Atkinson for a pardon).

Gentlemen:—On August 14th, 1908, the petitioner above named was sentenced by me for two years to the workhouse on a charge of larceny. The prosecutor was the detective of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. The boy is twenty-one years of age, and had no counsel present. He was brought from jail, and pleaded guilty on an indictment that had not then been found by the Grand Jury, as provided for by a late act of Assembly. Subsequently his two co-defendants were sentenced, each being of mature years, the one to one day, and the other to three months. I am advised by Wm. Blikeley, Esq., our District Attorney, that he has interviewed Mr. Gobert, the company's detective, (who testified then) and he now says this boy was the least guilty of the three.

The discrepancy in the sentences, if he be correct, which I now have no reason to doubt, would seem to be harsh as against young Atkinson. I deem it therefore but just to acquaint you with these facts as they have been submitted to me. I. am, gentlemen,

Yours very truly,
JOSIAH COHEN.

Mr. Blakeley, District Attorney of Allegheny County, writes:

"January 11, 1909.

To the Honorable Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Honorable Sirs:—In the application of T. Edwin Atkinson, who pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Allegheny County, I wish to state that I have examined into the facts in reference thereto, and find that this young man was sentenced to two years to the Allegheny County workhouse, and that two other defendants, namely, Thomas Hamilton and Fred Huff, equally, if not more guilty, received sentences of one day to jail and three months to the workhouse respectively.

I have personally talked to the prosecutor, who feels that the sentence was, under the circumstances, entirely too severe, and such is the belief of this office after investigation of the facts.

At the time that Atkinson was sentenced, it was made to appear to the court that he had been in trouble before, and that his family were not in any wise interested in him, and he labored under the additional disadvantage of not being represented by counsel. It now transpires that Atkinson had not been in trouble before, that his family was interested in him, and that his case was not properly presented to the court.

From my knowledge of the case I would ask that a pardon be granted this young man.

Yours very respectfully,
W. A. BLAKELEY.
District Attorney."

In addition, there are many letters before us from prominent people of his community, his former employers and others who knew him well, attesting the previous good character, respectable standing, etc., of the applicant, and these, together with the letters above set forth, and the facts as gathered from an examination of our record, convince us that this is a case peculiarly appealing to the Board for the exercise of its office and function, designed for ameliorating the hardship of unfortunate and unwarranted imprisonment by recommending to the Governor the granting of a pardon to the condemned sufferer. We therefore recommend that Executive clemency be accorded this applicant, T. Edwin Atkinson, and that a pardon be granted him forthwith.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor,
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth,

NO. 4—1909.

January 21, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the county of Philadelphia, at May sessions, 1905, Sarah Jones was indicted for the crime of murder. She was tried and convicted, and on May 28, 1906, was sentenced to be hanged.

On May 11, 1905, Sarah Jones was arrested and imprisoned charged with causing the death of the illegitimate child of her foster daughter by the administration of chloroform a few minutes after its birth.

At the December (1906) meeting of the Board the application for a commutation of sentence was heard, and there was then presented to the Board the following letter from the trial judge, the Hon. Robert Ralston:

"Court of Common Pleas No. 5,
Philadelphia, October 15, 1906.

To the Members of the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Sirs:—Sarah Jones, an old woman of sixty-five years of age, was tried before me for the murder of the newly-born child of her daughter. It appeared at the trial that the prisoner discovered that her daughter was pregnant about one month before the birth of the child. She sent for a doctor, and tried to induce him to perform an abortion. This he refused to do, whereupon she sent for another doctor, for the same purpose, and he also refused. When the child was born the doctor handed it over to the prisoner, who put a handkerchief over its face and nearly smothered it. She asked the doctor to chloroform it. He refused and told her under no circumstances to think of such a thing. Within a short time after the doctor left, the child was chloroformed.

The prisoner was convicted of murder of the first degree, which I thought right at the time, and still consider a proper verdict under the circumstances. At the same time, immediately after the trial, I stated to counsel for the prisoner that I would intervene with the Board of Pardons for a commutation for these reasons: The woman is an old woman who has always led a perfectly respectable life. She is of a low order of intellect, and seemed unable to understand the difference between an abortion and the killing of the child immediately after it was born. Dr. Becker, a very reputable physician, testified that when he endeavored to explain to her the wickedness of an abortion, she could not appreciate it, and neither did she appear to understand the wickedness of killing a child immediately after birth.

As I said before, I think the woman was properly convicted, and that her conviction will serve as a warning to the community that women cannot kill newborn children with impunity. At the same time, this is a case where in my opinion clemency should be shown by the Board. If I had had any discretion in imposing sentence, I should have sentenced the prisoner to a comparatively short term of years. I feel so strongly in this matter that I have not hesitated to express my views to the Board.

I am, sirs, with great respect,
Your obedient servant,
ROBERT RALSTON,
Trial Judge."

In accordance with the recommendation of the learned judge, and chiefly because of the reasons given by him, the sentence of death was commuted to that of life imprisonment.

On January 11, 1909, an application for the pardon of the said Sarah Jones was filed. In support of this application, we are in receipt of the following letter from the Hon. Robert Ralston:

"Court of Common Pleas No. 5.
Judges' Chambers, Jan'y 16, 1909."

To the Honorable The Board of Pardons.

Sirs:—I wrote to your honorable Board on October 15, 1906, a letter in which I expressed my views of this case (in re application of Sarah Jones.) The prisoner has been in jail some four years—two years before trial, and two since. In my opinion, for the reasons stated in my letter, I think a full pardon might now be granted without detriment to the interests of justice.

I am, with great respect,
Your obedient servant,
ROBERT RALSTON."

The Board is also in receipt of the following letter in support of the application for a pardon:

"The Girard National Bank,
Philadelphia, Jan. 11, 1909.

Hon. M. Hampton Todd.

My Dear Mr. Todd:—I beg to appeal to you as one of the State Board of Pardons in behalf of poor old Sarah Jones, of Germantown. In so doing I need not say a word about her offence. We both understand it, and we regret and condemn it.

The very existence of the Board of Pardons, however, appeals to me in behalf of the prisoner—whose crime, I verily believe, was committed in a frenzied, half-crazed condition of mind—dangerous to the community only at that moment.

Mrs. Jones' long life in Germantown established her in the esteem of all her neighbors and the large circle of customers of her store. My daughter, Mrs. Deacon, speaks in highest terms of her, and pleads very earnestly for her pardon. I would ask it in the name of Mercy—of which we all stand in need—Mercy is my only plea.

Sincerely yours,
FRANCIS B. REEVES."

In consideration of the facts and circumstances above presented, and giving to the letters quoted full weight, the Board respectfully recommendns that a pardon may now issue to the said Sarah Jones.

NO. 5—1909.

January 26, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery for the County of Allegheny, at March sessions, 1907, the applicant, E. A. Hessler, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with the crime of arson. On May 31, 1907, he was sentenced to pay a fine of six and one-quarter cents, the costs of prosecution and to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the term of five years.

The applicant is thirty-three years of age and is a native of the city of Eskilstuna, Sweden, where his parents and family now live. His surname is Hesselquist, but upon coming to America he took the name of "Hessler," on account of its being simpler. By profession he is a dentist, working at that business in and about New York and Pittsburg since 1900. He worked for Dr. J. L. De Roy, the prosecutor, in Pittsburg, from May 1906, until March, 1907, when, becoming erratic and irresponsible by reason of some mental or nervous trouble, he was discharged. On April 29, 1907, a fire was started by the petitioner in Dr. De Roy's offices. Detectives found him on the premises, and he was arrested.

The reason urged in support of the application for a pardon is that at the time of the commission of the crime the applicant was of unsonud mind and was suffering from such defects of reason as to render him legally irresponsible for his acts, the evidence of which is fully set forth in the depositions of Ola Buckey, R. H. Speare, Lewis M. Solomon and Lora B. Roberts. (Filed herewith.)

It is also urged that the applicant's parents are ready and willing to give him the care and assistance he needs should he be pardoned. The attorney of the applicant, U. G. Vogan, Esq., of Pittsburg, writes the Board under date of January 25, 1909:

"His parents, who employed me to take up Mr. Hessler's case, seem to me from my correspondence with them to be very straightforward, honorable people. They have placed in my hands funds sufficient to supply their son with present needs and to pay his transportation back to his home, in case a pardon is granted, and I have promised them that I will procure the necessary transportation, and have some one accompany Mr. Hessler to New York and see him safely on board ship. I give you my personal assurance that I will do this in case a pardon is granted, which I would feel in duty bound to do in any case, as that is the arrangement I have made with his parents."

The depositions above mentioned, as to the mental status of the applicant, are on file, but we quote material points from them as follows:

Ola Buckie: I know E. A. Hessler; saw him pretty nearly every evening for eight months. He was a strange fellow. His actions were queer. * * * * From his actions, conversation and manner I considered him irrational, and that he was not sound in his mind.

R. H. Speare: I knew E. A. Hessler for about a year before his arrest. He was working for Dr. DeRoy while I was there. For six months I saw him and talked to him every day. From the first, I always considered his actions somewhat strange. His conduct became more strange and erratic. He would ill-treat patients and order them out and insult them, without any provocation or cause. His mind seemed to be constantly wandering. * * * * From his actions, conversation, conduct and appearance I am satisfied that he was of unsound mind, and was not responsible for his actions.

L. M. Solomon, D. D. S.: I worked for Dr. DeRoy. Knew Hessler. He worked at the same place about five months, and I saw him every day. From the first his actions were strange, and his mental condition seemed to be getting worse. He would insult patients and engage in violent conduct without any cause. It was the general talk and conversation among his associates that he was of unsound mind. * * * * From his actions, conduct and appearance I do not consider him responsible for what he did.

Lora Roberts: I was private secretary for Dr. DeRoy. Hessler was working there when I came. He became violent and very irritable. * * * * I considered his actions and conduct towards the last very irrational, and I believe he was of unsound mind.

Dr. J. J. Mullen: I am a practicing physician. I have had special practice in the line of diagnosing and treatment of mental and nervous diseases. I am at present examiner of the Department of Charities. * * * * I know E. A. Hessler. I saw Hessler the morning after his arrest at the Central Police Station, and conversed with him, and from his conversation and actions and general appearance, discovered he was of unsound mind. I said at the time he was a proper person to be committed to an institution for the treatment of his mental condition. * * * In March, 1908, I examined him in the penitentiary. His liberty and proper treatment would be conducive to a recovery. His mental derangement is what is known as "neurestheniа," and is usually caused by overwork and too constant application of his mental faculties to any subject."

Because of the mental condition of the applicant as evidenced by the depositions presented and because of the promise of his attorney that the applicant will be at once sent to his home in Sweden, where he will be given proper care and treatment, the Board respectfully recommends that a pardon may now be issued to the said E. A. Hessler.

NO. 6—1909.

January 23, 1909.

Hon. Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace, for the City and County of Philadelphia, at March Term, 1897, the applicant, R. K. S. Allebach, was convicted of the crime of perjury, and on March 4, 1897, was sentenced to pay a fine of $250, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for the term of thirty days.

The petition of the applicant represents:

1. That the ends of justice have been fully served.
2. That he has been sufficiently and severely punished for his offense.
3. That no further public good can arise from the continuation of his punishment.
4. That the said act of perjury was committed entirely through inadvertence and erroneous advice, when the petitioner was a very young man, and that no person was directly or indirectly injured thereby.
5. That he is now actively engaged in business in the Borough of Phoenixville, Pa., and has large and important interests entrusted to him, and that these interests are greatly jeopardized by his inability to appear and to testify in controversies concerning them.

The act of perjury in this case consisted in swearing to a certain certificate necessary to be filed with the Governor of the Commonwealth in the organization of a Mutual Fire Insurance Company, which certificate contained certain false statements. On or before the 31st of March, 1895, the Wissahickon Mutual Fire Insurance Company was organized, and the petitioner, R. K. S. Allebach, was elected secretary. One of the requirements of the organization was the filing with the Governor of a certificate, signed by the officers and directors of the company, setting forth, inter alia, the names and residences of each subscriber, the amount of insurance each proposed to take, that the subscribers were actual owners of insurable property worth in each case more than the amount of the subscription * * * and that the said applicants for insurance had entered into an obligation to the said company to accept policies of insurance for the amount of their respective subscriptions.

It was necessary that the said subscriptions for insurance should aggregate more than $200,000. Subscriptions to the amount of more than $200,000 were actually received, but the said certificate set forth subscriptions over and above that amount which were not bona fide, in that the subscribers did not themselves own property worth more than the amount of their respective subscriptions.

The said incorporation could have been effected without the addition of said false subscriptions, so that no real harm was done, nor an illegal incorporation effected. In January, 1896, the applicant resigned as secretary of the company. In December, 1896, a suit was brought against the company for a fire-loss, upon which payment had been refused, and, at the same time, warrants on the charge of perjury were issued against all the officers and directors who had signed the certificate. The cases against the other officers and directors were not prosecuted, but that against the applicant was urged to trial.

In view of the circumstances of the case, however, the Judge before whom the case was tried, Hon. Charles B. McMichael remitted the sentence, but the applicant is now incompetent to testify as a witness.

Since the conviction, the applicant has lived an upright and honest life, is established in business, and has become a prosperous and successful business man. Important interests are entrusted to his care, and his affairs are greatly prejudiced and endangered by his inability to appear and testify in cases of controversy.

In support of the application for a recommendation of pardon, the Board is in receipt of numerous letters from professional and business men strongly urging the same, and also a petition signed by many of the professional and business men of Phoenixville, the residence of the applicant, praying that the applicant may be pardoned.

We quote:

"Judges' Chamber, United States District Court,
Philadelphia, June 5, 1908.

To the Board of Pardons:

Permit me to suggest the favorable consideration of the application of Reinhart K. S. Allebach for a pardon now pending before your honorable body. Some years ago he was convicted of an offense of which he was only technically guilty, and, as I understand it, was acting under advice of counsel at the time, although that was no excuse for the mistake he made. So far as I know him and can learn from those who know him best, he has always been a good citizen, and is now a reputable, industrious young man. I think this is a case where your favorable consideration of his pardon would be a just disposition of a meritorious case.

I hope it may receive your favorable consideration.

Very truly yours,
JAMES B. HOLLAND."

"Thirty-eighth Judicial District,
Aaron S. Swartz, P. J.,
Norristown, Feb. 3, 1908.

My Dear Mr. Allebach:—I realize your predicament, and should be glad to help you in any way I can. I have known you for many years, and your conduct ever since your trouble shows that you should be restored to the rights of full citizenship. Your efforts to live an honest and industrious life give the best evidence of your fitness to be restored to the rights you enjoyed before your fall.

I watched your career and success at Phoenixville for the past years with gratification.

Yours very respectfully,
AARON S. SWARTZ."

"Orphans' Court, 38th Judicial District,
Norristown, Feb. 6, 1908.

To the Board of Pardons:

Gentlemen:—Mr. R. K. S. Allebach, of Phoenixville, Pa., has petitioned your body to be relieved from the odium of a technical conviction of perjury some years ago in the courts of Philadelphia.

I desire to testify to his general good character as a citizen and business man, from about 1882 for a period of 12 or 15 years, when I saw him rather frequently and acted as his counsel in his business matters in this county.

There was nothing whatever in that time to show that he was dishonest, corrupt or criminal in any of his transactions which came to my notice. On the contrary, he was an upright, honest, fair, truthful, and candid in every way as the best citizen.

He has a splendid reputation to-day in the community where he lives and does business. The blot upon his name should be removed. I earnestly hope you will remove it.

Respectfully yours,
WILLIAM F. SOLLY."

In view of the facts and circumstances above set forth, and giving serious consideration and full weight to the words of Judge Holland, that "A favorable consideration of his pardon would be a just disposition of a meritorious case;" to those of Judge Swartz, that "Your efforts to live an honest and industrious life give the best evidence of your fitness to be restored to the rights you enjoyed before your fall;" to those of Judge Solly, that "It was a technical conviction of perjury, and the blot upon his name should be removed," and to the petition presented by the prominent and reputable business men of his place of residence—the Board respectfully recommends that a pardon may now issue to the said R. K. S. Allebach.

NO. 7—1909.

February 17, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of General Sessions of the County of Allegheny, No. 47, October Term, 1908, Mores Aranawitz was, on November 25, 1908, convicted on an indictment charging him with receiving stolen goods, and thereupon, December 5, 1908, was sentenced to pay a nominal fine, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the Allegheny County Workhouse for the term of six months.

An application for pardon has been made on his behalf, the grounds of the application being substantially: The severity of the sentence as compared with the gravity of the offense; the previous good character of the prisoner, and the extreme poverty and destitution of his family—consisting of a sick wife, and five children ranging in age from five to fifteen years, one of whom is a cripple.

After an examination of the record before the Board, and carefully considering the presentation of the case and all the circumstances attending it, the Board is of opinion that it is a case deserving a recommendation for Executive clemency.

The value of the stolen goods alleged to have been purchased by the prisoner did not exceed ten dollars, and the defendant, it is averred, was not acting for himself in buying the stuff, but bought it on behalf of certain junk dealers, who, possibly when the question of intent is considered were more guilty of an infraction of the law than this applicant, and who probably profited out of the transaction more than he did, and who afterwards fled the jurisdiction.

The crime consisted in buying from boys certain quantities of slag taken from the property of the Carnegie Steel Company at McKeesport. This slag was picked up from the dump by the boys, and on being remelted a certain amount of good metal was obtained from it. The practice of carrying away the slag proved to be a great annoyance to the company, and upon learning that this prisoner had bought some of this material from the boys and men who took it from the Company's property, they caused his arrest, and his conviction followed.

Owing to the extreme poverty of the family the wife and children have become a charge on the charitably inclined for the greater part, if not all, of their maintenance; and it seems, that in justice to the community thus forced to look after them, it will be not only an act of mercy to this unfortunate prisoner and his suffering family, but also a relief to the community in which they all live and wherein the prisoner had been well thought of, to pardon him from further imprisonment, especially as more than two months of the six months' term have already been spent in confinement.

We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted this applicant, Moses Aranawitz.

Respectfully submitted,

NO. 8—1909

February 23, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—To No. 71 September sessions, 1908, in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Fayette County, Joseph M. Steele and H M Taylor were charged with selling liquor without license, selling liquor on Sunday, furnishing liquor to minors and selling liquor as a druggist without a prescription of a registered physician—six counts in all. September 7, 1908, upon appearing in court the defendants waived the presentation of indictment to the Grand Jury and their finding, and entered a plea of guilty to the first count—selling liquor without license. Sentence was then suspended. On October 29, 1908, the defendant, Steele, was arrested on process returnable forthwith and committed to jail, and upon November 3, 1908, was sentenced on the first count in the indictment to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, costs, and be committed to the county jail for and during the period of one year.

An application for pardon was filed to the February meeting of the Board, and argument on behalf of the application was heard at length. The formal reason alleged in the application are:

1. The jail sentence was excessive.
2. He was not permitted to withdraw his plea of guilty and have the case tried on its merits.
3. Although charged upon six separate accounts, he pleaded to but one count, that of selling liquor without a license, and a fine, at the most, was the usual sentence, and the jail sentence was excessive in lieu of any testimony.
4. The demands of the law and the ends of justice have been fully met in this case without the imposition of additional confinement in jail.

After a diligent examination of the record before us and a careful consideration of the reasons advanced, the Board is of opinion that the grounds laid in the first, third and fourth reasons, viz., of excessive punishment, coupled with the fact of admitted good character, and the absence of criminal intent, are sufficient to justify a favorable recommendation for clemency. The article alleged to have been sold was a species of prepared malt, which, it appears, is a commodity commonly dealt in by druggists. The town of Fayette City, where the applicant conducted a drug store, however, was a prohibitory town, which probably lent color to the charge of infringement of the law, but as a number of other druggists in the same town were arrested at the same time charged with the same offense, and possibly all equally guilty, if there was any guilt, but none of them tried, much less punished, it seems that justice is pressing with unequal foot in demanding the maximum jail penalty from this defendant.

The imprisonment of nearly four months already endured by the applicant, and the payment by him of a large sum for costs, as well as the payment of the fine imposed, as we are informed are the facts, have in our opinion expiated the technical offense charged against him. The application is also supported with petitions signed by a large number of applicant's neighbors, attesting their indorsement of the averment of excessive punishment and belief that the applicant has already been sufficiently punished.

These foregoing reasons moving the Board, we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Joseph M. Steele.

Respectfully submitted,

NO. 9—1909

January 26, 1909.

His Excellency, Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace for the County of Philadelphia, on February 3, 1908, George Ginsburg was convicted of the crime of larceny. On the same day he was sentenced to confinement in the Pennsylvanina Industrial Reformatory at Huntingdon.

George Ginsburg, the applicant, is about eighteen years of age. On the evening of the 19th day of October, 1907, he was on his way home from the theatre, in the city of Philadelphia, and stopped at the corner of Eighth and Market streets to wait for a car. His attention was called to two men loading bundles on an express wagon—one man throwing bundles to another who stood in the wagon. Insulting words passed between the applicant and one of the men; a fracas followed, and the police appeared and took the prisonr into custody. His opponent, in order to avoid the charge of assault and battery, justified his action by claiming that Ginsburg attempted to steal a bundle. The jury believed the expressmen, and the prisoner was convicted.

The reasons urged in support of the application are as follows:

It was a first offense, not heinous in character, in which previous good reputation would have warranted a suspension of sentence or a sentence of less severity.

His father and his brother are both under a doctor's care and are unable to work, and the prisoner's aid is needed in the support of the family.

The Warden of the Reformatory writes, that "during the ten months he has been here, he has made a perfect record for eight months, failing for one month in the second grade, and for one month in the first grade, in which he now is. Under our rules he can be released on parole in four months from this time (January 14, 1909), provided he has maintained a good record in the meantime."

The Hon. John M. Scott, of Philadelphia, writes the Board:

"Gentlemen:—I take pleasure in joining in the application for the pardon of George Ginsburg, 18 years, who prior to his conviction lived with his parents at 724 South street this city.

I believe the young man to have been punished severely for an offense which he, apparently, did not intend to commit. All his parents and family are reputable people, it would be wise to relieve him of the disgrace of a sentence as far as possible, so that he will lead a good life, as I am satisfied he will do."

Because of the previous good character of the boy and the fact that the offense was not of a heinous character, together with the fact that his aid is needed in the support of the family, and bearing in mind the severity of the punishment already inflicted, the Board respectfully recommends that a pardon may now be issued to the said George Ginsburg.

Lieutenant Governor.

NO. 10—1909

April 21, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Allegheny, to No. 30, June Term, 1890, Alexander Killen was convicted on an indictment charging him with murder in the first degree, and thereupon was, November 27, 1890, sentenced by the court to be hanged. An application was in due course made to the Board of Pardons for recommendation of commutation of death sentence, and on October 21, 1891, the board recommended to the Executive that such commutation be granted, and the Governor acted accordingly on their recommendation. The applicant has been confined in the Western Penitentiary ever since.

At the January meeting of this board an application for the pardon of this prisoner was made. The case was then heard, and it has been held under advisement until this meeting. Upon mature and careful consideration of the matter the board has decided to recommend to Your Excellency the granting of a pardon to the applicant.

An examination of the record in the case discloses that the board, upon whose recommendation the commutation was granted, had sufficient doubt of the participation of the prisoner in the actual commission of the offense to warrant its interference in the sentence of the court. Subsequent investigation has strengthened the belief of those who favored the commutation that their view of the case was correct, and they are now more than ever convinced that Killen was not connected with the crime as a principal. The judge who tried the case, Honorable Christopher Magee, writes a letter recommending the pardon of the prisoner. The fact that the prisoner has served a confinement of more than nineteen years, or about ten years more than the maximum term for murder in the second degree, less the commutation for good behavior; that he has reached the age of about sixty years, and with the assurance that the sentiment of the entire community is favorable to the pardon of this unfortunate man, and believing that, in view of the grave doubt of his actual participation in the crime alleged, he has already by his long imprisonment expiated his offense against the law and that the ends of justice in his case have been met, the board is persuaded that it is proper in this instance to recommend that executive clemency be accorded the applicant and that a full pardon be now granted the prisoner, Alexander Killen.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NO 11—1909.

April 21, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Beaver, to No. 5, December Term, 1906, Andrew Morrow was indicted on a charge of burglary and larceny, and on December 17, 1906, entered a plea of guilty, whereupon he was sentenced by the court to pay a fine of one dollar and undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a term of six years.

An application for his pardon has been filed, and upon due consideration by the board we are of the opinion that the application is worthy of favorable action on our part, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant.

The applicant is a young man of about twenty-four years of age. Although of highly respectable parentage and of good family and surroundings, he unfortunately fell into bad company. At the time of the commission of the offense charged he was under the influence of liquor, and was in the companionship of several other young persons of perhaps more vicious tendencies than he himself is blamed with. He has already undergone an imprisonment of more than two years and four months.

The principal reason for clemency set forth in the application and advanced on the argument is the undue severity of the sentence imposed by the court. Upon this feature of the case there seems to be unanimity of opinion, both on the part of the judge who tried the case and the district attorney who prosecuted, as well as on the part of a large number of prominent members of the community in which the defendant lived and where the offense occurred. In addition to a large number of letters written by individuals and addressed to the board favoring this application, there is on file with our record a petition to the same effect signed by several hundred of the prisoner's neighbors and acquaintances.

The letter of the judge is as follows:

"Beaver, Pa., April 16, 1909.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—I understand that the application of Andrew Morrow for a pardon has been renewed, and that a hearing will be had some time during the present month. I join in this application, and ask for the same favorable consideration at your hands.

When the application was before you some time ago I wrote a similar letter, in which I stated the circumstances which made it necessary, in my opinion, to impose one year more than the half of the maximum term provided by the act of Assembly under which the indictment in this case was drawn. I understand that the young man's conduct has been very good during his term of confinement, and that, probably, so far as reformation is concerned, the objects and purposes of the law in his case have been accomplished. I feel satisfied that in case of his discharge he will give no further trouble.

Yours truly,
RICHARD S. HOLT,
Judge 36th Judicial District of Penn."

The district attorney writes:

"Beaver, Pa., March 4th, 1909.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I would like to again urge the pardon of Andrew Morrow. I wrote a letter about one year ago, suggesting that a pardon be granted at that time. I do think that this imprisonment has lasted now long enough and should be ended.

Yours very truly,
J. B. McGOUN.

This being the only crime with which this young man was ever charged, and having been committed while in bad company and under evil influence, and the previous record of the applicant appearing to be good and the punishment already undergone having, in the opinion of those in position to form a correct judgment, fully satisfied the ends of justice, and the board being convinced that the sentence imposed was too severe under the circumstances as now shown us, we respectfully recommend that executive clemency be extended in this case, and that a pardon be granted the applicant, Andrew Morrow.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NO. 12—1909.

June 16, 1909.

To His Excellency, Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—On June 20, 1896, James B. Gentry was convicted in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Philadelphia, to No. 48, May Sessions, 1895, on an indictment charging him with the crime of murder, and thereupon was, on the 2d day of July, 1896, sentenced to be hanged.

The homicide occurred on the 17th of February, 1895; the victim was Margaret Drysdale, whose stage name was Madge Yorke.

Upon proper application to the Board of Pardons of this Commonwealth, and after due hearing, the said board, on April 20, 1897, for the reasons then submitted at length, which contained an extended history of the case and a full discussion of the circumstances surrounding the unfortunate affair, including what was then believed to be the defendant's impairment of mind, recommended to the Governor that the sentence of death imposed upon the prisoner be commuted to that of imprisonment for life; and on this recommendation the Governor of the Commonwealth, on the said 20th day of April, 1897, commuted said death sentence accordingly. The prisoner has been confined in the Eastern Penitentiary ever since. More than fourteen years have elapsed since the commission of the offense charged and the arrest of the defendant, during which time the prisoner has been in confinement.

On May 10, 1909, an application for the pardon of the said prisoner was filed, and on June 16, 1909, said application was heard by us; and after due, full and careful consideration by us the board unites in recommending that a pardon be now granted the applicant, James B. Gentry.

The formal reasons assigned for favorable action on this application are:

1. Because of the inability of the petitioner to procure witnesses from a foreign jurisdiction whose testimony would have reduced the grade of the offense to that of murder in the second degree.
2. Because of after discovered testimony relative to the condition of prisoner's mind at the time of the commission of the offense.
3. Because the petitioner has now served a term of imprisonment equal to the longest term which could have been imposed upon him had he been convicted of murder in the second degree, making allowance for commutation for good behavior.
4. Because petitioner's health is such as the result of his confinement, that further confinement will probably soon result in his death.

The first two reasons so assigned were in substance adopted by the board in 1897, when the commutation was recommended. Under the conditions as shown then the third reason above assigned now appeals with convincing force to this board, and in view of all the endorsements of the application and requests for our favorable consideration thereof, which appear among the records before us, we are of the opinion that this is a case worthy of our favorable action. The array of these endorsements and requests is quite remarkable and is entitled to special notice. There are letters from persons in almost all stations of life—officials, clergymen, prison visitors, business men, professional men, members of the jury, and from citizens of other States—and perhaps what is most unusual a petition signed by forty-nine of the fifty Senators and about one hundred and ninety of the members of the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of 1909, showing a most widespread favorable interest in the application and a condition of public sentiment that speaks volumes; not a single voice has been raised in opposition.

We are persuaded, therefore, that we are justified to the ullest degree in recommending that executive clemency be xtended the prisoner, and that a full and entire pardon e now granted the applicant, James B. Gentry.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,

NO. 13—1909.

June 17, 1909.

To His Excellency, Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Clinton, to No. 12, October Sessions, 1908, John T. Kane was, January 21, 1909, convicted on an indictment charging him with embezzlement as a banker and embezzlement as agent, and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, and undergo imprisonment in the County Jail for the term of eighteen months. He is now undergoing said imprisonment.

The prisoner now makes application for a pardon, basing the application on the following reasons:

1. Because the evidence does not show that the defendant sought to, or did receive personal benefit from the offence.
2. Because the money was not separated from the funds of the bank, but was used in its general business.
3. Because the evidence does not show any criminal intent.
4. Because the evidence was not sufficient to warrant a conviction under either count of the indictment.
5. Because further confinement of the convict would result in permanently destroying his physical and mental health.

This application was heard at length by the Board, and after due and careful consideration the conclusion has been reached that it is a proper case for favorable recommendation for Executive clemency, and we, therefore, recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John T. Kane.

The applicant was the cashier and manager of a private banking institution, with rather small capital, called the Bank of Renovo, doing business in the Borough of Renovo. Among its depositors, in April, 1907, was a certain Italian named Santonico, who had a credit to the amount of $300 or more. On April 22, 1907, Santonico drew his checks on the bank for the full amount of his deposit, with the intention of sending the greater portion of it to his home in Italy. At the suggestion of Kane, the money was left with him (Kane) for the purpose of transmission to Italy in due course through banking channels, and a receipt was given to Santonico to that effect. It transpired that at this time the balance to the Renovo bank's credit with its New York correspondent through whom the transmission was to be made, was not sufficient to cover the amount. The remittance to Italy, therefore, was not made. The money left with Kane by Santonico was used in the regular business of the bank. Shortly afterwards the bank, by reason of the stress of business, could not meet its obligations, and went into the hands of a receiver. The money was never sent to Italy. Upon learning that the remittance had not been made to Italy under the arrangement with him, Santonico caused the arrest of Kane on the charges above mentioned and the trial and conviction followed.

In making our favorable recommendation as above, the Board is influenced to a considerable extent by reason of the letter of Hon. Harry Alvan Hall, who tried and sentenced the prisoner, who bases his recommendation for our favorable action upon the certificate of three highly reputable physicians of his neighborhood, as to the prisoner's physical condition.

Judge Hall's letter and the physician's certificate are as follows:

"25th Judicial District of Pennsylvania.
Rigdway, Pa., May 4, 1909.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons of the State of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I append hereto a letter recently received by me from three reputable doctors of Lock Haven, Pa., in reference to the condition of John T. Kane now serving a sentence of eighteen months imprisonment in the common jail of Clinton County for embezzlement as an agent. Kane, while holding himself out as an agent to transmit money to Europe, received of Giovanni Santonico the sum of three hundred dollars to transmit to Italy, which he failed to transmit, and converted to the use of a bank in which he was a partner. The bank was insolvent, and subsequently closed its doors. He received a fair trial, and was properly convicted and sentenced to jail.

The three doctors who signed the enclosed letter are, in my mind, the ablest and most capable medical authorities in Clinton County. I do not think any of them would make a statement that he did not absolutely believe to be true. Dr. Ball is my own personal physician, and I have the utmost confidence in any statement that he makes. I may add to this that I have know Kane, the defendant, from his infancy. Some years ago he had a stroke of paralysis, and since that, owing to his physical condition, I have believed him incapable of transacting business.

It was not the intention of the Court to impose a death sentence on the defendant, and in view of the opinion of the doctors that the serving of the sentence imposed will seriously impair his health and perhaps result in his death, I feel it my duty to recommend his pardon.

He has a wife and three small children, aged eight, six and four years. He is a man of education and culture, and has always stood high in the community in which he lived.

Very respectfully,
HARRY ALVAN HALL,
President Judge 25th Judicial District."
Lock Haven, Pa., April 3, 1909.

"Hon. Henry Alvan Hall.

Dear Sir:—We, the undersigned, physicians of Lock Haven, Pa., have this day examined John T. Kane, now imprisoned in the jail at Lock Haven, and find him suffering with insomnia and progressive emaciation and showing marked signs of paresis. We believe that further imprisonment is seriously detrimental to him and may endanger his life.

Respectfully,
F. P. BALL,
R. B. WATSON,
GEO. D. GREEN."

In view of the foregoing, we unite in the recommendation that a pardon be granted this applicant, John T. Kane.

Respectfully submitted,

NO. 14—1909.

June 17, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Erie, to No. 26, February sessions, 1908, Martin J. Moran pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with larceny by servant and employe, and thereupon, May 27, 1908, was sentenced to pay a fine of $25, and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for two years and six months.

He has filed his application for pardon, and the same was considered by the Board at the June meeting; we recommend that a pardon be granted this applicant, Martin J. Moran.

The reasons laid in the application are in substance as follows:

(1) The previous good reputation of the prisoner;
(2) The small amount of fund appropriated to his own use, which was for the purpose of needed assistance to his family and without fraudulent intent;
(3) The length of time already served on this sentence;
(4) The imperative need of his family, who are in destitute circumstances and dependent upon the assistance of friends and neighbors;
(5) The favorable recommendation of the District Attorney who tried the case and of the Judge who presided at the trial

The following is copy of letter of the District Attorney, which is concurred in by Judge Walling:

"District Attorney's Office.
Erie County, Penna., May 6, 1909.

To the Honorable Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentleman:—In connection with the application of Martin J. Moran for a pardon, I beg leave to submit the following: Martin J. Moran was arrested and bound over to the Quarter Sessions Court to No. 26 Feb'y Sessions, 1908, on a charge of embezzeling $104.05 from his employer, the Philadelphia Casualty Company. On December 5, 1907, he was released on his own recognizance for his appearance on the second Monday of February, 1908. He defaulted in his appearance, and after indictment found, a non omittas was issued, and he was brought back from Rochester, N. Y., on a requisition which he contested. He was later charged with having, while in the employ of the Fidelity Accident and Protective Society, embezzled $110.75 belonging to that company, and held to answer to No. 16 May Sessions, 1908. On May 11, 1908, he entered a plea of guilty to both indictments, and on May 27, 1908, was sentenced in each case to two years and six months in the Western Penitentiary, the sentences to run concurrently. It was shown at the time that Moran's default came about largely through drinking.

I believe that under all the circumstances the sentence imposed by the Court was not excessive, and was fully warranted by the conduct of the defendant. The execution of the sentence, however, has imposed very great hardship upon the defendant's family, consisting of a wife and six children, five of whom are dependent, and as a result of the imprisonment of the husband and father the family have been during the past winter objects of charity for the bare necessaries of life. Moran is a man of intelligence and ability, and, as I understand, was before this delinquence a successful insurance solicitor, and provided well for his family. Owing to the hardship now imposed upon the family, I would be glad to see him released from further imprisonment to enable him to properly provide for his family, and with the hope and belief that the punishment already administered will be sufficient to insure the rectitude of his conduct for the future, provided that such a course meets with the approval of your honorable Board.

Yours very respectfully,
W. PITT GIFFORD,
District Attorney for Erie County."

"I fully concur in the above, and on account of the destitute condition of the defendant's family, would be glad to see him released from further punishment.

EMORY A. WALLING,
President Judge."

A number of other letters to the same effect are on file; and in view of these letters and suggestions and the reasons assigned we are constrained to recommend the pardon of this applicant, Martin J. Moran.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NO. 15—1909

June 17, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Philadelphia, to No. 67, February Sessions, 1908, Giovanni Vicere was, April 8, 1909, convicted on an indictment charging him with the sale of liquor without license, and was thereupon, on the same day, sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and undergo an imprisonment for the term of three months.

An application for the pardon of this prisoner has been made, and the case has been considered by the Board, and we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant.

The term of imprisonment has expired within a few weeks, and there were evidently mitigating circumstances connected with the case which led the trial judge to address the Board in the terms of the following letter, addressed to counsel for the prisoner:

"Philadelphia, May 10, 1909.

John J. McDevitt, Jr., Esq., Attorney for Giovanni Vicere.

My Dear Sir:—You may say to the Board of Pardons that I would not have imposed the sentence of three months' imprisonment and the fine of $500 in the case of Giovanni Vicere if the law permitted me to give a less one. The minimum sentence for selling liquor without a license is a fine of $500, and an imprisonment of three months; so I could do nothing less. If I had had the power to sentence the defendant to an imprisonment of one month, I would have done so.

Yours very truly,
F. AMEDEE BREGY."

In view of this expression on the part of the trial judge, and considering the fact that the term of imprisonment has nearly expired, we unite in recommending that a pardon be granted this applicant, Giovanni Vicere.

Respectfully submitted

Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,

NO. 16—1909

June 17, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the county of Lawrence, to No. 34, March Sessions, 1908, Harry Mitchell entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary and larceny, waiving the finding of an indictment by the Grand Jury, and thereupon, February 28, 1908, was sentenced to pay a fine of $5.00 and undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of four years and six months.

An application has been filed for the pardon of this prisoner, the grounds of the application being that by reason of the enforced idleness of a large number of men in the city of New Castle in December, 1907, the defendant became associated with men of drinking habits, and, becoming intoxicated, committed the offense charged. All the stolen goods found in his possession were restored to the owners, and that under the circumstances of his entering a plea of guilty, etc., the sentence was excessive.

The prisoner seems to have been the victim of a series of unfortunate circumstances. It is quite apparent that he was not an habitual criminal. The ends of justice having in this case been met by the imprisonment already undergone, and in view of the favorable recommendations of the trial judge and of the district attorney, who are in position to thoroughly understand the situation and whose recommendations have been filed with us, we are of opinion that a pardon should be granted to the applicant, and, therefore, make recommendation to that effect.

The letter of the trial judge, Hon. William E. Porter, is as follows:

"New Castle, Pa., April 29, 1909.

To the Honorable Board of Pardons.

Gentlemen:—Being informed that an application will be made to you for the pardon of Harry Mitchell, who was convicted of burglary, I wish to state that from information I have received I believe the reformatory effect of imprisonment has been accomplished upon him. At the time of his sentence burglary was quite common in New Castle, and the severity of the sentence was somewhat increased in order that it might have a deterrent effect on others.

In view of these matters and the fact that he is the only support of his mother, who is quite old, I would recommend his pardon.

Yours truly,
WILLIAM E. PORTER."

The district attorney writes as follows:

"New Castle, Pa., May 5, 1909.

To the Honorable Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Penna.

Gentlemen:—I have notice that an application has been made for the pardon of Harry Mitchell, and have been served with a copy of the reasons why said pardon should be granted.

Harry Mitchell plead guilty to the charge of burglary on February 28, 1908, and was the same day sentenced to serve an imprisonment of four and one-half years in the Penitentiary. The crime for which he was charged was committed on December 29, 1907.

I have known Harry Mitchell and his family for nearly all my life, having been raised in the same township with him, and he comes from a good family, who have always been law-abiding, and none of them were ever in any trouble before. Harry Mitchell is not strong intellectually, and at the time he committed this crime was out of employment, and had been drinking to excess. He has an aged mother depending upon him for support, and I am convinced that the Court, in passing sentence upon him, made his punishment too severe. This boy is not a professional criminal, and should not have been punished as one. I am thoroughly convinced that the punishment he has already received is sufficient to meet the ends of justice.

Yours truly,
CHAS. H. YOUNG,
Dist. Atty. for Lawrence Co."

In view, therefore, of what has been said, we recommend that a pardon be granted this applicant, Harry Mitchell.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NO. 17—1909.

June 17, 1909.

His Excellency, Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of legheny, to Nos. 531 and 532, March Term, 1906, Er-sto Santarra was convicted on two indictments charging m with the crime of entering a building with intent to mmit a felony, larceny, etc., and he was thereupon, April), 1906, sentenced in each case to pay a fine of $50, and undergo an imprisonment in the Allegheny County Work-use for the period of four years, aggregating eight years prison.

An application has been filed for the pardon of this de-ndant, and the reasons are substantially, that the amount leged to have been stolen was small, and that under the rcumstances the sentence is unreasonable, unfair and un-st; that the defendant is not guilty of the crimes charged; at according to depositions submitted to the Board, the efendant establishes an alibi; that although some of the olen goods were found in defendant's house, they were the trunk of one of his boarders; prior good character the defendant; that the imprisonment already under-one is sufficient punishment, even if he did commit the imes alleged; that being without counsel at the trial, and ounsel being assigned by the Court, there was not suffi-ient time to prepare the defense.

An examination of the records before us convinces the oard that there is merit in the application, and that the easons alleged as a basis for our favorable consideration, re on the whole worthy of attention.

The prisoner is an Italian. At the time of the commis-ion of the alleged offense he lived at Sharpsburg. The ocality of the offense was DeHaven, some six miles distant. he burglary took place during the night of the 23rd of farch, 1906. The prosecution connected the defendant ith it by reason of the finding of defendant's identifi-ation card on the premises. This circumstance is ex-lained from the fact that several days previous the de-endant having been in an altercation on the highway with ertain other Italians, whose enmity in some way he had ained, left his identification card at the office of the Mag-strate on the hearing of the case growing out of this dif-iculty; and it is supposed that in some way this card came nto the possession of the real perpetrators of the crime. n support of defendant's alibi there were depositions of-ered establishing the following facts: On the night in uestion, viz., the night of the 23rd of March, 1906, de-endant's wife gave birth to a child, and the testimony of he wife and of the midwife is that the defendant was at is own home during the night. On the following morning, March 24, one or two of his boarders gave him certain rticles as presents in honor of the event of the birth of is son; these articles were among those alleged to have een stolen from the premises in DeHaven; other articles lleged to have been stolen were found in the room of the oarders, who threatened the defendant with death if he gave any information tending to associate them with the ommission of the burglary. The finding of defendant's ard, it seems, was the only evidence against the prisoner. All the stolen property was eventually recovered.

We are inclined to the belief that this prisoner was, even if not unduly convicted, at least sentenced rather too severely under the circumstances. His family is entirely destitute and has been subsisting on charity.

In view, therefore, of the punishment already undergone, of the previous good reputation of the prisoner, and the deplorable condition of his family, we feel that this case can properly be recommended for Executive clemency, and we, threfore, unite in recommonding that a pardon be granted the applicant, Ernesto Santarra.

NO. 18—1909.

June 17, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—Joseph Aiello, the applicant, was convicted of murder in the first degree in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Jefferson County, at December Sessions, 1896, and on the 25th day of December, 1896, was thereupon sentenced to be hanged. In June, 1897, an application was made to the Board of Pardons for a commutation of the sentence of death to that of imprisonment for life, which application was granted, and the applicant was committed to the Western Penitentiary where he has been confined since that time.

Application for full pardon was made at the June Sessions of the Board in 1908, and was then refused. On April 21, 1909, a rehearing was granted, and the application was argued and considered by the Board at the June Sessions, and the Board unanimously decided to recommend to your Excellency the issuance of a pardon for the applicant.

The circumstances attending the crime were as follows: Joseph Aiello, the applicant, and Louis Scalzi, the deceased, lived in adjoining houses in Walston, Jefferson County. On the morning of December 25, 1895, Aiello invited Scalzi and others living in the house to take dinner with him and his family. Before the dinner hour arrived, however, Scalzi became intoxicated and quarreled with some other Italians, but this quarrel was stopped by the intervention of Aiello and several others. Scalzi then went to his own house where he procured a large pair of shears with which he made an attack on his friends who had saved him in the fight. The parties present seized Scalzi and took the shears away from him and after trying to quiet him he retired a short distance from the house, where he remained an hour or more. Aiello, after eating his dinner, went away and was absent for some time. In the meantime, Scalzi returned to Aiello's house armed with a pick. At the door one of Aiello's little boys was standing; Scalzi thrust him out of the way in a rude manner so as to cause the boy to cry. He entered Aiello's house and made a general assault on the persons there with the pick, narrowly missing Aiello's wife, and inflicting a wound four inches in length on the head of one of the persons in the room. He was disarmed and returned to his own house, making threats of violence against everybody. When Aiello returned, he remonstrated with Scalzi, who immediately made an attack upon him. In the scuffle, Aiello picked up a knife lying on the table and struck Scalzi with it twice, causing his death in a short time.

In support of the application are letters from prominent attorneys of the county, who state they were not interested as counsel in the trial of the case, but that they heard all the evidence and are convinced that the verdict should not have been of a grade higher than that of murder in the second degree. The trial Judge writes as follows:

"The attached letter from Mr. Aiello explains itself. I have written him that I have no objection to favorable action by the Pardon Board on this application, but do not deem it proper for me to urge such action. There are some extenuating circumstances in Aiello's case, and if the Board deem them sufficient at this time to move them to favorable action, it will meet my approval. You may say this to the Board, as expressing my feeling in the matter, if you deem it of sufficient importance to make the statement.

Very truly yours,
JOHN W. REED,
President Judge."

The District Attorney who prosecuted the case, writes the following letter to the Board:

"I beg to respectfully suggest that I was District Attorney of Jefferson County when Joseph Aiello was convicted, and conducted said case for the Commonwealth. Upon being convicted, the defendant took an appeal to the Supreme Court, where I also represented the Commonwealth. The lower court being sustained, the defendant next appealed to your Honorable Board and the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. I did not appear before the Board of Pardons at that time because I believed, in view of all the circumstances, that this change in the sentence would be right. While Joseph Aiello was justly convicted and sentenced, I now respectfully suggest, that because of the circumstances connected with the homicide which kept me from opposing a commutation of the sentence, I now state that if your honorable Board should grant him a complete pardon, I am of opinion that justice would be fully satisfied.

Very respectfully,
N. L. STRONG,
Ex-District Attorney."

In view of the facts that the deceased was the aggressor and the one responsible for the trouble, brought on by his intoxicated condition and quarrelsome nature, as evidenced by his assault on the family of the applicant; that he has now served a length of time equivalent to the maximum sentence for murder in the second degree, deducting the time allowed for good behavior, and with especial regard to the statements made by the trial Judge and the District Attorney, the Board unites in recommending that a pardon be now issued to the applicant, Joseph Aiello

Respectfully submitted,

NO. 19—1909.

June 29, 1909.

To His Excellency, Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Bucks at the February Sessions, 1907, Henry Throckmorton, in connection with Harry Johananges, was tried on a number of indictments charging them with burglary, felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods, and was convicted on five separate indictments of felonious entry, larceny and receiving stolen goods. On February 28, 1907, the defendants were each sentenced to pay a fine of one dollar and undergo an imprisonment for five years in each case—the terms of imprisonment running concurrent.

The defendant, Throckmorton, has made application for pardon. His case was heard at the June meeting of the board, and after due consideration we are of opinion that the application is entitled to a favorable recommendation.

The prisoner, Harry Throckmorton, is a young man, and at the time of his conviction was only about seventeen years of age. His home is in Colorado. He left his home there in 1905, making his way to the Pacific Coast, where he shipped on a vessel that rounded Cape Horn, and some time in the early part of 1906 he reached the Atlantic Coast. He was big and strong for his age, and was rated an able seaman. He became a member of the Atlantic Coast Seamen's Union, and is in good standing and under good report from that organization. About the first of August, 1906, he reached Phifadelphia in his travels, and was there employed in turn on several vessels, always sustaining his good reputation. By the latter part of that year he had become acquainted with Johananges, the other defendant in the above cases. On November 21st these two defendants, while rowing up the Delaware River, along the lower part of Bucks County, approached a row of boat houses fringing the shore, which were then closed for the season. Moved by an impulse neither of them could explain, they broke open several of these houses, entered and ransacked them, and carried off some articles of personal property. On December 2d following the boys were arrested, and after a hearing were, in default of bail, committed to jail. Their trial and conviction ensued in the following February, so that this applicant has been in prison all told more than two years and a half.

Throckmorton's companion in this escapade appears to have had a bad record. It is alleged, and apparently with reason, that this bad companionship got Throckmorton into his present trouble. From evidence submitted to us in the shape of letters, affidavits, etc., Throckmorton himself enjoyed an excellent reputation prior to the time of this infraction of the law.

There does not appear to have been deliberate premeditation on the part of either defendant to commit a felony when they started out on the trip. Their act was more in the nature of a boyish prank, carried out on the spur of the moment, than of a thought-out design to break the law. Still there was technical guilt, and the defendants were properly convicted and sentenced. This was Throckmorton's first offense; his companion, however, had not the same good record.

The prosecutors in the several cases have asked our favorable recommendation of the application for pardon. They have been influenced no doubt by the age of the prisoner, his previous good character, his unfortunate alliance with another youth whose record with the police was bad, his being a stranger in these parts, the knowledge that his aged parents in Colorado are overwhelmed with grief at their son's fall, and the belief that these old people are in great need of their son's presence and services. It has been made to appear to us also that if released from prison this applicant will at once go to Colorado to the home of his parents.

The district attorney who prosecuted, and the judge who tried the case, both endorse the application. Many other letters and testimonials are on file, all favoring the applicant's release. The impression seems to be well-founded that there was on the part of Throckmorton a lack of criminal intent; that the term of imprisonment he has already suffered is sufficient punishment for his indiscretion; that the ends of justice have been fully met; that the public good does not demand his further confinement, and that more benefit would result to the prisoner, to society and to humanity, by restoring to the prisoner his liberty at this time than by exacting from him the full term of imprisonment. We also have the positive assurance that money is now in the hands of his counsel to pay for his transportation to Colorado to his parents' home immediately upon his release if pardon is granted him.

For these reasons, therefore, we recommend that executive clemency be accorded this prisoner, and that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Henry Throckmorton.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.

NO. 20—1909

September 28, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions for the county of Allegheny, to No. 239, March Sessions, 1908, Alphonso Minnelli was convicted on an indictment charging him with felonious assault and battery upon the person of his wife, Mary Minnelli. He was thereupon, May 27, 1908, sentenced by the court to pay a fine of one hundred dollars and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the terms of three years.

The prisoner's application for pardon has been heard and considered by the Board at its meeting held this day, and a recommendation that the pardon be granted is herewith respectfully submitted.

The applicant is a young man of about 24 years of age, an Italian by birth, and, prior to the commission of the offense charged, was in the enjoyment of a good reputation. His marriage was opposed by the parents of his wife, mainly on account of the age of the girl, who was then about 17 years old. An elopement resulted. The young people set up their housekeeping, and lived happily for awhile. The opposition of the parents continued, and they would not receive the husband at their house. The daughter, however, did visit her parents. On February 16, 1908, after a visit to her home the wife told her husband that her parents' unfriendliness towards him still remained, but that she would go and live with them without him, or something to that effect. Minnelli evidently loved his wife, and the thought of her leaving him excited him to a great extent. He went into another room, where he had a pistol, and then came back to where his wife was and began shooting in an aimless manner towards the floor and towards the ceiling of the room. The wife rushed at him with uplifted hands, and one of the bullets struck her upon the finger, causing a slight abrasion of the skin. She fled from the house and raised an alarm. The husband was arrested, and his conviction and imprisonment followed.

It was the contention of the defendant that he did not ean to shoot his wife. The direction of the shooting ems to bear out this theory. Since the trial the wife d her parents have carefully considered the circum-ances and have made an examination of the premises here the shooting occurred, and appear to have satisfied emselves that from the marks of the bullets on the or and on the ceiling of the room the aim was not to-ard the wife at all, and that the defendant did not ean to do her bodily harm.

Further, the parents now have changed their feelings wards Minnelli, and are ready to receive him into their me, and are willing that he and his wife should live to-ther without any ouposition on their part.

Defendant has already undergone considerably more than year's imprisonment; assurances of his employment upon s liberation have been given by reliable people; he and s wife will be enabled to start afresh without disturbing fluences. The measure of good to the community and to e parties in interest will be greater if he were pardoned ow than would be any benefit to the public and to the me parties that could be expected if he served out his me.

After a careful consideration of all the facts and cir-umstances of the case we believe this to be a proper oc-asion for the exercise of Executive clemency, and we, herefore, recommend that a pardon in full be granted the pplicant, Alphonso Minnelli.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor,
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth,

No. 21—1909

September 28, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions for the County of Luzerne, to No. 27, June Term, 1908, Robert Castrelin was, on the 15th day of June, 1908, convicted on an indictment charging him with the commission of an aggravated assault upon the person of his wife, and he was, upon the same day, sentenced by the court to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars and undergo an imprisonment in the county jail for the term of two years.

An application for his pardon has been made, and the matter was this day heard and considered by the Board. After a careful examination into the facts as disclosed by the record and the statements made at the hearing, we recommend that a pardon be granted said applicant.

Casterlin and his wife were a mismated pair. They had frequent family difficulties of various sorts. Among other troubles, each accused the other of infidelity. There was a separation, and the parties lived apart for about a year. The husband endeavored to return to his home in April, 1908, but his homecoming was ont welcomed by his wife. A quarrel between them then and there ensued, in the course of which Casterlin struck and beat his wife. His arrest followed, and the conviction above mentioned resulted.

The defendant has served more than a year in prison. It is admitted by the prosecution that the sentence of two years was a bit severe under the circumstances of the case. Further, there has since been an agreement between this husband and wife whereby the wife acknowledges full satisfaction for all personal injuries received. Under the agreement provision has been made for future support of the wife. She thereore joins in asking that a pardon be granted her husband. The ends of justice, so far as she is concerned, have been met in full. The law has been vindicated by his conviction and imprisonment, and the public good will not suffer by the release of the prisoner a few months earlier than the expiration of the sentence imposed.

For these reasons we recommend that a pardon in full be granted the applicant, Robert Casterlin.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General.

No. 22—1908.

September 28, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions for the County of Blair, to No. 36, October Sessions, 1908, Frank Ferry, on October 8, 1908, entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with larceny, entering with intent to steal and receiving stolen goods. He was on that day sentenced to the Huntingdon Reformatory, it appearing to the court that he was between the ages of 15 and 25 years. At the time of the commission of the offense charged the defendant was of the age of 16 years.

On the 15th day of June, 1909, the prisoner was removed from the Reformatory and committed to the Western Penitentiary. This transfer was made by reason of an infraction of the rules of the Reformatory under the following circumstances: The prisoner's conduct being good, he was assigned to work outside the enclosure of the institution, and on the 10th day of June last, while overcome with a feeling of homesickness and under an impulse to see his mother, he started across country to go to his home in the adjoining county. He was soon missed, was followed and overtaken and brought back, and was, within a few days, in pursuance of the rules of the institution, sent to the Western Penitentiary, where, it seems he will be held for a term of eighteen months.

An application for his pardon has been filed. At our hearing to-day the facts in relation to the case were heard at length, and after careful consideration we are convinced that this is a case that merits an interference with the stern enforcement of the law, and we therefore recommend that a pardon in full be granted the applicant.

This boy was not a hardened criminal. He has spent more than eight months in the Reformatory, and has been confined considerably more than three months in the Penitentiary. This incarceration has been a sufficient punishment for his offending. Moreover, it was shown that the boy was instigated to the commission of the thefts by persons of mature years, who profited by his peculations. The articles stolen were certain cans of lard, the property of prisoner's brother, who was in the meat selling business in the city of Altoona, and with whom the prisoner was employed. Three other dealers in the same line of business in that town in some manner induced this boy to take away from his brother's store surreptitiously at different times a number of cans of lard, which they, well knowing them to be stolen, bought from him at low prices, far below market value. The Police Departmene of the city, investigating the thefts, learned of the real state of affairs, and made arrest of the boy, as well as of these three guilty receivers of stolen goods. The boy not only admitted his guilt, but gave the authorities information and testimony which resulted in the conviction of the three men, each of whom was sentenced to imprisonment for comparatively short terms. The boy, their tool, and the victim of their cupidity, we find is liable to a long term of confinement. So far as known this was his first offense. He comes from a good family, and has a good home, with proper surroundings, awaiting him, and it seems a miscarriage of justice to force him to spend months in the Penitentiary, while the more guilty offenders had their punishment meted out by days' imprisonment.

The District Attorney of Blair county, the Chief of Police of Altoona, the county officials, members of the Legislature, members of the bar, and a host of neighbors of the boy, all of whom well understand the peculiar situation of affairs, joined in an application for the boy's pardon. Public interests will not suffer by his release, and his own future usefulness may be secured by his pardon.

After carefully considering all the circumstances of the case, we are convinced that this applicant should be released from confinement, and we therefore recommend that a full pardon be granted said applicant, Frank Ferry.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
M. HAMPTON TODD,

NO. 23—1909.

September 28, 1909.

To His Excellency, Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Jefferson, to No. 7, August Sessions, 1903, August David entered a plea of guilty to the charge of voluntary manslaughter on an indictment charging him with murder, and thereupon, on August, 1903, he was sentenced to an imprisonment of ten years in the Western Penitentiary, where he has been confined since that time. Under the operation of the Commutation Act he will be entitled to his discharge from imprisonment about March of next year.

An application for his pardon before that time has been made; a full hearing was given said application at the meeting of the board held this day. We recommend that the pardon be granted as prayed for.

The applicant is now about sixty-five years of age. Prior to the commission of the offence charged in the above indictment he bore an excellent reputation, never having had the least breath of suspicion of violation of law directed toward him. The homicide for which he has been imprisoned occurred in the heat of sudden passion, and evidently was unintended. It arose out of a dispute with a neighbor concerning the flow of water from the land of the prisoner to that of the neighbor, who was the adjoining land owner. The latter seems to have been the aggressor in the quarrel and to have brought on the dispute, and unfortunately he became the victim.

On examination into all the circumstances surrounding the case as developed before us, it has been made to appear that the length of time already served in confinement has answered the requirements of justice, and there is no further good to be expected from a prolonged imprisonment of the applicant.

The following testimonial in the nature of an address to the board, signed by upward of two hundred of applicant's neighbors, has been filed with us, and can be taken as an expression of the sentiment of the community where this unfortunate tragedy took place:

"To the Honorable the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

We, the undersigned, citizens of Jefferson County, Pennsylvania, residing at or near the village of Rathmel, the home of August David, do hereby certify that we are acquainted with and have known him for many years; that prior to the crime charged against him and for which said crime he is now serving a sentence of ten years in the Western Penitentiary of Pennsylvania, situate in the city of Allegheny, Pennsylvania, he was a man of temperate habits and good moral character; honest, industrious and highly respected by all his neighbors and friends, and under all the circumstances surrounding the case we can frankly say that by reason of his good behavior during his incarceration, and the time of his discharge from the said Western Penitentiary so near at hand, viz., on or about March, A. D. 1910, we feel that the ends of justice have been met, and that no harm to society or the community at large will be done if his pardon at this time should be granted."

Judge Boughton, who presided at the trial of the case, and who sentenced the prisoner, writes the following letter under date of May 18, 1909:

"To the Honorable the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—I am informed that an application is about to be made to your Honorable Board for a pardon for one, August David, convicted before me in the Courts of Jefferson County, of manslaughter. At the time of sentence I felt it necessary to impose quite a severe punishment for the reason, among other things, that homicide had become quite prevalent in Jefferson County. And I had in mind at the time one of the primary objects of human punishment, to wit, the deterring of others from the commission of like offences, deeming it at that time necessary for the publi good to impose a severe sentence.

Mr. David is an old man, and his wife, of course, like th wives of all other offenders, is suffering greatly by reaso of his incarceration. I desire to say that I have no objec tion to the granting of the pardon, and in fact feel tha no harm to society or the community at large will be don if such pardon should at this time be granted.

J. W. BOUGHTON, P. J."

In view of all the circumstances surrounding this case as appears from the record and from the statements made t us at the hearing, giving consideration to the address o applicant's neighbors and to the letter of Judge Boughton we recommend that a full pardon be granted the applicant August David.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General.
HENRY HOUCK,

NO. 24—1909.

October 20, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery in and for the County of Fayette, at March Term, 1909, the applicant, Frank Cole, was indicted for the crime of murder. The defendant was arraigned for trial on March 19, 1909, pleaded not guilty, and by agreement of court and counsel was found guilty of the crime of voluntary manslaughter, and on the same day was sentenced to pay a fine of six cents, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the period of two years.

Frank Cole, the applicant, was indicted for the felonious killing of one William Saunders, at Mt. Braddock, on February 13, 1909. He is twenty-six years of age and is unmarried. He made his home with his parents at Dunbar, and has always borne a good reputation for peaceableness and industry. He was quiet and retiring, due largely to defective hearing. He was a laborer in brickyards near his home.

On Saturday evening, February 13, 1909, Saunders invited Cole to his home to spend the evening. Saunders' family consisted of wife and two or three children, and they lived in a two-room company house—a veritable hovel. There was a two- or three-gallon keg of beer on tap, and both men drank freely. Nearby lived a Polish family, at whose house a Saturday night dance was in progress. Saunders borrowed Cole's shoes and went to the dance. He participated in the dance, played one of the musical instruments, and joined in the festivity. His wife went for him, and he then directed her to bring some beer. She returned with Cole to the dance, Cole having slipped on a pair of rubber shoes or boots of Saunders. Shortly all three returned to Saunders' house. Some offense was taken by Saunders at something Cole said or did, and took off Cole's shoes and threw them at him. As Cole started to put them on Saunders made an attack on him. Cole was struck some blows on the head, and in the ensuing scuffle secured a poker which was standing at the fireplace, and with it struck Saunders a blow upon the head, from the effects of which blow he died a few hours later. Cole, with his collar missing and his shirt in shreds, went to the Mt. Braddock engine house and surrendered himself to an officer. At the time of the trial it was but a question as to whether or not, under the circumstances, Cole had reasonable or probable means of escape. After consultation with the court and district attorney it was agreed that the jury should render a verdict of voluntary manslaughter.

In support of the application for pardon there has been presented to the board a letter from the Honorable J. Q. Van Swearingen, the trial judge, which we quote:

"Uniontown, Pa., October 4, 1909.

Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—Frank Cole was tried before me in March, 1909, on a charge of murder, and after the testimony on the part of the Commonwealth was closed, it was agreed by counsel and the Court that the jury should return a verdict of voluntary manslaughter, which was done. I did not consider the case a very serious one, but thought some punishment should be imposed, and therefore sentenced the defendant to two years in the penitentiary. Mitigating circumstances have become known since that time, and the conduct of the defendant has been such that I feel he has suffered sufficient punishment already, and I therefore join in the prayer that a pardon be granted.

Yours very respectfully,
J. Q. VAN SWEARINGEN.

I heartily concur in the above request for a pardon.
ROBERT E. UMBEL,
President Judge XIV Judicial District."

In further support of the application for a recommendation of pardon, there was presented to the Board the following letter from George Patterson, Esquire, Assistant District Attorney:

"Uniontown, Pa., October 4, 1909.

Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—I desire to join in the application for a pardon for Frank Cole, convicted in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Fayette County of manslaughter. I tried this case, and am familiar with the circumstances and the testimony submitted at the time of the trial. I believe that the sixth reason submitted by the petitioner for a pardon is well-founded. Many facts have developed since the trial that lead me to this belief. The applicant has always born a good reputation in the community where he lived; and I believe the crime of which he was convicted was more the result of his condition at the time of its commission than any inherent wrong in the applicant himself. The case was a very close one between manslaughter and acquittal, and the prisoner himself agreed to a verdict of manslaughter after the Commonwealth's testimony had been presented.

Under all the circumstances of this case, I believe it is one deserving of clemency at your hands, and I most respectfully request that the prayer of the petitioner be granted, if it should meet with the approval of your honorable Board.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE PATTERSON,
Asst. District Attorney for Fayette Co.

In view of all the facts and circumstances surrounding this case, and giving due consideration and weight to the letters from the learned trial judge and the assistant district attorney, the board respectfully recommends that a pardon may now issue to the said Frank Cole.

Lieutenant Governor.

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

No. 25—1909.

October 20, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of Columbia County, at September Term, 1907, Fortunata Callabro and Antonio Callabro were convicted of the crime of keeping a bawdy-house, of selling liquor without a license, and of extortion and conspiracy to extort, and on September 5, 1907, Fortunato Callabro was sentenced to pay a fine of $500, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for the period of five years. Upon the same day Antonio Callabro was sentenced to pay a fine of $250, the costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the said institution for the term of two and one-half years.

The term of sentence imposed upon Antonio has been served by him, he having been released from the Penitentiary in August last.

Applications for recommendation of pardon were made by both of these prisoners a year ago. Careful consideration was then given the applications, and both were refused.

There seems to be some doubt as to the trustworthiness of some of the witnesses who testified for the prosecution—the principal of these being a man of the name of John Zangrone. This man was convicted at the same term of court, within a short time of the conviction of the Callabros, of the crime of impersonating an officer of the State Constabulary and of keeping a bawdy-house, and he was sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment in the penitentiary. After his own conviction, he admitted that his testimony in the Callabro case was false. Notwithstanding this, and eliminating this so-called false testimony, the Board was of the opinion that the defendants were guilty to a certain extent, and that they should serve a proper length of time in prison.

One of the defendants, Antonio Callabro, having served his full term of imprisonment, the Board believes that Fortunata Callabro should now be granted clemency, because he has suffered sufficient punishment for his violation of the law, and that he should be released from prison.

The Honorable Charles E. Evans, the trial Judge in the case cited, writes the Board, under date of October 20, 1908, as follows:

"26th Judicial District,
Charles C. Evans, Berwick, Pa.

To the Board of Pardons.

Dear Sirs:—The Callabros were undoubtedly convicted largely upon the testimony of John Zangrone. At the following session Zangrone was convicted of like charges.

There is considerable doubt in my mind as to whether Zangrone testified truthfully.

The Callabros have now served about 14 months.

They perhaps ought to be pardoned.

Very respectfully,
October 20, 1908. CHARLES C. EVANS."

In support of the application, letters have been received from substantial and worthy citizens and from municipal officials, asking that a recommendation of pardon be granted in this case. Among these communications are letters from the Chief Burgess of West Berwick, the President of Council, the Chief of Police, the Constable, the Overseers of the Poor, the School Directors, who certify that they are well acquainted with the petitioner and believe him to have been unjustly convicted.

In view of all the facts and circumstances connected with this case, and especially in view of the fact that the trial Judge expresses his doubt as to the truthfulness of the chief witness for the prosecution, the Board respectfully recommends that clemency may be extended, and that a pardon may now issue to the said Fortunata Callabro.

No. 26—1909.

November 3, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—At a Court of Quarter Sessions in and for the county of Luzerne, at April Term, 1909, Ferdinand Lamkin was convicted on an indictment charging him with the crime of statutory rape, and on May 1, 1909, was by the said court sentenced to pay a fine of $500, the costs of prosecution, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of seven years and six months.

Application for pardon was made at the September meeting of the Board, and the case was held under advisement until this time, pending the production of certain affidavits—which have now been furnished—and also by an investigation which convinces the Board that a pardon to this prisoner would now be proper.

The crime for which the prisoner was convicted was alleged to have been committed in January, 1908, on the person of his stepdaughter, Emma Beyers, then aged about eleven years. Her testimony was to the effect that the act was repeated many times, although she never told her mother until a year after the last occurrence.

No examination of the child's person was made by any physician until after the trial, conviction and sentence, when, at the instance of the prosecutrix, Mrs. Anna M. Bertels, Matron of the United Charities of Wilkes-Barre, the child was examined by Dr. G. F. Matlack, a physician who stands at the head of his profession in Wilkes-Barre, and who made the following report:

Commonwealth) In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Luvs.) zerne County, Pennsylvania. No.....
Frank Lamkin) April Term, 1909.

I, the undersigned, physician of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, have, at the request of counsel for the above named defendant, this 5th day of May, 1909, made a thorough physical examination of the person of Emma Beyer, and find no traces of her having been ravished; on the contrary, I find her chastity unsoiled. Furthermore, I am firmly convinced that had she been ravished, earmarks of the deed would have been found upon her person. There are absolutely no signs of penetration; and from my examination of this girl, I find that it would have been impossible for this child to have undergone the operation without intense pain and bleeding. Nay more, from a medical standpoint of view, no crime has been committed upon the person of Emma Beyer.

(Signed) G. F. MATLACK.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 5, 1909.

Mrs. Anna M. Bertels, the prosecutrix, has made affidavit as follows:

Commonwealth) In the Court of Quarter Sessions of vs) Luzerne county. No.....April Ferdinand Lamkin) Sessions, 1909.
Luzerne County, ss:

Mrs. Anna M. Bertels, being duly sworn according to law, deposes and says, that she was the prosecutrix in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Ferdinand Lamkin, and at the time of having the above named defendant arrested, she relied upon the statements made to her by the mother of Emma Beyer and by Emma Beyer herself, and that in pursuance of said information the defendant above named was arrested.

After the trial and conviction I was not satisfied as to the guilt of the defendant. I therefore took Emma Beyer, the girl who alleged that she was criminally assaulted, to Dr. G. F. Matlack, a very reputable physician of Wilkes-Barre, and had a personal examination made of her person; and, much to my surprise, I was informed by the doctor that the little girl had not been penetrated, and that the defendant was therefore innocent of the crime charged against him.

I most earnestly join in the petition that he be pardoned, as Matron of the Humane Society of Wilkes-Barre. I have always desired to see that only justice be done, and where I discover that I have been misinformed I never hesitate in so certifying. I am fully convinced that this defendant did not commit the crime of rape upon his stepdaughter, Emma Beyer.

ANNA M. BERTELS,

Matron of the United Charities of Wilkes-Barre, Pa."

Sworn and subscribed before me this 21st day of October, 1909.

ALEX. RICKETTS,

(Seal) Alderman.

My commission expires first Monday of May, 1910.

At the hearing of this case the statement was made that, some time previous to the bringing of the prosecution, Mrs. Lamkin had separated from her husband, and that she was endeavoring to procure a divorce, and this fact may have inspired the prosecution.

District Attorney Salsburg, who was present at the hearing, said that the medical examination was made by a reputable physician and that the statement was undoubtedly true. The trial Judge sentenced the defendant for seven years and one-half, which could be done legally only under the count of rape in the indictment.

From these facts it would therefore appear that the defendant was illegally sentenced. Inasmuch as the term has gone by and the court cannot grant a new trial, and the record showing no ground of appeal—that is, it does not show the material fact of the absence of penetration—there is no relief for this prisoner except through the action of the Pardon Board. He was legally convicted on the facts set forth before the court and jury, but under the undisputed facts—that is, the absence of penetration—coupled with the sentence, which could only be sustained if pentration had taken place—he is now undergoing an illegal imprisonment, and there can be no relief for this situation except an unconditional pardon

The Board therefore respectfully recommends that a pardon may now issue to the said Ferdinand Lamkin.

NO. 27—1909.

November 17, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Lackawanna, to No. 4, April Term, 1902, Michael J. Davis was convicted, June 12, 1902, on an indictment charging him with murder, the jury fixing the grade of the offense as murder in the second degree. On June 14, 1902, the said defendant was sentenced to pay the costs and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of eighteen years.

An application for the pardon of this prisoner has been duly made; and after a full hearing and upon careful consideration of the case the Board is of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Michael J. Davis.

The homicide in question took place in the village of Minooka, in the county of Lackawanna. It was the result of a drunken brawl in a saloon. Prior to the time of the commission of this crime the defendant had borne a good reputation. On the night of February 15, 1902, Davis having been drinking during the day, met the victim, a man by the name of King, in a saloon in company with several other men, all of whom were more or less under the influence of liquor. A dispute of some kind arose which ripened into a quarrel, and in the ecurse of a scuffle between Davis and King, Davis drew his revolver and fired several shots in the air; and the men getting into close quarters the weapon was discharged and King was struck and killed.

Although the jury fixed the grade of the crime at murder in the second degree, it appears to be the opinion of the officials engaged in the trial of the case that a verdict of manslaughter would have answered the ends of justice, and that therefore the prisoner has been sufficiently punished by the imprisonment already endured. Our examination of the record, and our inquiry into the circumstances of the case, backed up by the endorsement of a number of influential and responsible persons, well acquainted with the details of the occurrence and the character of the applicant, lead us to the same conclusion.

William R. Lewis, Esq., the District Attorney who tried the case, writes to the Board as follows:

"Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—As District Attorney of Lackawanna County I had personal charge of the trial of Michael J. Davis, charged with the murder of Peter King.

Davis was found guilty of murder in the second degree, and was sentenced to eighteen years in the Penitentiary.

The crime was committed between the hours of 12.00 and 1 o'clock Sunday morning in a saloon in the village of Minooka, near this city.

Most, if not all, of the persons present at the time of the commission of this crime were more or less under the influence of drink. The evidence disclosed that the murdered man, King, had been drinking during the evening, and that Davis had been drinking in several saloons in the city of Scranton before his arrival at the place where the crime was committed. In fact, several persons present, upon being interviewed, informed me that their condition of intoxication was such that they could not tell what actually took place.

The crime was committed with a revolver. Davis, as I recall now, fired in all five shots, three of which entered the body of the deceased.

Immediately prior to the shooting some altercation had taken place between Davis and King about the service of a subpoena by Davis, acting as a constable, upon King. This service had taken place at some time prior to the killing.

I feel confident that if Davis had been entirely sober at this time this crime would not have been committed.

While I was at the time perfectly satisfied with the verdict of the jury in the case, a verdict of voluntary manslaughter would have been no miscarriage of justice.

Immediately after the conclusion of the trial, and before the jury had rendered its verdict, the trial judge, Honorable H. M. Edwards, expressed to me his opinion that the verdict would be voluntary manslaughter.

Before the commission of this offence Davis had borne a good reputation among his neighbors.

Very truly yours,

WM. R. LEWIS."

Honorable H. M. Edwards, who presided at the trial, writes:

"Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—I have been asked to write a letter in regard to the case of Michael Davis, which comes before you.

I very seldom write letters in cases that come before the Board. I am willing to make an exception in this case. Davis was convicted of murder in the second degree, and I sentenced him, I think, to eighteen years. I believe now that the sentence was too severe. I would have been satisfied with a verdict of manslaughter. The homicide was the result of a bar-room brawl.

Yours truly,

H. M. EDWARDS, P. J."

In view of the circumstances as stated, and giving due heed to the opinions of the District Attorney and the trial judge, we respectfully recommend that the application in this case be favorably received, and that a pardon be granted the applicant, Michael J. Davis.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NO. 28—1909

November 17, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Philadelphia, to Nos. 27 and 28, August Sessions, 1908, Agnes Boland entered pleas of guilty to indictments charging her with the crime of larceny. She was thereupon sentenced the same day—August 11, 1908—to an imprisonment of three years in the Philadelphia County Prison.

She has filed her application for pardon, which application it has been made to appear to the Board should be favorably considered. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted to the applicant, Agnes Boland.

The applicant is a young woman who came from Ireland in 1906, and soon thereafter obtained work in the carpet mills at Falls of Schuylkill, Philadelphia. Subsequently, upon the closing down of the mills, she went out to work as a domestic servant, first in the family of Mr. J. W. Craft, Philadelphia, and then in the family of Mr. Jacob Kirchberg, Philadelphia. While in the employment of these persons respectively she stole some articles of clothing and table wear, for which peculations she was indicted and convicted. When her case was called for trial she was without counsel, and the fact of there being two separate prosecutions gave the impression that she was a professional servant girl thief. Her sentence seems to have been meted out on this theory.

It has transpired, however, that this theory is entirely incorrect. These were her first offenses. Prior to their commission she had borne a good reputation. From letters submitted to the Board and from affidavits on file we are convinced that this prisoner is not a persistent criminal. Considering the facts as laid before us, we are of the belief that this prisoner has been sufficiently punished by the more than fifteen months' imprisonment which she has undergone, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Agnes Boland.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NO. 29—1909

December 15, 1909.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Fayette, to No. 10, September Term, 1906, James R. Smith was convicted on an indictment charging him with assault and battery, aggravated assault and battery and assault and battery with intent to kill and murder, and was thereupon, after refusal of a motion for new trial, sentenced—January 29, 1907—to pay a fine of six cents, costs, and undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the term of five years. He has served nearly three years of that sentence.

An application for pardon of the defendant was filed in October, 1907, which application was denied. Subsequently an application for a rehearing of the case was filed and allowed, and the case was again presented in due course at the regular meeting of the Board, held this day. After careful consideration of the case the Board is of opinion that a recommendation for Executive clemency can now properly be made, and we therefore unite in recommending that a pardon be granted the applicant, James R. Smith.

The applicant is a man of nearly sixty years of age. He was a resident of Fayette county, and at the time of the commission of the offense charged was possessed of considerable property. He had many peculiarities of disposition, and his natural weaknesses in this direction were aggravated by the use of intoxicating liquor. He was married, and had a family of chilldren, to whom, it is said, he was strongly attached. One of his daughters, when about the age of seventeen years, accepted the attentions of a young man by the name of William Wirsing, whose family lived in the neighborhood of the Smith family. Smith was much opposed to an alliance with Wirsing, but the young people persisted in their course. An elopement followed, and Wirsing and the daughter were maried before Smith could prevent it. This marriage took place on May 30, 1906. Wirsing and his wife returned to Fayette county and took up their abode with the husband's father, who lived a few miles distant from the Smith homestead. On or about the 5th of June following Smith wrote to his daughter, stating that he had forgiven her, and inviting her and her husband to visit her old home on the following 8th of June, where a dinner would be given her and her friends in honor of her marriage. In pursuance of this invitation Wirsing and his wife drove to the Smith home and entered the premises. Smith saw them coming. One of his spells seemed to be on him that day. He called out to them from an upstairs window, having a loaded rifle in his hands. Wirsing stepped out into the open and Smith immediately fired at him, the ball striking him on the hand and severing a finger. Smith then started downstairs. Wirsing and his wife ran out of the yard, and went down the street. Smith followed and fired three more shots, one of which took effect in Wirsing's elbow, disabling his arm. Smith was restrained by some of his friends, and soon afterwards was arrested on an information laid by Wirsing. His trial and conviction followed, Wirsing being the prosecutor.

Wirsing also began a civil suit for damages. This action was tried in the following September, and a verdict rendered against the defendant Smith in favor of the plaintiff Wirsing for forty-five thousand dollars damages. The amount of this judgment has been collected by the plaintiff, Wirsing. Wirsing and his wife are now living in the State of Florida.

At the time of the imposition of the sentence in the Quarter Sessions it was stated by the court that if the pending suit in the Common Pleas for damages was settled on an adequate basis within the term a portion of the time covered by the sentence, not exceeding one-half, would be remitted. This settlement was not then effected, and the civil action proceeded to trial. The prisoner has served more than one-half his term in the Penitentiary. The amount of the judgement which he has paid on the recovery against him in the Common Pleas Court is a greater sum than the case could have been settled for while the criminal trial was pending, at which time a settlement would have been productive of a material reduction of sentence in the criminal court. So that it is evident that the defendant has in reality received the full measure of punishment which, in the opinion of the court on the trial of the criminal case, his offense deserved.

Judge Reppert, who tried the Quarter Sessions case, writes the Board as follows:

"Uniontown, Pa., November 25, 1909.

To the Honorable the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—In the matter of the application of James R. Smith for a pardon I beg to submit the following:

The personal and family history of the applicant, by reason of acquaintance, has been known to me practically all my life. Allowance should be made for the influence of an environment, in many of its aspects unfavorable to the development of a sense of serious individual responsibility, especially when accompanied by the possession of large means, suddenly acquired late in life.

The applicant in all of his troubles has been averse to heeding the advice of those connected with him by friendly, professional or official relations. Many of his difficulties could have been avoided had his experience been broad enough to teach him to trust, rather than suspect others, in matters in which he was uninformed and they skilled.

At the time he was sentenced as a result of his unfortunate attack upon his son-in-law it was stated that in case a settlement of the civil action for damages then pending was made within the term, a portion of the time covered by the sentence, not exceeding one-half, would be remitted. This was not done, and the sentence stood as imposed; but a minor portion of this sentence remains to be served.

The civil action resulted in a large verdict against the applicant, considerably larger, I am informed, than the case could have been settled for at the time he was sentenced. This verdict has been paid.

The applicant's son-in-law and family have since moved to a distant State, and further trouble between these parties, resulting from the applicant's discharge, cannot reasonably be anticipated.

The applicant's family and his private affairs need his personal attention. He is undoubtedly devoted to his wife and children, according to his light, and affectionate toward them, supplying their material wants generously. His personal attention to his business interests at this time might enable him not only to prevent further loss to his estate, but to replace, to some extent, the large expenditures, which he has been compelled to make.

Under all the circumstances, the authority of the law having been fully vindicated, I believe the demands of punishment have been met, and that the applicant's release should have a beneficial effect and accomplish more substantial good for the community than his further incarceration.

I trust your Honorable Board may see its way clear to recommend this application.

Very respectfully yours,
EDWARD H. REPPERT."

Judge Umble, of the same court, writes:

"December 14, 1909.

To the Pardon Board of the State of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I hereby endorse the letter of Judge Reppert herewith submitted for your consideration, in re the application for the pardon of James R. Smith, and join in his request and recommendation.

Yours very truly,
ROBT. E. UMBEL."

Judge Van Swearingen, the present judge of the same court, writes:

"Uniontown, Pa., December 13, 1909.

To the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—I am informed that an application is pending before your Board for a pardon for James R. Smith, who is now serving a sentence of five years' imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for an assault, with intent to kill, upon his son-in-law, William S. Wirsing.

There was a civil suit for damages growing out of this same trouble in which Wirsing recovered a verdict of $15,000 against Smith, which has been paid. This, in itself, was quite a punishment. I was familiar with these cases at the time, though not then on the bench, and my knowledge of the facts leads me to the belief that the ends of justice have been met, and that sufficient punishment has been suffered.

Wirsing has moved with his family to Florida, and there is no possibility of further trouble between these parties, and I would respectfully recommend a pardon for the applicant.

Very respectfully,
J. Q. VAN SWEARINGEN."

Counsel who assisted the Commonwealth in the prosecution of the criminal case and who represented the plaintiff in the civil case, unite in asking for favorable considerationn of the application for pardon.

There are also other letters to the same effect on file with the Board.

In view, therefore, of all the circumstances shown by the record before us, and the condition as disclosed by the foregoing letters, we unite in the recommendation that a pardon be now granted this applicant, James R. Smith.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NO. 30—1909.

December 15, 1909.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Mifflin, to Nos. 21 and 22, May Sessions, 1908, Charles H. Bratton entered pleas of guilty on indictments charging him with the statutory crimes of forgery and embezzlement respectively. He was sentenced, August 11, 1908, in the embezzlement case to pay a fine of $222.42, costs, and imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the term of two years; and in the forgery case to pay a fine of $5, costs, and imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the term of three years to begin at the expiration of the term in the embezzlement case—aggregating five years imprisonment.

An application for his pardon has been made, and the case was heard at the regular meeting held this day. Upon giving a full and careful consideration to the application we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Charles B. Bratton.

The applicant is a man of about thirty-five years of age, a resident of Mifflin county. He belongs to a highly respectable family and prior to the present difficulty bore an excellent reputation. He was in the newspaper business from 1899 until 1907, when he sold out and embarked in the florist business. While in the newspaper business his father and brother endorsed his note for $900, which was renewed from time to time. In 1907, when he sold out this business these endorsers, for some reason not disclosed, supposed that this note was paid out of the proceeds of the sale. As a matter of fact the newspaper business had proved a losing venture from the beginning, and Bratton in the end was largely involved. On the last renewal of this note he forged the endorsements of his father and brother. He also forged the names of his father and brother and of his mother-in-law on notes of smaller amounts on which he raised money. The aggregate of his forgeries amounted to $1,498. He was also the collector of the lodge of Royal Arcanum, and had used the funds of that society to the amount of $222.42 in the payment of his debts. It is admitted that all this money went to pay debts incurred in his unprofitable business. There is no charge of speculation, gambling or fast living.

Finding himself thus involved he made known the situation to his relatives, and they at once determined that he should be punished. They laid informations based on the forgery of their names, and the brother laid the information charging embezzlement of the Royal Arcanum funds. Under the pressure of his relatives' importunities the defendant entered pleas of guilty to indictments without the intervention of the grand jury, and was at once sentenced as before indicated.

It now appears that at the time of the sentence all the facts in the case were not known and understood by the Court and other parties in interest. There have been filed with this application letters from the trial Judge, the prosecutors and others concerned in the transactions, and from many others, uniting in the recommendation for pardon, on the ground that the defendant has been sufficiently punished, and that the ends of justice have been met. The Royal Arcanum Society never sanctioned the prosecution so far as they were concerned, and there is on file with us certificate of their formal action, under their seal, asking for the pardon of the applicant. The District Attorney says in his letter that in his opinion "the granting of the pardon would meet with the approval of a great many people in the county of Mifflin, perhaps the majority." Judge Woods, who imposed the sentence, writes as follows:

"December 3, 1909.

To the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—I have been served with a notice that an application would be made on December 15th to have Charles H. Bratton released from imprisonment.

I wish to say that I approve of this move and it would be satisfactory to me if you would favorably consider this application.

Mr. Bratten plead guilty, and at the same time sentence was imposed we did not have all the facts before us. I believe he has learned his lesson.

Yours very respectfully,
J. M. WOODS, P. J."

Under this condition of affairs, and with the additional information brought to the attention of the Board on the argument of the application and from an examination of the record, it has been made to appear to the Board that this is a case in which it is proper to recommend favorable action on the application. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted to the applicant, Charles B. Bratton.

Respectfully submitted,

Lieutenant Governor,

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth,

NO. 31—1910.

January 19, 1910.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 454, January Sessions, 1909, Edward Salzinger entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with (1) breaking and entering a ding, and (2) larceny, without the submission of the bill f dictment to the grand jury; and thereupon, February 19, 9, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, s, and imprisonment in the Luzerne County Jail for one r and six calendar months.

On June 7, 1909, an application for pardon was filed, ch application was continued from time to time until the sent January meeting of the Board. The reason set forth he invocation for clemency is—the undue severity of the ishment imposed by the Court.

After carefully considering the facts as presented, and view of the letter from Honorable Henry A. Fuller, who tenced the prisoner, we find that the application is well nded, and we recommend that the pardon asked for be nted.

The applicant is a young man of about twenty-three years age. Prior to his arrest on this charge he had conducted self properly in all respects as a law-abiding person. Be- out of employment, and having a wife and baby to take e of, and being entirely destitute, he, in his desperation, ke into a moving picture show building and stole thirty- e dollars which he found there.

It seems to be the belief of those familiar with the his- y of the case and all its surroundings, that the ends of tice have been met by the imprisonment already under- ne, that the prisoner has paid an adequate penalty for his d deed, and that the interests of the public will not be dangered by the pardon of the applicant.

The letter of Judge Fuller referred to above is as fol- vs:

"January 17, 1910.

n. Hampton Todd, Attorney General.

My Dear Mr. Todd:—This may be considered as a semi- icial communication concerning Edward Salzinger, an appli- nt for pardon at your next meeting.

After careful thought and inquiry, I believe that his case rits favorable consideration. He has a wife and a baby, is roughly penitent, and has now a good opportunity for em- yment. By commutation his imprisonment would probably rminate in a couple of months any way, and I do not think at the ends of justice will be prejudiced by his present re- ase.

I have reached this conclusion after talking the matter over ry carefully with the warden, the prisoner, his wife, the Dis- ict Attorney who presented his case, and with others who are terested in the case.

Very truly yours,
HENRY A. FULLER."

In view therefore of the foregoing we recommend that a ardon be granted to this applicant, Edward Salzinger.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth,
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General,
HENRY HOUCK,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

NO. 32—1910.

January 27, 1910.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Chester, at August Sessions, 1909, to-wit, upon August 30, 1909, George P. Meyer, alias Charles E. Chambers, entered pleas of guilty to two indictments charging him with (1) forgery, and (2) false pretense, waiving the finding of bills by the grand jury. On the same day the Court sentenced the defendant on both bills to pay fine of $250, costs, and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for not more than ten years nor less than two years and six months.

An application for pardon has been filed, which the Board has duly considered, and, after investigating the circumstances attending the case, and in view of the attitude of the Trial Judge with regard to the application in a letter written by him to the counsel of the applicant, which has been filed with the papers, we have reached the conclusion that a merciful intervention on the part of the Executive in the way of granting a pardon to the applicant would be entirely justifiable. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, George P. Meyer.

The applicant is a young man of about twenty-three years of age. There is no doubt of his guilt in the premises, although prior to these prosecutions he had led an upright life. Physically he is of a tubercular disposition. Within the past few months the disease, pulmonary tuberculosis, has been developing rapidly, and it is the opinion of competent physicians that it will terminate fatally within a short time. With this information brought to his attention, Judge Butler who sentenced the prisoner, wrote to the counsel for the applicant under date of December 13, 1909, the letter alluded to above, the closing sentence of which is as follows: "If the authority were vested in me, now that he is practically dying, I would allow him to go home."

Therefore, being persuaded that the sentiment underlying Judge Butler's letter is both reasonable and humane, and that the demands of justice are not being ignored (because the applicant has undergone about five months' imprisonment in the Penitentiary), and that the public interests will not be harmed by our favorable consideration of the application, we unite in recommending that a pardon be granted the applicant, George P. Meyer, alias Charles E. Chambers.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth,
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General,
HENRY HOUCK,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

NO. 33—1910.

February 16, 1910.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of the County of Allegheny, to No. 672, March Sessions, 1908, William Wortman entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with embezzlement as a bank employe, waiving the formality of the finding of a bill by the grand jury. This plea was entered April 14, 1908, and on the same day the defendant was sentenced to pay a fine of 6 1-4 cents, costs, and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the term of five years.

His application for pardon was heard this day, and, upon due consideration the Board is of opinion that this is a proper case for the intervention of the pardoning power, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted this applicant, William Wortman.

The offense with which the defendant is charged is a serious one and the guilt of the offender is undisputed. He has served nearly two years in prison. Shortly after his imprisonment began he became afflicted with a disease which confined him to the hospital for a considerable period of time. A recent examination by competent medical gentlemen shows that he is afflicted with a cancerous stricture of the rectum, a disease which is pronounced incurable. It is the opinion of the physicians who made this examination that the patient is liable to die at any time.

Under these conditions, the Oakland Savings and Trust Company of Pittsburg, the bank in which Wortman was employed and whose funds he embezzled, and whose Vice-President laid the information against him, writes to the Board as follows:

"Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 1, 1910.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Sirs:—We desire to recommend to your Honorable Board for favorable action the application for pardon of William Wortman, a former employe of this bank. We believe that the ends of justice have been subserved and that Mr. Wortman has been sufficiently punished for the wrong he committed.

He is still a young man, and under ordinary circumstances, would, if released, make a good citizen. Under the extraordinary circumstances of his case, considering the nature of the disease from which he is suffering, we sincerely feel that further punishment by confinement is useless, and in the interests of humanity and to the end that the few remaining days of his life may be spent with his sorrying parents, it is the official action of this bank, the party most aggrieved by his crime, in praying your Honorable Board for extreme clemency in his case and in granting the pardon in which he and those near and dear to him so earnestly desire.

Respectfully submitted,
JOHN A. FLANNERY.
President."

In addition to this the President, the Vice President, and other officials of the bank, in their individual capacity, address the Board in the same strain. Many other prominent and influential persons, well acquainted with the circumstances of the case strongly endorse the application; so that it is quite apparent that there is a weighty public sentiment favoring the release of this prisoner from the bonds of his confinement.

Therefore, giving full consideration to all the circumstances of the case, and yielding to the belief that the punishment that has been meted out to this man has reached the measure that justice can properly demand from one whose physical dissolution seems to be approaching fast, we unite in recommending that a pardon be now granted this applicant, William Wortman.

Respectfully submitted,

NO. 34—1910.

February 16, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Philadelphia, to No. 289, May Sessions, 1908, Jay Hopkins was, on November 23, 1909, convicted on an indictment charging him with voluntary manslaughter in causing the death of John Magee, and was thereupon, December 3, 1909, sentenced to pay the costs of prosecution and undergo an imprisonment of six months in the County Prison.

At the January meeting of the board an application for pardon of said Hopkins was made. This application was duly considered and was then refused. An application for rehearing was filed, and the case was again, at the meeting held this day, duly given full consideration. We now unite in the recommendation that the application be allowed, and that a pardon be granted the applicant, Jay Hopkins.

On February 12, 1908, the day of the happening of the occurrence on which the prosecution was based, Jay Hopkins was a motorman on a Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company's car going east on Elmwood Avenue in the City of Philadelphia. When at a point half way between 73d and 72d Streets the car struck the rear end of a coal wagon, dragging it a short distance and throwing the driver, John Magee, out on the street, causing injuries from which Magee died before reaching the hospital. The coroner's jury acquitted Hopkins of blame, but afterwards a brother of decedent swore out a warrant on which the motorman was arrested. The case was not tried until November, 1909.

It is alleged on the part of the applicant that the collision between his car and the wagon was purely accidental and unavoidable; that his car was "drifting" on a down grade; that it was after night; that the lights on the street were bad; that there had been rain or snow and the rails were wet and slippery, and that altogether the accident was entirely beyond the control of the motorman. There was some dispute on certain of these phases of the case, and, in view of the verdict of the jury, if there was nothing else favoring the application, a recommendation for clemency would be of doubtful propriety, inasmuch as the punishment of this unfortunate man would serve as a warning and would likely have the effect of making motormen more careful. However, it appears that this particular motorman had the reputation of being a very careful and competent driver; he had been in the employ of the company for a long time, and had never before had an accident, and further the company had sufficient confidence in him to keep him at his regular work during the interval between the happening of this accident and the day of his trial, and it is stated that the company is now ready to reinstate him on his liberation from confinement.

After the happening of this accident and before his trial Hopkins married and started into housekeeping. His imprisonment has, of course, shattered his domestic arrangements. His wife, being without support, has been compelled to give up her home. She is in delicate health, and is now in an advanced stage of pregnancy. Being entirely destitute, she is dependent upon charitably disposed persons, and is likely to become a public charge.

Hopkins has spent more than two months in jail under his sentence. Under all circumstances of the case the conviction itself, coupled with this short imprisonment, seems to be a vindication of the law. The demands of justice have been met, and it may with safety be said that, apart from serving as a warning, no further good would be effected by compelling the applicant to remain in jail for more than three months longer when his release would be of so much benefit to his suffering wife. Therefore, actuated largely by feelings of mercy and humanity, we recommend that a pardon be now granted to this applicant, Jay Hopkins.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NO. 35—1910.

March 16, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Lawrence, to No. 1, March Term, 1909, John Layton was convicted on an indictment charging him with larceny and receiving stolen goods. The said defendant was thereupon, March 20, 1909, sentenced to pay a fine of $5, costs and undergo imprisonment in the Allegheny County workhouse for two years.

On March 1, 1910, an application for the pardon of the said Layton was duly filed, and the same was heard at the meeting of the board held this day. Upon due consideration of the facts in the case, and having regard to the recommendation of the trial judge, the district attorney who tried the case, and the present district attorney in addition, also of the county detective who worked up the case, of the mayor of the City of New Castle, and of the prosecutor himself, all of whom are familiar with the details and whose views may be taken to reflect public sentiment, the board respectfully recommends that executive clemency be extended the applicant.

Layton is a man of about thirty-two years of age, a glass blower by occupation and reputed to be an industrious and capable workman; at the time of his getting into this trouble he was out of work through the stringency of the times. He is married and has two children, both of tender age. His wife, since his imprisonment, has become insane and is now an inmate of the Dixmont Asylum. His children are also a public charge.

The applicant was indicted jointly with Robert Reed, his father-in-law, and Jesse Reed, a nephew of Robert's. At the trial the other two defendants were acquitted, owing to the absence of positive evidence against them available at the time. Certain of the stolen articles were found in the possession of Layton, and there is no dispute as to his guilt. It developed, however, after the trial that the Reeds were equally guilty; and it is the opinion of those in the position to know and to form a proper judgment under the circumstances that the elder Reed was the instigator of the crime, and in all probability the ringleader in its perpetration.

In view of the letter of the district attorney who tried the case, which we quote below in full, it is not necessary to give a detailed account of the facts connected with the larceny. It has been made clear to us that the punishment of this applicant in the year's confinement in the workhouse since his conviction has satisfied the ends of justice, especially as his guilty companions have escaped punishment entirely.

The following is the letter of the district attorney who prosecuted the case:

"New Castle, Pa., Feb. 22, 1910.

To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Sirs:—Having been notified that an application will be made to your Honorable Board on March 16, 1910, for pardon for John Layton, who was convicted of the crime of larceny and receiving stolen goods, in the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Lawrence County, at No. 1 March Term, 1909, I deem it my duty to make a statement to your Board regarding the case.

I was District Attorney at the time this case was tried, and the defendant was tried with his father-in-law, Robert Reed, and a cousin, Jesse Reed; the two Reeds were acquitted, for the reason that none of the stolen goods were found on their premises, and the reason for this was, as was afterwards learned, that Layton was first arrested, and the Reeds hearing is made away with the goods which they had secreted be- they would be arrested and their house was searched. Court sentenced the defendant to two years imprisonment e Allegheny workhouse; shortly after sentence was im- , his wife became insane, and was committed to the In- Asylum at Dixmont, and is still confined in the asylum; had two small children at the time of his sentence, who being kept by the poor authorities, and the wife gave birth nother child in the insane asylum, which died recently. om what we have learned of the case since the defendant sentenced, I have come to the conclusion that the father- w, Robert Reed, was the leader, and that his son-in-law, Layton, who was out of employment at that time, and family in destitute circumstances, was induced to take in the larceny of these goods, which were principally ing and eatables. They broke into the residence of one Riblett, which was unoccupied at the time, and took some ed goods, some old clothing, and some other things to eat. my opinion, the sentence imposed by the Court, which done without the full knowledge of the facts, as was rwards developed, was too severe, and the ends of justice been met by the punishment already meted out to the ndant; the evidence discovered after the trial was the find- of some witnesses who saw Robert Reed, the father-in-law, ing some stuff near the residence of John Layton, which further investigation was found to be some of the goods n from the residence of Mr. Riblett, which proves conclu- ly that Robert Reed was connected with the case, and he, g the father-in-law of John Layton, and from the char- r of the persons, I am satisfied he would exercise consider- influence over his son-in-law.

Respectfully submitted,

CHAS. H. YOUNG,

District Attorney in trial in the case."

Judge Porter's recommendation is in the following form:

"New Castle, Pa., Feb. 23, 1910.

the Honorable Board of Pardons.

Gentlemen:—Regarding the application of John Layton, who, March 20, 1909, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment larceny, would say that on account of the very unfortunate dition of his family and his declared intention to improve conduct, I would recommend his pardon.

Yours respectfully,

WILLIAM E. PORTER, P. J.

The present district attorney coincides in the recommenda- n for our favorable action. Also, Mr. James C. Riblett, prosecutor, whose goods were stolen.

In view, therefore, of what has already been stated we ommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, hn Layton.

NO. 36—1910.

April 20, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of awrence, to No. 35, March Sessions, 1909, Henry Lewis unsley, waiving the finding of an indictment by the grand ury, entered a plea of "guilty" to an indictment charging im with larceny and receiving stolen goods, and he was, ebruary 9, 1909, sentenced to undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the term of six years.

On April 4, 1910, an application for pardon was filed. hearing was given this application at our meeting this ay, and after due consideration of the case it is our opinion hat a recommendation for executive clemency should be ade.

The offence for which the applicant has been imprisoned as that of stealing chickens. It is admitted that the sen- ence was extremely severe, but the locality where the crime as committed had been greatly annoyed by numerous de- redations of this character, and a warning to law-breakers nd chicken thieves was sorely needed. The purpose of the eavy sentence seems to have had the desired deterrent effect. In the opinion of the trial judge and of the district ttorney who prosecuted the case and of officials and others having knowledge of the circumstances connected with the ase, and of the character of the defendant, as appears by letters addressed to the board, the imprisonment of the de- fendant has already been of sufficient duration to satisfy the ends of justice.

Judge Porter writes as follows:

"New Castle, Pa., April 8, 1910.

To the Honorable the Board of Pardons.

Gentlemen:—Being informed that Henry L. Gunsley is making an application to your Honorable Board for a par- don, I wish to say that I believe he has received sufficient imprisonment, and would recommend his pardon.

Very respectfully yours,

WILLIAM E. PORTER."

The district attorney who prosecuted the case writes:

"New Castle, Pa., April 1, 1910.

To the Honorable Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Sirs:—I have received notice of the application of Henry Lewis Gunsley for a pardon, he having been charged of breaking and entering into chicken coops and stealing chickens therefrom, and was sentenced on two charges for a term equalling six years.

I was District Attorney at the time the petitioner was charged with these offences, and he entered a plea of guilty to two charges, and was sentenced to the long term of six years in the penitentiary, for the reason, as I under- stood it, that the Court desired to break up the practice in the community of chicken thieving.

I know nothing about the petitioner except what I learned when he entered his plea relative to the charges against him, but in view of the fact that he plead guilty I was convinced at the time, and I am still satisfied, that the punishment in his case was excessive, and in my opinion the ends of justice would be met by granting him a pardon at this time.

Yours very truly,

CHAS. H. YOUNG."

The present district attorney, Thomas W. Dickey, Esq., also writes that he believes that the defendant has been sufficiently punished, and he recommends his pardon.

It is plain, therefore, that the end desired to be accomplished by the severity of the sentence having been reached the public good will not be jeopardized by the release of this prisoner after having served a term which would ordinarily be regarded as sufficient punishment for this grade of offence. Under these conditions, and relying upon the opinion of the officials quoted, we recommend that a pardon be now granted this applicant, Henry Lewis Gunsley.

Respectfully submitted,

Lieutenant Governor.

NO. 37—1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Northampton, to February Sessions, 1906, Edward Bruce entered pleas of "guilty" to three indictments, Nos. 42, 43 and 44, charging him with aggravated assault and battery, and to another indictment, No. 9, charging him with assault and battery and resisting an officer. On the three indictments first mentioned he was, February 16, 1906, sentenced to an aggregate imprisonment in the Northampton County Prison of ten years, and on the last mentioned indictment he was the same day sentenced to an imprisonment in said prison of four years, a total imprisonment of fourteen years, besides an aggregate fine of twenty-eight dollars, costs, etc.

An application for pardon was filed April 4, 1910, which was heard at our meeting this day. Upon giving the case full and careful consideration we are unanimously of the opinion that the application should be allowed, and that a pardon should be granted the said Edward Bruce.

Bruce is a young man of between twenty-seven and twenty-eight years of age. He was born and raised in the City of Seattle, Washington, being in part of Indian extraction. At the age of eighteen he came to Pennsylvania and attended school in the neighborhood of Easton. After completing his studies he took up his residence in the City of Easton, where he has relatives, and in March, 1905, he married an Easton lady of good family. They lived as husband and wife until December, 1905, when the assault upon the person of his wife, with which he is charged in the indictments, took place. After his arrest for this assault, which took place on the 12th of December, his wife's father laid an information against the applicant, charging various other assaults on his wife, alleging that Bruce had inflicted torturing and cruel beatings upon her person. Considerable publicity was given to these charges and public sentiment became much inflamed against the defendant. A number of indictments were drawn. When his cases were called for trial the defendant chose, owing to the condition of public feeling, to enter pleas of guilty on the four indictments as before stated, which the court allowed, and the other indictments were not pressed. He was then sentenced on the four indictments to a term aggregating fourteen years. It afterwards developed that the charges against Bruce had been much magnified, and that the severe sentence had been imposed under a misapprehension of the facts. It further transpired that on the charge of resisting an officer the sentence imposed was in excess of that fixed by law.

In the course of time, as the real situation became better understood, public sentiment underwent a very radical change with regard to the defendant, and it has also been made plain to us that the belief now prevails that the applicant has already endured sufficient punishment. The public officials who took part in the trial now go on record to this effect, as well as many other prominent citizens of the locality. Judge Scott, who imposed the sentence, writes the board as follows:

"To the Honorable the Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

I have received notice under the rule of an intended application for pardon of Edward Bruce, a prisoner now confined in the Northumberland County Prison, convicted by plea of guilty to various indictments upon which in the aggregate he was sentenced by me, February 16, 1906, to undergo imprisonment for fourteen years.

The design of this sentence at the time, in consideration of the Commutation Law of 1901, was to require him to undergo actual imprisonment for eight years before release. The complaints against him upon which sentence was passed were mainly aggravated assault and battery upon his wife to whom he had been married less than a year. Some indictments with other charges were non prossed by leave of court. Each of three out of four indictments upon which sentence was imposed contained three counts charging assaults at different dates, instead of preferring therefor separate indictments in each case, the defendant's counsel pleading to each count separately for independent sentence thereon, upon the non pros. of others, and acceptance by the District Attorney of a plea of not guilty upon others.

The defendant was of one-fourth Indian blood, and some of the offences as then charged partook of the character of Indian cruelties, but I have been convinced since then by those instrumental in the prosecution that under the strain of continued brooding upon her wrongs the young wife was led into exaggerated statements of her injuries when she was heard before the Court at the time sentence was passed. She fled to her father's house after some weeks of this treatment, with such detail of her suffering that his paternal sympathy naturally enough was aroused into such resentment also, that I am satisfied now their testimony heard by the Court alone and not tested by the cross-examination of a trial, nor explained then by the defendant himself, painted these various offences in too vivid colors.

The young wife was afterwards divorced, is now remarried, and lives in another State. The defendant himself lived on the Pacific Coast, where, I am assured, it is his purpose to permanently remain after his discharge from prison, and the father has no objection to his release.

His imprisonment now of four years and over I believe is sufficient punishment. But there is another reason for which I strongly recommend the pardon.

In passing these cumulative sentences upon separate counts in the four indictments, for the reasons stated, but usually inadmissible, the record shows that by some inadvertence sentence was imposed on both counts in indictment to No. 28 (No. 9 February Sessions 1906) when they both charged the same offence. The first count was for obstructing and resisting an officer in the execution of the process under which he was arrested, and the second for assault and battery upon him at the same time. It was taken as a separate offence of aggravated assault, same as in the other indictments, whereas it was but simple assault, and included in the first. This is a clearly erroneous addition of three years to any lawful sentence upon this indictment. It is too late for appeal, and now also beyond the power of correction here. (Mallory and Keating vs. Com., 57 Pa. 291.) My attention was not called to the mistake then or since, but it is apparent, and the only present redress is by relief from the Court of Pardons. With this term eliminated the aggregate of his sentence would be almost terminated.

HENRY W. SCOTT,
Pres't Judge 3d District.

March 19, 1910."

In view, therefore, of this condition of affairs brought out at the hearing and shown by the record to exist, it appears to the board that we can with propriety recommend the exercise of Executive clemency toward this applicant. Bei so convinced, we recommend that a pardon be now grant Edward Bruce, the applicant.

Respectfully submitted,

It appears that Kelly, apart from his habit of occasion spreeing, was an industrious and good workman. He about 26 years of age. He does not belong to the crimin class. No other infraction of the law has been record against him. In the light of these facts there is persu sive force in the reason on which this application for pa don rests, viz., that the sentence for three years in th penitentiary was unusually severe. Inasmuch as about on half of this sentence has been already served and und the commutation law he would be required to serve onl about nine months more, it may be said with truth that th ends of justice have been met by reason of the punishmen thus far inflicted.

NO. 39—1910.

May 18, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County f Luzerne, to No. 102, April Term, 1902, Victor Zorambo was indicted on a charge of murder. On May 2, 1903, he was convicted of murder in the second degree, and on May , 1903, he was sentenced to an imprisonment in the Eastrn Penitentiary for the term of twenty years.

On May 4, 1910, he filed his application for a pardon, having been in prison for more than eight years. This aplication was heard at our meeting held this day.

Full and careful consideration of this case leads us to he belief that the application should be allowed and that Executive clemency should be bestowed upon the applicant.

Zorambo is a Polander, and is now about thirty years of age. At the time of his arrest he was about twenty-two years old. He had not been in this country very long, and was not well acquainted with our language. The murdered man was another foreigner by the name of Sennick. The man who delivered the blow which deprived Sennick of life was named Lanouski. All the parties were workmen in the mines near West Pittston, Luzerne county. Lenouski and Zarombo were jointly indicted, but were tried separately. Convictions of murder in the first degree resulted in each case, but the judgment in Zarombo's case was reversed by the Supreme Court, and on the second trial the verdict was for murder in the second degree, and on this finding he was sentenced to imprisonment as above stated. Lanouski was sentensed to death and was hanged.

The allegations with regard to this homicide are briefly as follows: Lanouski was a boarder at Sennick's house. He was a man some ten years older than Zorambo, and appears to have borne a not very good reputation. He was criminally intimate with Sennick's wife, and there arose a desire on the part of these two intimates to get rid of Sennick. Lanouski knew that Sennick had saved about six hundred dollars. He formed a plan, possibly with the connivance of Mrs. Sennick, to rob Sennick of this money. He confided this intention to Zorambo, and urged him to take part in the robbery. This Zorambo refused to accede to. Another miner, named Polikitus, owed Sennick money for boarding. Lanouski suggested to Sennick that they two and Zorambo go into Polikitus' chamber in the mine and break open his box and steal his powder, supplies, etc. Thus Sennick would get even with Polikitus. At the same time Lanouski's suggestion to Zorambo was that Sennick being enticed into Polikitus' chamber in the mine be then and there killed and robbed of his money, which it was supposed he carried on his person. Zorambo persistently refused to agree to the murder. He did, however, go along with Lanouski and Sennick into the mine, where they broke open Polikitus' box and took his effects. On the way out of the mine Lanouski, with the axe which he carried and, it is claimed, altogether without the participation of Zorambo, struck Sennick from the rear and felled him. From the effects of this blow Sennick soon afterwards died. Suspicion attached to both Lanouski and Zorambo, as they had been seen with Sennick, and they were arrested.

Zorambo from the first protested his innocence of any part in the slaying of Sennick. He has persistently asserted his innocence down to the present time. Lanouski, on the afternoon before the day of his execution, confided to the counsel who had defended Zorambo that the latter would not at any time consent to the killing of Sennick, and that he had not taken any part, either by word or by deed in the fatal blow. It is admitted, though, that he was in the party that rifled Polikitus' box. As a matter of fact it may be stated in this connection that Lanouski did not find Sennick's money about his person.

B. R. Jones, Esq., the District Attorney who prosecuted the case, writes to the Board as follows:

"To the Honorable, the Board of Pardons of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—From 1901 to 1907 I was District Attorney of Luzerne County, and appeared for the Commonwealth in both trials of Victor Zorambo, as well as in the Lanouski trial.

Notice has been served upon me, in accordance with your rules, that an application has been made for the pardon of Zorambo. There has never been any doubt in my mind that whatever part Zorambo took in this killing he was induced to do so by Lanouski who was undoubtedly the instigator of the plot. Lanouski was at least ten years older than Zorambo, who at the time of his conviction was a young boy.

Lanouski was clearly a bad man. Zorambo appeared entirely different, and since his imprisonment has shown what he can do if given a chance, by industry and perseverance.

The Zorambo of to-day is an entirely different man from him whom we knew and tried in 1902 and 1903. I believe he has fully atoned for any participation he had in this crime, and I do not believe the interests of justice will suffer by his pardon. On the contrary, I feel that in his case they have been fully met with, and in view of his long imprisonment I can see no objection to his being granted a pardon, and I therefore respectfully commend his petition to your honorable Board for favorable action.

Very respectfully yours,

R. B. JONES.

Ex-District Attorney."

Judge Ferrisi who presided at the trial, and who sentenced the prisoner, writes as follows:

"Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 16, 1910.

To the Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Penna.

Gentlemen:—About eight years ago Victor Zorambo was tried before me for murder and convicted, the jury fixing the grade at second degree.

Under the testimony he should either have been convicted in the first degree or acquitted.

Such a conviction, however, would only be justified on the ground that the evidence, if believed, showed his complicity with one, Lanouski, in an attempt to rob. The killing was done by Lanouski, and I am satisfied that Zorambo had no intention to kill, and did not know that Lanouski had conceived such a design until the fatal blow was struck. He did participate in the attempt to rob, and did so intentionally, but I believe that the taking of life was foreign to his purpose. He was young, and it is quite probable that in consenting to be a party to the robbery he was influenced by Lanouski, a much older man. He had not at the trial the appearance of a vicious person, and I am told that his conduct since his incarceration would indicate a totally different natural disposition, and that if the indeterminate sentence act had been in force he would now be a suitable candidate for parole.

Under the circumstances my belief is that the interests of justice do not require his further imprisonment, and I recommend his pardon.

Respectfully yours,

GEO. S. FERRIS, Judge."

There are on file also letters from the private prosecuting counsel, from the county detective and his assistant, from the officials of the coal mine, from the counsel of Lenouski himself, and from many others familiar with the circumstances of the case and who attended the trial attesting their approval of the application and their appeal that it be favorably considered, all expressing the belief that Latouski was the prime offender and that Zorambo was really dragged along by him, showing that public sentiment preponderates in favor of the application. It is true that a protest has been entered by the present district attorney, but the same was not pressed very vigorously, and was stated to be rather a matter of formality.

In addition, the applicant has devoted himself so assiduously to self-improvement while in prison, that from being an uncouth, illiterate, ignorant boy, he has become proficient in the use of the English language to a remarkable degree, has learned two other languages besides his own, has become an excellent penman, has learned a trade, and has made himself of great service to the prison officials in many ways, and has shown great promise of becoming a useful citizen after his liberation.

With this presentation of conditions respecting this case, the Board is of opinion that a suggestion for Executive clemency should be made, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted this applicant, Victor Zorambo.

Respectfully submitted,

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of the County of Luzerne, to No. 355, April Term, 1903, Guiseppe Mitchka was indicted on a charge of murder. On June 19, 1903, he was convicted of murder in the second degree, and on November 14, 1903, was sentenced to undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for the term of nineteen years and six months.

An application for his pardon was filed May 4, 1910. This application was heard at length at our meeting this day, and after giving the matter full consideration we are of the opinion that a favorable recommendation for Executive clemency should be made, and we therefore unite in recommending that a pardon be granted the applicant.

The homicide for which this defendant was indicted, convicted and imprisoned, took place in the City of Pittston, Luzerne county, between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning of March 15, 1903. The victim was Anthony McHugh, with whom the prisoner had no acquaintance.

The defendant is an Italian, and had been in this country less than a year at the time of his conviction, and was unable to speak or understand the English language. On the morning in question he had left his boarding house with the intention of taking a train for New York City, where he expected to be married in a few days. On his way through the city he fell in with a party of his countrymen who had made out to accompany him to the train. While passing quietly along Main street this party of foreigners, so far as is known quietly and peacably proceeding, met a party of American speaking men who had just come out of a saloon where they had been drinking, and who were all more or less under the influence of liquor. The testimony is to effect that this defendant and several other of his party passed this group from the saloon without anything unusual happening. However, as some of his companions, who were following up in the rear, came up to the group on the sidewalk there was some interception, and the Italians were forced and jostled into the street. It is said that one of them, Mike Chello, was gotten hold of, knocked down and beaten, and that he then drew a revolver and fired promiscuously into the crowd who had made the attack. One of his shots took effect in the body of Anthony McHugh, causing death. Chello was not apprehended, and has not been seen or heard of in that locality since that time. The defendant, according to his story, not knowing anything of this catastrophe, went on to the City of New York, purchasing his ticket at the railroad station in Pittston. It becoming known to the authorities soon afterwards that a foreigner had purchased a ticket to New York in a few days after the time of this tragedy, Mitchka was followed up and in a few days was arrested and brought back and placed in prison. His indictment and conviction followed soon afterwards.

It was earnestly contended before the Board that the defendant was unjustly convicted for a crime that was committed by another. It is a significant fact that Chillo suddenly disappeared, and has not been found. His whereabouts is altogether a mystery. There is some testimony that he was seen by someone of his countrymen immediately after this occurrence to whom he said that he had shot some one, and that he was going back to the old country as fast as he could go.

The District Attorney, who tried the case, in writing to the Board, says, after detailing at length the circumstances of the affair as the Commonwealth developed them on the trial:

"Wilkes-Barre, Pa., May 2, 1910.

To the Honorable Members of the Board of Pardons.

Gentlemen:—Upon the trial of the case the defendant's defense was an alibi. He admitted taking the train on the morning of the shooting, but stated that he had made arrangements some days prior thereto to leave on that train, and he was corroborated by a number of his neighbors and friends, and he insisted that he was not present at the time of the shooting and never knew of it until the date of his arrest. Some of the Italians who were present at the shooting testified that an Italian by the name of Mike Chello was the person who fired the shot. It was shown on behalf of the defendant that Chello, up to the date of the shooting, had resided in Pittston City, and that immediately after the shooting he disappeared and has never been seen or located since. A strong circumstance corroborating this theory of the defendant was the testimony of a man by the name of William Campbell, who was the mine foreman at No. 4 shaft in the City of Pittston, and the employer of Mike Chello. He was called for the defendant, and testified that Chello was in his employ and had worked on the 14th of March, the day before the shooting, described his appearance, his height and weight, which corroborated strongly in height and weight of the person identified by the English speaking people as the man who did the shooting; that he never reported for work after the 14th, never said he was going to quit work, never returned for his pay, although there was due him at that time $57.16, which is still in the hands of the company, unclaimed by Chello. Another witness for the defendant, Peter Decatto, testified that on the day of the shooting, in the neighborhood of 10 A. M., that he took the D. L. & W. train going from West Pittston to Shickshinny, which is located below Wilkes-Barre, and at Luzerne Borough, six or seven miles below Pittston City, and on the other side of the river, Mike Chello came into the train, and the witness said: "You are the man who did the shooting early this morning, where are you going?" and he said, "I am going to Newark, N. J." He was very much excited, and through his excitement boarded the wrong train.

The testimony o Decatto was not corroborated by any person. After the conviction and sentence of Mitchka I personally called upon the ticket agent at Luzerne Borough, and inquired from him if on the 15th of March 1903, he sold a ticket to any person from Luzerne to Newark, N. J. He looked up the records in my presence, and discovered that on that date he did sell one single fare ticket for Newark, N. J. This was to me a strong circumstance corroborating Decatto. This testimony was not produced upon the trial of the case, and therefore the jury never had any opportunity of passing upon it. To me this corroboration, together with the testimony of the mine foreman, Wm. Campbell, creates in my mind a reasonable doubt of the guilt of this young man, and I feel satisfied from my knowledge obtained through my connection with the case, as well as what I have since learned, that this is a case that ought to receive favorable consideration at this time at the hands of your Honorable Body. And as the prosecuting officer at that time, in view of this young man's youth and long imprisonment, I would earnestly urge favorable action on your part, in recommending him a pardon.

Respectfully yours,

B. R. JONES,

Ex-District Attorney."

Judge Halsey, who tried the case, writes at the bottom of this letter of Mr. Jones' as follows:

"I have read the foregoing letter of Mr. B. R. Jones, who was District Attorney at the time of the trial, conviction and sentence of Guiseppe Mitchka. His statement of the facts incident to the trial, conviction and sentence, are substantially the same as mine.

I have no personal objection against your Board acting favorably upon this application as recommended by Mr. Jones.

G. L. HALSEY,

May 5, 1910. Trial Judge."

The Chief of Police of the City of Pittston, who arrested the defendant, and who has made a thorough investigation of the case, also writes to the Board, closing his letter as follows:

"A review of all the notes of testimony at this time, some seven years after the trial, it appears to me as if this case is for the consideration of the Board of Pardons, and I join in recommending the pardon of Mitchka, as there is a doubt in my mind as to whether he was the one who acutally did the shooting on the night when Anthony McHugh was shot and killed.

Respectfully yours,

JOSEPH LOFTUS."

It thus appearing that there is considerable doubt as to the guilt of this defendant, and the public officials who had charge of the prosecution now expressing their belief that a mistake has been made in the conviction and sentence, the Board placing weight upon their views recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Guiseppe Mitchka.

Respectfully submitted,

No. 41—1910.

June 15, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 385, October Sessions, 1909, John Wilcox and James Dulin were jointly indicted on a charge of (1) burglary, (2) entering in the night time without breaking with intent to commit a felony. A verdict of "guilty on the second count" was returned by the jury, and on October 27, 1909, the defendants were sentenced to the Huntingdon Reformatory.

An application for the pardon of Wilcox was duly filed May 2, 1910. The case argued at our May meeting, but has been held under advisement until this present June meeting. Having given the case full consideration and examination, we now recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, John Wilcox.

The applicant is a young man between 19 and 20 years of age. His home is in Philadelphia, where he lived with his mother, his father being dead. He was regularly em-loyed at work, and bore a good reputation. On one evening ast October he was on the streets of the city in company ith Dulin, the other defendant, who, it is represented, did ot bear a very good reputation. Owing to some suspicious ircumstances an attempt was made to arrest Dulin. Wilcox, hrough fright, it is alleged, jumped into an open cellar way, nd ran up into the house in an attempt to get out through he back yard. He was intercepted in the kitchen by the eople in the house, and before he could fully explain to hem his predicament the police officers came to the door nd stated that there was a thief in the house, and then nd there arrested him. His indictment and conviction followed.

Nothing was taken from the house, and no attempt to ake anything was charged by the owner of the premises. The boy was simply arrested "under suspicious circumtances," according to the statement of the officer. It is the pinion of the officials, and of the owner of the house that ne has paid the penalty for whatever wrong he has done, and that his imprisonment of nearly eight months has been a sufficient punishment. The Board, believing that the ends of justice have been met in this case, recommend that a pardon be now granted this applicant, John Wilcox.

Respectfully submitted,

NO. 42—1910.

June 15, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, No. 372, March Term, 1908, Thomas Delaney was tried on an indictment charging him with (1) assault and battery, (2) assault and battery with intent to ravish, and (3) rape. On March 5, 1908, he was convicted as indicted, and on March 23, 1908, was sentenced by the court to pay a fine of $500, costs, and to undergo an imprisonment in the County Prison for the term of eleven years.

On May 4, 1910, an application for pardon was filed. This application was fully heard at our meeting in May, but has been held under advisement until our meeting held this day. After giving the case a careful and exhaustive consideration we have reached the conclusion that a suggestion for Executive clemency should be made, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Thomas Delaney.

The applicant is a man about thirty-nine years of age, unmarried and without a home. It is admitted that he has been more or less of a vagrant for some years past, and that he has even been in the clutches of the law on a totally different charge, and at a time some six or seven years prior to the date of the charge made in the present case. The prosecutrix is a woman of upwards of fifty years of age. She lived alone in a small house in an isolated place, with no immediate neighbors, but near a railroad track. It appears in the statements made in the papers before us that she is a person of weak mentality and of a highly nervous temperament. Her allegations with respect to the guilt of the defendant are unsupported by corroborative testimony, and some of her statements are shown to be at variance with actual physical facts. The offence is alleged to have been committed on the night of December 2, 1907. A warrant was sworn out December 16, 1907. The defendant was arrested March 2, 1908, and his trial took place within a few days thereafter. At the preliminary hearing and at the trial the prosecutrix identified the defendant, but in view of the light that has been thrown on the case in the argument before us this is apparently a case of mistaken identity. The counsel who represented the applicant before the board was the district attorney who prosecuted the case in court. His statement on file with the papers furnishes, in our opinion, sufficient grounds for our favorable recommendation of the application. A letter from the present district attorney, and one from the trial judge, both furnished on request from the board in our desire to reach a proper conclusion, substantially support the statement above alluded to. We quote in full the statement mentioned and the letters of the district attorney and of the judge.

"To the Honorable, the Members of the Board of Pardons of Pennsylvania.

Statement of I. A. Reed, Attorney for Thomas Delaney, Petitioner for a Pardon.

That Your Honors may properly understand my position in the foregoing application, I beg leave to make the following statement:

I was District Attorney of Schuylkill County at the time Thomas Delaney was convicted, and represented the Commonwealth at the trial of said cause. The testimony produced at the trial was that of the prosecutrix and M. S. Davies, Chief of Police at Pottsville. The latter merely testifying as to his efforts to locate the defendant after having been informed of the commission of the alleged crime. The testimony of the prosecutrix was very incoherent, she testifying to a different state of facts when upon the witness stand than the statement made to me just prior to the trial. While I am no expert on sanity or insanity I volunteer the statement that the prosecutrix is of unsound mind. Her testimony, manner of testifying, and conduct when upon the witness stand convinced me of this fact. So much so, that I then and there suggested to the trial judge that a verdict be directed for the defendant. After a brief consultation the trial judge decided to let the defence proceed and the case go to the jury. Upon cross examination of the defendant he could not account for his whereabouts on or before December 2, 1907, the time the alleged crime was committed, and I have no doubt the jury weighed this lapse of memory against him. Subsequent to the trial the prosecutrix made statements wholly at variance with her testimony. This, and the persistency with which the defendant maintained his innocence led me to make further inquiry. From the neighbors of the prosecutrix I learned that she is eccentric, as put by some, and childish, as put by others. Another fact that I discovered is that her testimony as to the distance the house is located from the railroad, and her ability to see by reason of the headlight of a passing locomotive was wholly faulty. She testified the house was fifteen feet from the railroad. The fact is the house is removed from the railroad about one hundred feet She testified further that the light of a passing engine "shone upon the fellow's face as he was coming in the window." This is a physical impossibility, the railroad being almost straight and the light could not strike the place designated by her.

From information gathered since the trial my doubt of the defendant's guilt has been resolved into the belief of his innocence. This is the reason of my appearance as attorney in his behalf.

The defendant is wholly without means, and to correct an injury, as I believe, inflicted under my administration as District Attorney, to restore the liberty to one who I believe is unjustly deprived thereof, I consented to give my services and to bear the small expenses incident to this application.

Respectfully submitted,

I. A. REED."

The letter of the present district attorney is as follows:

"Pottsville, Pa., May 14, 1910.

To the Honorable Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your communication, under date of 10th inst., requesting information concerning the case of the Commonwealth vs. Thomas Delaney, No. 372 March Sessions, 1908, an application for pardon in which said case will be heard before your honorable body on the 18th instant, I have to say:

At the trial of said case no testimony was taken by a stenographer. The defendant was represented by counsel appointed by the Court at the time of the trial, and the Commonwealth was represented by former District Attorney I. A. Reed, Esq., who now represents the defendant in the application for pardon. The only witness for the Commonwealth besides the prosecutrix, it appears from the records, was H. S. Davies, Chief of Police of the Borough of Pottsville, Pa.

I am unable to furnish you with any additional information, other than what is contained in the records of the case.

Personally, I believe there are good grounds for consideration in behalf of a pardon of this defendant.

Yours very truly,

W. F. LYONS,
District Attorney."

The trial judge writes as follows:

"May 25, 1910.

Honorable M. Hampton Todd, Attorney General, Harrisburg, Pa.

My Dear Sir:—Replying to yours of 18th instant, in re Commonwealth vs. Delaney, would say that there was practically no evidence in the case save that of a woman who swore positively to the commission of the crime, and the defendant, who swore just as positively the other way. Under this state of facts the case was eminently one for a jury, and was submitted to them by me in a charge to which counsel for defendant took no exceptions, declaring themselves satisfied therewith.

The Court was led to impose the severe sentence of eleven years by reason of the fact that the story told by the old lady presented a peculiarly aggravated case, and that the defendant had served five years before for highway robbery, in the perpetration of which the victim had been severely beaten.

I desire to interpose no objections to the extending of executive clemency to this defendant, however, should your Board feel it to be a proper case under all the circumstances, and feel that it is not my province to attempt to influence the Board in any action in this matter

Yours respectfully,
H. O. BECHTEL, A. L. J."

Having this case placed before us with the views of the officials, as indicated in the foregoing papers, these officials being in position to know whereof they speak, we deem this a proper instance under all the circumstances for the interposition of the pardoning power, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Thomas Delaney.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General.

NO. 43—1910.

June 20, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the County of Philadelphia, No. 219, August Sessions, 1909, T. B. Donaldson was tried on an indictment charging him with (1) assault and battery, (2) aggravated assault and battery, (3) assault and battery with intent to ravish, and (4) rape. On August 10, 1909, the jury returned a verdict of "Guilty on Third Count;" that is, assault and battery with intent to ravish. On August 12th the court sentenced the defendant to pay the costs of prosecution and undergo imprisonment in the Philadelphia County Prison for the term of two years and six months.

On June 2, 1910, an application for his pardon was filed. Hearing was had at the regular meeting on the 15th, and the case held under advisement for a few days.

From the record before the Board and the argument adduced on behalf of the applicant, as well as from an examination into the merits of the case made since the day of meeting, it has been made to appear that this applicant has been sufficiently punished for any offence he may have committed. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, T. B. Donaldson.

The applicant is a colored man of about thirty-nine years of age. He is a married man and is a resident of the City of Philadelphia, where he is engaged in business, and has been for some years past. He bears a good reputation for honesty and integrity in business dealings, and, apart from the charge in the present instance, his personal character has been without reproach. The prosecutrix is a young colored girl, stated in the indictment to be under the age of sixteen years. There was some testimony that she was about thirteen years old, and on the other hand there are allegations that she was at least sixteen years old, and probably somewhat older. Her story is that on a Sunday afternoon in August of last year, while she was in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia, in company with several other girls, the defendant met her, and after some talk between them, possibly a sort of a flirtation, he chased her and pushed her or laid his hands on her, and then upon the appearance of an officer he ran away. He was taken into custody, however, and on the information of the girl the indictment was framed charging him in the four counts above mentioned. While the verdict was on the third count, and the sentence graded accordingly, it would seem that, in the light of subsequent investigation, that a verdict for simple assault would have been more consonant with the facts. The character of the girl will not stand the scrutiny which a charge of this kind naturally suggests with regard to the prosecutrix, and which fairness to the defendant demands. It is to be feared that she has ventured beyond the protection of the shield of good repute. There is also reason to believe that the prosecution was not entirely free from a tinge of blackmail on the part of the prosecutrix and her friends.

The applicant has been in prison for more than ten months under this sentence. Having endured this length of confinement we believe that, under all the circumstances as they have been made to appear to us, he has paid the penalty for whatever transgression can fairly be imputed to him, and that no public interests will be placed in danger by his release from further confinement. We therefore recommend that a pardon be granted this applicant, T. B. Donaldson.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Attorney General.

NO. 44—1910.

September 28, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 104, September Sessions, 1909, John Russ and Edward Griffin were indicted on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny. Griffin entered a plea of guilty on the joint indictment. Russ was convicted on trial, and on September 17, 1909, was sentenced to pay a fine of $15, costs, and undergo imprisonment in the County Prison for the term of eighteen calendar months. An appeal was taken to the Superior Court, and on 28th September the defendant was released on bail, but on May 10, 1910, on affirmation of the judgment of the lower Court, the defendant was committed to the County Jail to complete the remainder of the term of eighteen months.

An application for pardon was filed September 7, 1910. The case was duly heard and considered at the regular meeting of the Board held this day, the result of which is that the Board unite in recommending that the application for pardon be granted, and that a pardon now issue to the applicant, John Russ.

The applicant is a man of about 29 years of age. His family connection is good, and his reputation had always been of the best prior to this charge. He had been in business for himself in the City of Wilkes-Barre. The offense with which he is charged was the breaking into a tailoring establishment and the stealing of a quantity of cloth. Russ was convicted on the testimony of his co-defendant Griffin, who, it has been made to appear, bore a bad character and was at different times implicated in numerous other buglaries. Griffin's story is that Russ kept watch on the outside of the tailor shop while he broke in and stole the goods. Griffin was not sentenced on his plea of guilty in this case. There was no other testimony beside that of Griffin connecting the applicant with the crime. From what has been shown to us we are of the opinion that this applicant has, by his more than four month's imprisonment sufficiently atoned for his share in the law breaking charged against him.

Honorable G. A. Halsey, who was the trial Judge, writes to the Board under date of August 31, 1910, as follows:

"I have been asked to write you about John Russ, who was convicted in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Luzerne County over which I presided as Judge on the 17th day of September, 1909, of the crimes of breaking and larceny, and stentenced for the term of eighteen months' imprisonment in the Luzerne County Prison.

The principal in these offenses was Edward Griffin, and it was upon his testimony largely that Russ was convicted. It has become known since the trial of Russ that Griffin was engaged in a great number of burglaries in the adjoining county of Lackawanna. Then he escaped punishment for the commission of most of them because of the leniency of the Court, moved by the appeals of his mother. Russ was never in trouble before this offense. He has the most worthy and respected parents. He has now been in prison since the 4th of May, 1910, nearly four months, and it occurs to me that because of the prior good character of the prisoner, and the unquestioned bad character of Griffin, upon whose testimony he was convicted, that this is a proper case for mercy."

Letters of similar import from the Mayor of Wilkes-Barre, the Chief of Police, and various County officials, as well as from many other prominent citizens of that locality have been addressed to the Board.

In view therefore of the previous good character of the applicant, and of the imprisonment already measured out to him, and having reliance on the testimonials on file, we recommend that a pardon be granted this applicant, John Russ.

Respectfully submitted,

Lieutenant Governor,
ROBERT McAFEE,

No. 45—1910.

September 28, 1910.

His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Oyer and Teminer of the County of Luzerne, to No. 29, September Term, 1905, Guiseppe Bianco entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with murder, and upon fixing the degree as murder in the second degree the Court, on September 14, 1905, sentenced the defendant to pay the costs and to undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a period of eighteen years.

An application for pardon was duly filed June 2, 1910, which was heard at our June session, and the case has been held under advisement since that time. We now recommend that the application be allowed and that a pardon be granted the applicant.

The applicant is an Italian, and at the time of his conviction was 49 years of age. His home was in the town of Guardia, Naples, Kingdom of Italy. He had been in this country about a year and a half; he was unable to speak the English language; he had several sons who were merchants in the City of Pittston. He and his wife were visiting these sons, and it was at the home of one of them that the homicide occurred. The victim was his wife, Maraetta. The attack was unprovoked and is inexplicable. Without previous quarrel, so far as known, and without motive so far as discovered, after assisting his sons in work about their store during the whole day, he suddenly, in the presence of other members of the family, on the evening of July 5, 1905, produced a revolver and fired several shots, one or more taking effect on the body of his wife, which brought about her death.

The defendant made no attempt to escape and offered no explanation of his act. He was arrested while passing slowly up the street some distance from the scene of the shooting. At the trial a plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity" was entered, but, after the taking of some testimony, the plea was changed to that of "guilty" and the Court was asked to fix the degree.

The reasons advanced in support of this application for pardon are, in substance, that the prisoner was not guilty of any crime, because the homicide was committed while he was suffering under the influence of a spell of temporary insanity, and that his plea of guilty was entered under the advice of counsel, with the belief that the prejudice existing in the community against Italians was such that his safety would be more asssured by entering the plea of guilty. Stress is given to the allegation of temporary insanity.

An examination of the history of the applicant, as set forth in the papers, reveals certain facts which tend to sustain the insanity theory. The testimony along this line is epitomized by the Judge who tried the case, and who writes the Board as follows:

"Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 11, 1910.

To the Board of Pardons of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—In September, 1905, Guiseppe Bianco was tried before me on a charge of murder. The circumstances attending the trial were of such character as to impress the matter upon my mind rather more than ordinarily. His plea was "not guilty by reason of insanity." It appeared that Bianco, an Italian, living in Pittston, Luzerne County, had without apparent provocation and entirely without any motive, deliberately shot his wife—my recollection is, in broad daylight, in a store, and in the presence of a customer who had come in. There was no quarrel preceding the thing, no jealousy shown between them, no motive whatever for the crime, which, unless the man were insane, really possessed all the elements of murder in the first degree. In his defense testimony was introduced showing, first, a family history of insanity; for example, that his father had become insane in Italy during the latter portion of his life, and violently so, and that it had become necessary to confine and at times chain him; second, it was shown that Bianco himself while in the Italian army had suffered a severe case of sunstroke, and that after apparently recovering from this sunstroke, and before he had come to America, at all, he became seized with hallucinations and delusions which clearly pointed to the inception of his insanity. After he came to America his two sons prospered in the mercantile business, and both became prominent, influential merchants in the city of Pittston, where they both reside.

There was testimony also that for some time prior to the killing of his wife, Bianco had shown marked and increasing symptoms of insanity. For example, that he had been in the habit of standing out in a little open areaway, sometimes in the hot sunshine and at other times in the rain, bareheaded and alone, and with raised hands he would go through some species of incantation which attracted the attention of a number of witnesses who swore to his having done this sort of thing repeatedly. Later on he seemed to have become possessed with a mania for suicide, and so much so that his sons had him watched, and one day he endeavored to throw himself from the river bridge at Pittston, and the man who was following him and watching him seized him just as he was going over the railing. Only a short time before the killing, perhaps a little over a month, he cut his throat, and after the doctor had sewed up the wound and put bandages upon it, they were required to tie Bianco's hands in order to prevent him from tearing off the bandages and tearing open the wound.

Now, I am repeating these facts or testimony relating to these facts simply from the very vivid impression which the case made upon my mind at the time. I have not had the opportunity of looking at the portion of testimony which has been written out, but if the record is before you, I think you will find that I have stated pretty accurately, although in a general way and not much in detail, the testimony relating to this man's insanity. For some reason which I never was able to find out, after the impression had become fully rooted in my own mind, from listening to the testimony, that if I were a juror I should be certain to acquit the man on the ground of insanity, his counsel for some reason withdrew the plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity" and pleaded guilty to murder, and asked me to fix the degree. I expostulated with them and argued with them and told them that under the law as laid down by the Supreme Court I didn't see how it was possible for me to fix anything except murder in the first degree, and I think it was this burden of responsibility, perhaps, which rendered this case more vivid to my mind that it otherwise would have been. Having in mind all this testimony, because we took no additional testimony after the plea was changed, I made up my mind that I would not be responsible for hanging the man, and fixed the murder as murder in the second degree by main strength. I have no knowledge of the man's records since he has been confined, but I am firmly impressed with the idea that under the testimony at is was delivered in that case, if counsel for the defendant had stood fast to the plea which they entered in the first instance, no court would have sustained a verdict even of murder in the second degree or any other crime, because I was satisfied then, and I have learned of nothing since to change my mind, that at the time of the perpetration of this killing Bianco was an insane man to a degree which made him not liable to commit crime, and not able to appreciate the natural results of his act. I know, of course, that you will give this case careful and proper attention and I feel satisfied that if you go over the matter you will reach the same conclusion which I have and which I have endeavored to state to you in this letter.

As the trial judge, I, without further interest in the matter at all except to see justice done as between the Commonwealth and this man, I have no hesitation to say that I recommend to you, so far as my recommendation avails with you, that he receive a pardon.

I may say to you that I have offered his counsel, without any costs either for transportation or otherwise, to go to Harrisburg, and appear before your Board in order that you might interrogate me with regard to anything that you desired to know concerning the progress of this cause, but business engagements prevent my coming.

Yours very truly,

F. W. WHEATON.
Trial Judge."

And again, under date of June 27, 1910, after the presentation of the case to the Board, the same Judge writes, a second time, as follows:

"Wilkes-Barre, June 27, 1910.

Members of the Board of Pardon of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—The case of Guiseppe Bianco, convicted before me of murder in the second degree, in which on October 19, 1909, I wrote you a letter, has come back to me. I am asked now to give you a summary of my own opinion as to the advisability of pardoning this man, without going into the case, upon the theory that you understand the case thoroughly, and would like to have the opinion of the trial judge as to the advisability of pardoning him. I say to you without hesitation that from the information furnished me since the trial I can very truthfully recommend to you that this man ought to be pardoned.

Very truly yours,

F. W. WHEATON."

Subsequent to our June meeting, the Board directed its Secretary to request from the physician at the Eastern Penitentiary a report as to the present mental condition of the applicant. The following is a copy of the letter received in reply to that request:

"Philadelphia, June 22, 1910.

George D. Thorn, Esq., Secretary Board of Pardons, Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Sir:—Replying to your communication as to the present mental condition of Guiseppe Bianco, sentenced by the Court of Oyer and Terminer, County of Luzerne, September 15, 1905, to a term of 18 years, for murder in the second degree, would state that since his admission to the Penitentiary he has been a well behaved prisoner whose actions and conversation are rational. I can find no signs of hallucinations, delusions or other evidence of insanity.

I believe his present mental condition to be normal.

Very respectfully yours,

H. W. HASSELL, M. D.,
Physician."

The present Mayor and the present Chief of Police of the City of Pittston, as well as the Mayor and the Chief of Police of that City at the time of the homicide, join in recommending the approval of the petition.

Under the conditions presented by the record before us, and impressed with the actualities of the case as brought to our attention on the argument of the application, and upon the statement by counsel that the prisoner, upon his release, will immediately return to his native country, we believe this to be a proper case for the exercise of executive clemency; and we therefore unite in recommnding that a pardon be granted to the applicant, Guiseppe Bianco.

NO. 46—1910.

September 28, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Lawrence, to No. 18, December Sessions, 1907, Frank Mediote was convicted on an indictment charging him with perjury, and thereupon, December 10, 1907, was sentenced to pay a fine of $10, costs, and undergo an imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for the term of five years and six months.

An application for pardon was filed August 29, 1910, and the same was duly heard at our regular September Session held this day. After due consideration of the case we are of the opinion that the application is entitled to our favorable recommendation, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted to the applicant, Frank Mediote.

The applicant is a foreigner, and at the time of the commission of the crime was about twenty-one years of age. His offense consisted in the giving of false testimony on the part of the defence on the trial of one Rosario Sergi, who had been indicted for murder, and who was convicted and afterwards hanged. This applicant has now served nearly three years of his sentence, which was almost the limit under the law. It has developed that the offence was not of such an aggravated character to warrant the severe penalty of such a long sentence. It did not result in frustrating the ends of justice, so that the prisoner is relieved of that aggravation. It is the opinion of the officials who took part in the prosecution of this applicant that the defendant has been sufficiently punished. The present district attorney writes under date of August 25, 1910, as follows:

"In the matter of the application of Frank Mediote for a pardon, I beg to say that I am acquainted with the facts surrounding this case, and believe that the ends of justice have been met and that the applicant has been sufficiently punished, taking into the consideration the curcumstances surrounding the case."

The district attorney who tried the case writes under date of September 17, 1910, as follows:

"....*Mediote was sentenced on December 10, 1907, to imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary for a period of five years and six months, and prior to his sentence he was confined in the county jail for a period of almost three months. There was no excuse for his offense, and I have little sympathy for him, but it may be that he has suffered sufficient punishment since he has been confined in the penitentiary and jail for a period of almost three years."

The Trial Judge writes under date of September 8, 1910, as follows:

"Having been informed by his counsel that Frank Mediote is making application for a pardon, I desire to say that I now believe the prisoner has suffered sufficiently, and that his pardon is warranted.

Yours respectfully,

WILLIAM E. PORTER, P. J."

Besides these officials, whose views are entitled to our high regard, a large number of persons, as friends and neighbors of the applicant, all of whom apparently thoroughly understand the conditions of the case, endorse the application, so that we feel justified in recommending that a pardon be now granted to the applicant, Frank Mediote, for the reasons set forth.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Attorney General.

NO. 47—1910.

September 28, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Fulton, to No. 6, March Term, 1910, Russel Sipes entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with larceny, and he was thereupon, March 24, 1910, sentenced to imprisonment in the Pennsylvania Reformatory at Huntingdon, "the term of said sentence to be terminated by the Board of Managers of said Reformatory as directed by the act of Assembly."

On September 7, 1910, an application for pardon was duly filed. This application was heard and considered at the regular September Session of the board. We recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant, Russel Sipes.

The applicant is a young man of about twenty-one years of age. His offense consisted in the stealing of a beef hide of the value of about five dollars. It was his first offense. His reputation theretofore had been without spot. His family connection is good. He is not of the criminal class in any way. The imprisonment already endured, together with the attendant humiliation, etc., has, without doubt, worked out the object of the prosecution. When the sentence was imposed the court, counsel on both sides, and the family of the prisoner seem to have been led into the mistaken belief that a few months' confinement in the reformatory would, under the conditions of a satisfactory record there, entitle the prisoner to his parole. It appears, however, that the minimum term there is one year. The prisoner, according to the report from the institution, has made a perfect record while there. The district attorney of Fulton County writes the board under date of September 19, 1910, as follows:

"In the matter of the application for pardon of Russel Sipes filed with you and to be heard by your Honorable Board on the 21st instant, and in reply to your inquiry concerning the Commonwealth's understanding of the facts in the case and any suggestions that the Commonwealth's counsel might want to make, I beg to say:

That the young man was sentenced for the larceny of a beef hide of the value of about $5. The hide was returned to the party from whom it was stolen. The young man never denied the larceny, plead guilty, and threw himself on the mercy of the Court.

As the Commonwealth's Attorney I suggested a three or six months jail sentence, but it was the opinion of the trial judge, the young man's attorney, and also of his parents, that a sentence to the Huntingdon Reformatory would be more suitable. In discussing the reformatory sentence it seems that we were all under a misapprehension as to the rules governing same. We were of the opinion that if the young man would adhere strictly to the rules governing the institution that he would be paroled at the end of three or six months, but such does not seem to be the case. The young man was informed by the trial judge, myself, and his attorney, that he had a chance of parole in from three to six months.

Representing the Commonwealth, if the young man has anything like a perfect record to present to your Honorable Board from the institution to which he was sentenced, then I am free to say that in my opinion the ends of justice have been met, and that the young man has been already sufficiently punished, and would therefore recommend a pardon at your hands.

Yours very respectfully,

FRANK P. LYNCH,
District Attorney."

Very many other letters from residents of his home community testify to the young man's previous good character and the belief that he has been sufficiently punished, and ask that he be relieved from further confinement.

Believing therefore that the ends of justice have been reached, and for the reasons above set forth, we recommend that a pardon be now granted this applicant, Russel Sipes.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

NO. 48—1910.

November 16, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace of the County of Philadelphia, to No. 391, August Sessions, 1910, Louis Shallcross was indicted on a charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods, and on arraignment pleaded guilty. He was thereupon, on the 11th day of August, 1910, sentenced to pay the costs and undergo imprisonment in the county prison for the term of six months.

Application for pardon was duly filed November 2, 1910. The case was heard at our session held this day. We recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant.

The offence consisted in the picking up and carrying off a pair of shoes while walking through one of the large stores of Philadelphia. At the time of committing this act the applicant was under the influence of liquor. This appears to have been his first offence, and he is shown to have borne a good character previous to the commission of this unlawful act. He was not represented by counsel when his case was called for trial in court. He seems to have been in company with a man who was supposed to be a crook, and it was thought that the defendant himself was one of this undesirable class. Subsequent investigation, however, shows this to be an error. Under the circumstances of the case it is conceded that the sentence was severe, and having already served more than three months of the term, it is believed that the ends of justice have been met. Judge Staake, who imposed the sentence, writes to the board as follows.

"Philadelphia, November 1st, 1910.

To the Honorable, the Members of the Board of Pardons:

Gentlemen:—In the matter of the application for a pardon of Louis Shallcross, who pleaded guilty to an indictment for larceny and was sentenced by me August 11th, 1910, to six months in the county prison, I have no objection to the prayer of the petition being granted.

Indeed, in view of the representations made to me, I am satisfied that the interests of justice will best be served by this pardon.

Very respectfully yours,
WILLIAM H. STAAKE."

For these reasons, therefore, we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Louis Shallcross.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Attorney General.

NO 49—1910.

November 16, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Allegheny, to No. 19, November Sessions, 1909, Robert McCrea was indicted on a charge of entering a building with intent to commit a felony, larceny and receiving stolen goods. A verdict of guilty was returned, and he was thereupon, on the 23d day of November, 1909, sentenced to pay a fine of six and a quarter cents, costs, and undergo imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary of not less than two years and six months or more than ten years.

Application for pardon was duly filed October 8, 1910. The case was heard at our meeting this day, and upon careful consideration of the same we recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant.

The offence complained of consisted of the alleged entering the boat house of a gunning club in an isolated locality and the taking and carrying away a quantity of loaded gunshells. Some of the stolen property was found on the defendant, but he strenuously denied having himself committed the theft, although he knew that the articles were stolen property. Nearly all the stolen property was restored to the owners. The prisoner has been in the penitentiary a year, lacking a few days, and was in jail for more than a month before the trial, so that he has undergone an imprisonment of more than thirteen months up to this time. The offence was not an aggravated one and the defendant is not an habitual criminal. It is the feeling of the prosecuting officer that the prisoner has attoned for his violation of the law and that no further good would result from his continued imprisonment. He, therefore, answers the board's inquiries as follows:

"October, 17, 1910.

Honorable Robert McAfee, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Harrisburg, Pa.

My Dear Sir:—My attention has recently been called to the application which has been made in behalf of Robert A. McCrea for a pardon from the sentence of Judge Carnahan, imposed a little less than a year ago. His application will come up before your Board at its next meeting.

I have gone rather carefully into the facts of this case, and feel satisfied that McCrea's punishment was entirely too severe. A year, under the circumstances, would have been more than sufficient. McCrea's mother, a widow, is now an old woman of 74 years, and is practically alone in the world. He himself is suffering from necrosis of the bone in one of his legs, and I am informed an operation will soon be necessary, and I think, from the standpoint of humanity that he should be released. He never had any trouble, prior to the prosecution of this case, which resulted out of the loss of some shells and ammunition from the headquarters of the Sewickley Gun Club.

I believe it would be only justice if the Board could see its way clear to grant McCrea a pardon. I make these statements to you after investigating the facts, and hope they will be presented to the Board as strongly as the circumstances will warrant.

Yours very truly,
WIILIAM A. BLAKELEY.
District Attorney."

In view therefore of the conditions thus presented we recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Robert McCrea.

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General.

Secretary of Internal Affairs.

NO. 50—1910.

November 16, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, to No. 666, April Sessions, 1910, Emil Graff entered a plea of guilty on an indictment charging him with unlawfully selling and having in his possession cocaine; and on June 17, 1910, he was sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars, costs, and undergo imprisonment in the county prison for the term of one year. There were four bills of indictment, charging separate violations of the Act of Assembly regulating the sale of this drug. On the other three, verdicts of not guilty were taken.

On September 7, 1910, an application for pardon was filed. This application was heard at our September meeting, and has been held under advisement since then. Now, after giving the matter full consideration, the Board recommends that the prayer of the applicant be granted and that a pardon issue to the applicant.

Emil Graff has been a reputable druggist of the City of Philadelphia for a number of years, having conducted the business of a retail druggist there since March, 1881. During the early part of this year there was vigorous action taken by the State Pharmaceutical Board to break up the illegal sale of cocaine in the City of Philadelphia. Among others charged with the offense was this applicant. It was shown that the drug has been procured at his store, contrary to the provisions of the Act, though possibly not from the defendant personally. Of all the convictions for the violation of the statute on this subject, it has been represented to us that this is the only case in which a jail sentence was imposed upon the defendant. From the numerous letters, petitions, etc., on file with this case, we are led to believe that the ends of justice have been met with the five months imprisonment endured by the defendant, and that it would be a justifiable act of clemency to grant a pardon to the applicant. Samuel M. Clement, Jr., Esq., the counsel taken by the State Pharmaceutical Board to break up the representing the State Pharmaceutical Board, addressing the Board under date of September 26, 1910, writes as follows:

"To the Members of the Board of Pardons of the State of Pennsylvania.

Gentlemen:—In the matter of the application for pardon of Emil Graff, who entered a plea of guilty some months ago in the Court of Quarter Sessions of Philadelphia County to an indictment charging him with selling cocaine in violation of the act of Assembly, and who was sentenced by the Honorable Charles Y. Audenried.

I represented the State Pharmaceutical Examining Board, who instituted the prosecution. Dr. Graff has now been in prison several months, and I believe that he has been sufficiently punished.

The result desired by the Board in this prosecution has been obtained, that is, it has served as a warning to all the druggists of Pennsylvania that they must not sell cocaine in violation of the act of Assembly.

I think in fairness to Dr. Graff, I should state to the Board that he acknowledged his wrong and entered his plea of guilty. He avowed his purpose thereafter to strictly comply with all the laws of the Commonwealth relating to the sale of drugs, and no further complaints have been brought to the State Board concerning either of the stores owned by him.

If Dr. Graff is pardoned at this time, I believe it would be a just and merciful termination of the case, and I am convinced that he fully realizes the importance of managing his drug stores in such a way as to make a repitition of the offense impossible. Dr. Graff is well known in the drug business, and his conviction has served as an excellent example to all druggists.

Yours very truly,
SAMUEL M. CLEMENT, Jr."

The ends sought to be accomplished by the prosecution having apparently been obtained, we believe that no further good will result to the community by prolonging the imprisonment of the defendant. We therefore recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Emil Graff.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General,
HENRY HOUCK,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

NO. 51—1910.

November 16, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Philadelphia, at the December Sessions, 1907, William Condon entered a plea of guilty to certain indictments charging him with fraudulently making several written instruments, and with perjury in connection therewith, and on the 2nd of January, 1908, he was sentenced by the Court to an imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for the term of five years.

An application for pardon was filed March 8, 1909, which was from time to time continued, but was heard at a meeting held in the early part of the present year, and on May 4, 1910, the application was refused by this Board. A rehearing was granted, and the case was again heard at the September meeting of the Board, and it has been held under advisement by us since that time. Having given the case careful consideration we now recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant.

The charges complained of grew out of the giving of bail in certain criminal proceedings in the Courts of Philadelphia County. It appears that defendant's brother had on various occasions authorized the defendont to sign his (the brother's) name to bail bonds. In the particular case in question, however, this authority had not been expressly secured. The irregularity was in some way discovered, and the defendant was arrested and brought into Court, and sentence as above indicated.

When the indictments were called up in Court, the defendant was not represented by counsel. It is alleged in his behalf that he simply entered his plea of guilty, without disclosing to the Court that he had signed the bonds under what he supposed was lawful authority from his brother. It is contended on the part of the applicant that there was an absence of unlawful wrong-doing, and further that if the defendant had been legally and morally guilty of the offenses charged, the sentence imposed was more severe than the circumstances warranted, and was beyond the usual sentence in charges of this character.

In view of all the circumstances brought to our attention in the consideration of this case, and taking into consideration the fact that under the commutation Act the defendant's term of imprisonment would expire in about seven and a half months, we deem the request for clemency at this time a reasonable one, and we, therefore, recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, William Condon.

Respectfully submitted,
ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth,
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General,
HENRY HOUCK,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

NO. 52—1910.

November 23, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Tioga, to No. 12, September Sessions, 1907, William Williammee entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with larceny and receiving stolen goods; he was thereupon, September 13, 1909, sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, costs, and undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary for a term of not less than two years and six months and not more than ten years.

An application for pardon was filed November 3, 1910, which was heard at our November meeting. Upon giving the matter full and due consideration since the hearing, and taking into count all the circumstances attending the case, we look at this as an instance where executive clemency can be properly shown, and we therefore recommend that a pardon be granted the applicant.

The violation of law for which this defendant is undergoing punishment grew out of a horse trading operation. There was the usual bad end of the bargain, and it was Williammee's misfortune to get the worst of the deal. He was only a boy at the time, being under eighteen years of age. Feeling that he had been imposed on he undertook in his own way to get even. On the night of the Fourth of July, 1907, shortly after the date of the horse trade, there was a picnic somewhere in the neighborhood where he and his adversary lived. He had reason to believe that the man with whom he had traded horses would be there with his newly-acquired horse. Accordingly he himself went to the picnic, taking with him the horse then in his possession, the result of the previous trade. He saw in the horse sheds at the picnic grounds what he supposed was the horse he had traded off, he unhitched this horse, and drove off with it, thinking he had come into possession of his own, and leaving in its place the horse he had gotten in the trade—all this, of course, without the knowledge of the owner of the horse he was driving away. After going some distance from the picnic ground, along about midnight, he discovered that the horse he had taken was not the horse he had previously traded off, but an entirely different animal. Alarmed at the difficulty in which he found himself involved, he drove on some distance, and then abandoned the team by the wayside. The whole outfit was soon afterwards recovered by its real owner, who was afterwards reimbursed in full by Williammee's father for all damages sustained. The boy himself was thoroughly frightened at his predicament, and left the locality. He subsequently returned, and then was arrested n the charge of larceny of the horse, buggy, harness, etc., nd his indictment and sentence followed as stated above.

The applicant has been in the penitentiary now for more han fourteen months. He was just twenty years of age vhen he was sentenced, and was under eighteen years when he offence was committed. He is of a good family and is not of the criminal class. This is believed to be the first time ie has been in trouble, and he is not likely to be a law-breaker again.

It was urged before us that the sentence was too severe nder all the circumstances and with a full understanding of he facts, especially in view of the absence of felonious ntent. There is considerable force in this position. Our ttention was further called to the misapprehension exist-ng in the minds of many persons with regard to the pro-visions of the Indeterminate Sentence Act of 1909 requir-ng the court to fix the minimum term of imprisonment when none is required by law. The notion seems to prevail that such minimum must be at least one-fourth of the maximum term.

Upon making inquiry of Judge Cameron, who imposed this sentence as to the sufficiency of the imprisonment already served by this applicant, the judge writes the board as follows:

"Wellsboro, Pa., Nov. 19th, 1910.

Commonwealth) vs.) In the Quarter Sessions of Tioga County, Williamee)

Hon. M. Hampton Todd, Philadelphia, Pa.

My Dear Sir:—When the above case was disposed of I was of the opinion that I could not sentence for a less term than one-fourth of the maximum.

I may have had in my mind the proviso to Sec. 5, instead of Sec. 6. Had I known I could legally have given a shorter term I would have done so.

Under all the circumstances, and especially considering his youth, I think it would be well to give him another chance.

Very truly,
DAVID CAMERON."

In view of all the conditions shown to attach to this case, and with the thought that the applicant has been sufficiently punished for his transgression, we recommend that a pardon be now granted to the applicant, William Williammee.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General.
HENRY HOUCK,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

No. 53—1910.

December 21, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Allegheny, to No. 140, September Sessions, 1910, Patrick F. Mangan was indicted on a charge of felonious assault and battery, and upon the calling of the case in Court he entered a plea of "nolo contendere;" he was thereupon, October 1, 1910, sentenced by the Court to pay a fine of $100, costs of prosecution, and undergo imprisonment of six months in the county jail.

An application for pardon was duly filed December 12, 1910, and the case was heard at our regular meeting held this day. After considering the facts and circumstances connected with the matter, we are of the opinion that the application is well grounded and deserving of approval, and we, therefore, recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant.

Mangan was a police officer of Stowe Township, Allegheny County, on August 5, 1910, and had been filling that office for about three years previous. On the evening of that day, while on duty and regularly patrolling his beat, it became necessary for him to order a crowd of young men of well known but bad tendencies and habits to disperse. This crowd had congregated at the corner of two important thoroughfares in the section of the Township known as West Park. The authorities had experienced considerable difficulty with this crowd of persons, who, it is alleged, were in the habit of insulting passers-by, both men and women, and, by their talk and conduct, making themselves obnoxious to decent people in general. One citizen, in writing to us in favor of this application, speaks of these men as "hoodlums" and "loafers." One member of the crowd, probably the leader, at all events the most determined and ill-disposed of the lot, refused to heed the request of the officer to move on. This man, by the name of Ernest Burkhart, it was shown, cherished some bad feeling toward Mangan, and had previously made threats against him, even going so far as to say that if Mangan continued to interfere with his, Burkhart's, unlawful practices "there would be one less policeman in that district," and that he would "make daylight show through him," or expressions to that effect. After ordering the crowd to disperse, as above stated, and noticing the attitude of Burkhart, Mangan telephoned to police headquarters detailing the situation. He was ordered by the Chief of Police to return to his post of duty and to disperse the crowd. In pursuance of this order, he again ordered Burkhart to move on. The latter making some motion which to the officer was indicative of reaching for his revolver, Mangan drew his own pistol, and, thinking his life was in danger, fired at Burkhart, wounding him so that he was confined to the hospital for about twenty days. Mangan was immediately taken into custody, and the next day an information was laid against him, and he was held for Court.

When the case was called for trial, the defendant, acting upon the advice of one of the Commissioners of Stowe Township, who had always been his friend and advisor, entered a plea of nolo contendere, having been led to believe that sentence would be suspended. This hope was not realized. On the contrary he was sentenced to both fine and imprisonment, as before stated.

It was shown to us that Mangan had been a most reliable and trustworthy officer. He had an excellent reputation for efficiency and attention to duty. He had never been charged with overstepping the line of proper observance, or with failure to do all that was required of him in any emergency. There is on file a petition signed by more than one hundred of the citizens of the locality, asking for favorable consideration of the application; also individual letters from the several officials of the Township, and from others, who are familiar with the whole situation, all attesting to Mangan's previous good record and expressing the belief that he has been sufficiently punished. No opposition to the application, on the part of the Commonwealth's officers, appears in any shape or form before us.

In view, therefore, of all that has been shown to us regarding the case, we respectfully recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant Patrick F. Mangan.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.

Secretary of the Commonwealth.

No. 54—1910.

December 21, 1910.

To His Excellency Edwin S. Stuart, Governor.

Sir:—In the Court of Quarter Sessions of the Peace in and for the County of Luzerne, to No. 33, November Sessions, 1909, Fred A. Guard and Walter H. Roe were indicted on a charge of conspiracy. A verdict of guilty was rendered January 22, 1910. The verdict was accompanied with a recommendation "to the extreme mercy of the court." On January 29, 1910, the court sentenced the defendants to pay a fine of $300 and undergo imprisonment by separate and solitary confinement in the County Prison for the term of one year and six calendar months.

An application for the pardon of Fred A. Guard was duly filed June 1, 1910, which, on June 20, 1910, after hearing, was refused. On November 16, 1910, a rehearing was allowed, and the case was again heard and considered at our meeting held this day, and we are of the opinion that it would be proper to recommend that a pardon be now granted the applicant, Fred A. Guard.

For several years prior to 1908 Guard was a bookkeeper in the employ of the Black Diamond Knitting Mills Company, a corporation engaged in the manufacture of hosiery in the Borough of Nanticoke, Luzerne County. A part of the time he was manager of the concern. In 1908 Roe became the general manager of the company and Guard continued to be its bookkeeper. During Roe's incumbency as manager of this company he organized another similar corporation under the name of the Nanticoke Hosiery Company. He procured Guard to be interested in this second company. Both these defendants being both interested in each of these companies, a scheme was devised, ostensibly by Roe, by which some of the products of the Black Diamond Company were shipped on bills of lading of the Nanticoke Company, whereby the Black Diamond Company was defrauded to the benefit of the Nanticoke Company. After a time Guard left the Black Diamond Company and became the bookkeeper of the Nanticoke Company. Roe was afterwards discharged from the Black Diamond Company. The dishonest practice became known in some way, and both men were arrested and indicted for conspiracy to defraud the Black Diamond Mills Company.

Prior to the advent of Roe, Guard bore a good reputation, and was not known to have been engaged in any questionable practices, or even suspected of any wrongdoing. On the other hand, it is shown that Roe had been charged with dishonesty in the management of several hosiery mills prior to his coming to Nanticoke. It is fairly assumed on the part of Guard's friends that Guard was led into this scheme by Roe, and it is urged before us that the imprisonment of almost a year's duration which he has suffered is a sufficient punishment for his yielding to the importunities of an evil-minded and mercenary co-employe.

In commenting on this application for pardon Judge George S. Ferris, who tried the case and imposed the sentence, wrote to the board under the date of June 7, 1910, as follows:

"Gentlemen:—On January 22nd, last, Walter H. Roe and Fred A Guard were convicted of conspiracy to defraud. The verdict of the jury was accompanied by a recommendation to mercy. In the case of Roe there was nothing in the case to justify such a recommendation. In the case of Guard there was. The testimony to his previous good reputation was strong and convincing; and the other evidence, while warranting the conclusion of his complicity with Roe in the conspiracy, indicated, to my mind, that he was more weak than bad, and had allowed himself to be led by Roe into a fraudulent scheme which the latter concocted and was mainly instrumental in carrying out. Since the trial I have regretted that I did not give more weight to these considerations, and discriminate between these men in imposing sentence.

In the case of Roe I thing his sentence should stand; but I would not say that Guard should be punished more severely than he has already, and regard his case as a proper one for the exercise of clemency."

And again under date of June 18 Judge Ferris addressed the attorney general as follows.

"My Dear General:—In the case of Commonwealth vs. F. A. Guard, who was sentenced for conspiracy with Walter H. Roe, I stated in a former letter, in effect, that I thought Guard should have been sentenced for a less term than Roe, and I am under the impression that I added that, in my opinion, he had been sufficiently punished already. So far as punishment has for its purpose the reformation of the offender, I am disposed to adhere to that statement. I think that he has had his lesson, and, if released, would not be seen in the criminal court again as a defendant. But, in so far as punishment is intended to be an object lesson to others, I would not say that five months' imprisonment would be sufficient in his case, even considering the fact that Roe was the master mind of the conspiracy. Since receiving your letter I have examined my notes of testimony, and believe that in passing sentence Roe should have been given the term of eighteen months, which was imposed, and Guard a term of not less than nine months, or perhaps a year. I still think some substantial distinction should have been made between the two defendants, but do not consider five months a sufficient punishment, and would modify my former letter accordingly. I certainly do not wish to do anything that would tend to minimize the importance of this crime or discourage those who at their own cost seek to enforce observance of the law."

If Guard had been sentenced to one year's imprisonment his term, by operation of law, would have expired on November 29th last, so that it appears he has already served a term which now fully meets the sentencing judge's views.

Therefore, attaching due consideration to all the information before us concerning this application, we have reached the conclusion that this is a proper case for the exercise of executive clemency, and we accordingly recommend that a pardon be now granted this applicant, Fred A. Guard.

Respectfully submitted,

ROBERT S. MURPHY,
Lieutenant Governor.

ROBERT McAFEE,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.
M. HAMPTON TODD,
Attorney General.
HENRY HOUCK,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

REPORT OF TOLL ROAD COMMISSION, JANUARY 1, 1911.

OSCAR E. THOMSON, CHAIRMAN.

To the Governor, Members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In compliance with the resolution approved the 7th day of April, 1909, by Governor Edwin S. Stuart, a copy of which is hereto attached, marked "Exhibit A," beg to report as follows:

Whereas, The demanding and exacting of toll from the traveling public is not in harmony with the spirit of present day progress; and,

Whereas, The payment of such tolls is burdensome to the public in the use of the highways; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we unanimously recommend that the Commonwealth acquire all such toll roads and abolish the payment of tolls thereon. And in order that this may be accomplished we offer and recommend the passage of the following bill marked "Exhibit B," which will be introduced at this session of the Legislature. We also attach herewith data collected from the Toll Road Corporations, et cetera, known as "Exhibit C."

Signed,

OSCAR E. THOMSON,

NO. 19.

In the Senate, March 23, 1909.

Whereas, It is manifest that public sentiment demands that in the march of progress all roads and highways within this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be made free to all the people; and

Whereas, There are numerous roads and highways owned by individuals and corporations on which tolls are levied and which in many instances form connecting links with public roads and highways; and

Whereas, The levying of tolls is a burden upon those engaged in agricultural pursuits and others who are compelled to use such roads and highways in daily travel; and

Whereas, It is the widely prevailing belief that the time is come when the General Assembly should become informed as to what steps should be taken to afford relief to persons compelled to use such roads and highways; therefore, be it

Resolved, if the House concur, That a committee of five members of the General Assembly, three to be appointed by the Speaker of the House and two by the President of the Senate, to investigate and report to the next General Assembly on the advisability of abolishing toll roads in the several counties and recommend legislation with this end in view.

HARMON M. KEPHARD,
Chief Clerk Senate.
THOMAS H. GARVIN,
Chief Clerk House of Representatives.

Approved the 7th day of April, A. D. 1909.
EDWIN S. STUART.

EXHIBIT "B."

AN ACT

To provide for the condemnation and acquisition, at the cost of the Commonwealth, of toll roads (except toll roads owned or controlled in whole or in part by steam or electric railroads), for the use of the public, abolishing tolls thereon, providing for the repair and maintenance of the same, regulating the procedure in such cases, and making an appropriation therefor.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That when any toll road partnership, joint stock company or corporation has heretofore constructed and maintained any toll road on which the public travel, and such partnership, joint stock company or corporation is authorized to take tolls for the use thereof, and at least twenty residents and taxpayers of the county where such toll road is situated shall petition the Court of Quarter Sessions of Dauphin County (or if said toll road is located in two counties, then upon the petition, as aforesaid, of at least twenty residents and taxpayers of each county), representing that the said toll road is necessary for the accommodation of the public travel, and that the payment of tolls over such toll road is burdensome to the traveling public and the people of the city, borough or township where the same is located, praying that the same shall be taken for public use, free from tolls and toll gates, the said Court shall appoint three disinterested persons, none of whom shall be residents of the county or counties wherein such toll road is located, and one of whom shall be a civil engineer, to view the said toll road and assess the damages, if any, which such company may sustain by the taking of the same, and make report of these proceedings to the said Court of Quarter Sessions of Dauphin County at the next term thereof; Provided, however, That no toll road shall be taken over under the provisions of this act which is owned or controlled by any steam or electric railroad duly incorporated under the laws of this Commonwealth.

Section 2. The viewers so appointed shall give thirty days' notice to the Attorney General of this Commonwealth, to the partnership, joint stock company or corporation owning the toll road and to the county commissioners of the respective county or counties in which the said toll road is located, of the time and place appointed for the meeting of the viewers. They shall have authority to subpoena and compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of papers, and to hear and take testimony of witnesses in relation thereto, for and against the same.

Section 3. The viewers so appointed, or a majority of them, having performed their duties, as aforesaid, shall make report at the next term of said court, which shall state, First, who of them were present at the view; Second, whether they were severally sworn or affirmed; Third, whether the payment of tolls is an unjust burden on the traveling public and the people of the city, borough, or township where the same is located; Fourth, the amount of damage, if any, sustained by such partnership, joint stock company or corporation, by reason of the taking of the said toll road or toll roads.

Section 4. The compensation of the said viewers shall be paid at the rate of ten dollars per diem for each day employed, and in addition they shall also receive the necessary expenses incident to their duties as viewers; said expenses to be subject to the approval of the said Court of Dauphin County. Upon approval by the said Court the bills for per diem allowance and expenses shall be presented to the Auditor General, who shall issue a warrant upon the State Treasurer for the payment of the same, payable out of the appropriation made for the condemnation and acquisition of toll roads.

Section 5. Notice of the filing of the report of the viewers shall be given to the Attorney General, the county commissioners of the county or counties in which such toll road is located, and to the partnership, joint stock company or corporation owning the same, any of whom shall have the right to file exceptions thereto at any time within thirty days after receiving said notice, and it shall be the duty of the said Court of Quarter Sessions of Dauphin County after hearing, upon deposition or otherwise, as the said Court may direct, to determine all questions raised by said exceptions, whether or not the said toll road is necessary for the public accommodation, and whether or not the payment of tolls thereon is an unjust burden on the traveling public, and the people of the city, borough or township where the same is located; Provided, however, That any party aggrieved by the action of the Court may remove the proceedings to the Appellate Court by writ of certiorari within thirty days after nisi confirmation or disapproval, as the case may be; and Provided further, however, If an appeal on the assessment of damages shall be taken, as hereinafter provided, that then, in such case, the final approval or confirmation shall await the final determination of such appeal, by the lower court or by the Appellate Court, as the case may be.

Section 6. An appeal to the Court of Common Pleas of said Dauphin County, from the assessment of damages, may be taken by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the county commissioners, or by the partnership, joint stock company or corporation owning the same, within thirty days after receiving notice that the said report has been filed, as aforesaid; and thereupon the Court shall award an issue, which shall be tried by a jury, according to the course of the common law, as regulated the existing statutes, and judgment entered on the verdict; and the record thereof shall be remitted to the said Court of Quarter Sessions, for further action upon the whole case; Provided, however, That said judgment shall be reviewable by the Appellate Courts, as in other cases; Provided, further, however, That the exceptions, if any, to the report of the viewers, as aforesaid, shall be finally determined by the said Court of Quarter Sessions, or the Appellate Court, as the case may be, before the appeal on the assessment of damages shall be determined.

Section 7. Upon the nisi confirmation of said report, no exceptions thereto having been filed, as herein allowed; or on the dismissal of said exceptions, and said dismissal being sustained by the Appellate Court, an appeal thereon having been taken, the said Court of Quarter Sessions of Dauphin County shall order and decree that the said toll road shall be taken for public use and forthwith be declared and taken as a State road, and the damages shall be payable out of the State Treasury on a warrant drawn by the Auditor General out of any moneys appropriated for that purpose, and all tolls for travel thereon shall then cease. The title to all realty acquired under the provisions of this act shall be vested in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Section 8. The repair and maintenance of the roads acquired by this act shall be under the control and supervision of the Highway Commissioner. All costs pertaining to the repair and maintenance of these roads shall be borne by the Commonwealth, and payment therefore shall be made upon warrant issued by the Highway Commissioner on the Auditor General and State Treasurer, payable out of the appropriation made to the said department for the building, macadamizing and repair of roads.

Section 9. The sum of two million ($2,000,000) dollars be and the same is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the purpose of paying for the toll roads acquired under this act.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, TO CONSIDER AND REPORT UPON A REVISION OF THE CORPORATION AND REVENUE LAWS OF THE COMMONWEALTH, TO THE LEGISLATURE, PURSUANT TO JOINT RESOLUTION OF MAY 13, 1909.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

Gentlemen: By concurrent resolution of your Honorable Bodies, approved by the Governor, May 13, 1909, P. L. 944, it was provided as follows:

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, MARCH 30, 1909.

A Concurrent Resolution Providing for the Appointment of a Joint Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives to Consider and Report Upon a Revision of the Laws of this Commonwealth Relating to Corporations and to Revenue; For the Employment of Counsel and Other Necessary Officers and Employees, and Giving it the Authority to Compel the Attendance of Persons and the Production of Books and Papers.

Resolved (if the Senate concur) That the President pro tempore of the Senate shall appoint three Senators, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint three of its members, which shall constitute a joint committee, whose duty it shall be to consider the laws of this Commonwealth relating to corporations and to revenue and the practical working thereof, and to report to the next Legislature whatever changes may be deemed necessary therein, together with the draft of an Act or Acts of Assembly to accomplish said changes, and together with such recommendations as may be deemed necessary relative to the administration of existing laws or as to the enforcement of said suggested Act or Acts. Said committee shall have power to elect its own chairman, to sit after the adjournment of the Legislature, to employ legal counsel and such other officers and employees as may be needed to enable it to properly perform its duties as aforesaid; but its expenditures shall be limited to the amount provided therefor in the general appropriation bill to be passed at this session of the Legislature, and shall be paid out of the State Treasury upon vouchers signed by the Chairman of said Committee.

Said Committee shall also have power to issue subpoenas signed by its Chairman, requiring the attendance of persons and the production of books and papers, as in its judgment will assist in the performance of its duties as aforesaid.

Said Committee shall make a full report in writing to the Governor of the Commonwealth of its findings, with such recommendations as it may deem proper, six months prior to the meeting of the General Assembly in the session of 1911.

Approved the thirteenth day of May, A. D. 1909.
EDWIN S. STUART.

In compliance with the said resolution your committee has the honor to report:

Pursuant to the direction of the resolution your Committee, July 1, 1910, submitted a report to the Governor, and in it expressed the views of the Committee of the proper course to be pursued in the performance of their duties and their action thereabout and it will not be amiss to repeat here.

After reciting the above Resolution the report proceeded:

It will be noted there are two subjects submitted for our consideration: Revenue and a Revision of the laws of the Commonwealth relating to Corporations, each of almost unlimited magnitude and of vital interest and importance to the people. For present consideration we will reverse their order in the Resolution.

The collection of revenue for the support of the Government is a problem the solution of which has enlisted the best efforts of man from the beginning of civilization, and divers are the methods which have been used in the belief or hope that satisfactory results would be attained; but whilst we have progressed in this, as in all else, and are nearer to the solution than ever before, there is much yet to be done to accomplish that uniformity and equalization contemplated by our Constitution and laws.

We have approached the performance of the work entrusted to us as respects State revenues fully appreciative of the fact, which is conceded by the best informed authorities upon the subject, that our "revenue laws have put us easily in the front rank of American Commonwealths," and yet we know that there is room for improvement, but just how changes can be made which will effect a closer approach to equalization upon and uniformity among all upon whom taxes should be imposed for the support of the Commonwealth and for its legitimate expenditures, is a subject of the gravest concern to those who would make the attempt.

This is not astonishing, for taxation is of all things a matter in which the people of a popular Government are least willing to depart from the long-accepted theories. They require first to be convinced. But as taxation is a complex subject, and not popularly entertaining, it is difficult to overcome the public fear of making bad matters worse by new departures.

A law which has not the support of the great body of public sentiment would not be wise or practical, and this is especially true of legislation relative to taxation.

To the end that the opinions of all our people should be had we have mailed upwards of forty-two thousand letters, substantially as follows:

Dear Sir:—The Legislature of Pennsylvania on May 13, 1909 (P. L., 944), adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the President pro tempore of the Senate shall appoint three Senators and the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint three of its members, which shall constitute a Joint Committee whose duty it shall be to consider the laws of this Commonwealth relating to corporations and to revenue, and the practical working thereof, and to report to the next Legislature whatever changes may be deemed necessary therein, together with the draft of an Act or Acts of Assembly to accomplish said changes, and together with such recommendations as may be deemed necessary relative to the administration of existing laws or as to the enforcement of said suggested Act or Acts: * * *

"Said Committee shall also have power to issue subpoenas signed by its Chairman, requiring the attendance of persons and the production of books and papers, as in its judgment will assist in the performance of its duties as aforesaid."

The Committee is collecting data upon the formation, regulation and taxation of corporations and the appropriation of State Revenue for all purposes, in this State, in all of the United States, by the Federal Government, and by other nations. These subjects are being specially discussed and legislated upon at the present time throughout the world.

The Committee desires the co-operation of all interested in these subjects, and requests your opinion as to any defects in the present laws of the Commonwealth relating to the formation, regulation and taxation of corporations, associations, partnerships or individuals, the exemption of them or any of them from taxation, the appropriation of the revenue of the State, and any changes therein which you may think necessary.

You will notice that the Resolution requires a report of the Committee to be filed with the Governor in July, 1910, and we therefore request an early reply, as it is important that all suggestions be received for consideration prior to the public meetings which the Committee may hold. We should also be glad to have from you the names and addresses of any persons whom you may know who are specially qualified to give to the Committee information or assistance in the consideration of these most important subjects.

Very truly yours,
GABRIEL H. MOYER,
Secretary.

And to thousands of representative citizens throughout the State known to us, or of whom we were informed, as being interested in the subjects involved.

In fact, every interest of the Commonwealth affected by the payment to, or expenditures by, the Commonwealth, or having to do with the creation and regulation of corporations was so recognized; and appreciation of this recognition was duly expressed in several thousands of communications containing opinions, suggestions and recommendations almost as varied as the number of writers, to all of whom we have replied, and with many of whom we have discussed the subjects written of to elicit the fullest exposition of their views.

We have also collected data upon both of the subjects—the formation and regulation of corporations and State revenues, from all of the United States, from the Federal Government and from Foreign Countries.

We have, after due notice published in all of the newspapers of the respective localities, held public meetings as follows:

In Philadelphia, at which were heard Committees and representatives from all Hospitals and all Charitable Institutions in that City and surrounding Counties, Medical Societies, semi-State Institutions, Educational Institutions, State Board of Public Charities, Philadelphia College of Physicians, Financial Institutions, Trust Companies, Section of American Bankers' Association, Real Estate Bookers' Association, Association of Life Insurance Presidents, Private Bankers' and Brokers' Associations, Board of Revision of Taxes, County Officials, Manufacturers' Club, Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, Pennsylvania Tax Reform Association, Corporations of all classes and representative men prominent in general activities, and county tax officials from Montgomery, Chester, Lancaster, Berks, Delaware and Bucks Counties.

In Pittsburg, Pa., at which were heard Committees and representatives from all Hospitals, Homes and all other Charitable Institutions in that city and surrounding counties, Manufacturers, Bankers, Trust Companies, Savings Institutions, Coal operators, Brokers and City officials, County officials, County Tax Revision Board, Lawyers, Committees of Allegheny County Bar Association, Real Estate Brokers, Single Tax Society, Educational Institutions, Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce of McKeesport, Pa., Chamber of Commerce of N. S. Pittsburg, Insurance Companies, Allegheny County Laundrymen's Association, Manufacturers' Association, Corporations of all classes, the Mayor and representative men of that locality.

In Williamsport, Pa., at which were heard Committees and representatives from all Hospitals, Homes, and all other Charitable Institutions in Williamsport, Universities, Bar Association, Board of Trade, Financial Institutions, Business and Trade Associations, City and County Officials, Pennsylvania State Grange, Manufacturing Companies, Corporations of all classes, Board of Assessors, Board of Revision of Taxes, Lawyers and representative men of the locality.

In Erie, Pa., at which were heard Committees and representatives from all Hospitals, Homes and all other Charitable Institutions in Erie and surrounding counties; Financial Institutions, City and County Officials, Manufacturers' Association, Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, Business Men's Association, Bar Association, Associated Charities, Manufacturing Companies, Corporations of all classes and representative men of the locality.

In Scranton, Pa., at which were heard Committees and representatives from all Hospitals, Homes and Charitable Institutions, City and County Officials, Board of Associated Charities, Board of Trade, Board of Control, Medical Societies, Bar Associations, Merchants' Associations, Public Service Corporations, Coal Companies, Financial Institutions, Brokers, Manufacturing Companies, Corporations of all classes and individuals who were the representative men of the locality.

These public meetings were given the widest publicity by the newspapers in the several localities, and were the subject of favorable editorial and news comment. We were cordially received in these several cities, and the interest of the people in our proceedings, and their knowledge and discussions of the subject considered, were remarkable and helpful.

As the State should not collect revenue in excess of its requirements and as there has been some criticism of appropriations to Hospitals, Homes and other Charitable Institutions not under State control (a total of $26,402,778.99, and for the years 1909-1910, $5,446,900), we have made inquiry, and are still investigating, as to the propriety of such appropriations and the methods of the disposition thereof. Much valuable information has been obtained which we believe will enable us to make recommendations to the Legislature which will be of benefit to the Commonwealth and to the institutions.

To the subject of the Revision of the corporation laws of the Commonwealth we have given much consideration. The Pennsylvania Bar Association and the County Bar Association and others believed to be specially qualified have been appealed to for cooperation, to the end that our present system of laws for the creation of corporations and their government may be improved. We have received many suggestions for amendments to present laws and for legislation covering subjects not heretofore included. These suggestions, like those affecting the State revenue, are many and varied, but we have deemed it unwise to attempt at this time to conclude our action thereon, believing that the importance of the subject justifies the use of all the time possible for their consideration, and we will, as soon as practicable, submit to you a report thereon.

We have concluded that in view of the magnitude of the subjects submitted to us a proper and comprehensive consideration thereof at this time would be not only impracticable, but, so far as to the attainment of beneficial results, impossible.

Before and at the time of the creation of this Committee there were pending in Congress several measures affecting both the subjects under consideration, notably the Act imposing an excise tax on corporations, joint stock companies, associations and insurance companies, which was approved August 5, 1909, and it was not until December 3, 1909, that the Secretary of the Treasury promulgated the regulations for the enforcement of that Act, and litigation thereunder is still pending.

This and other proposed Federal legislation and the discussion and litigation relating to the enforcement thereof have caused before and during the whole of the time of the existence of the Committee much unrest and anxiety among the corporations of this State, from which the largest part of the State revenues are derived. It is the consensus of opinion of those qualified to know, in which we concur, that it is for the best interest of the Commonwealth and for the general welfare of our people that there should be no haste in the filing of our conclusions until all possible investigation can be had. For these reasons and in view of the numerous recent requests for further hearings from associations and interests including nearly every business activity, we have deemed it wise to defer our findings and will present them to you at the earliest time practicable, in the meantime continuing our inquiry. We beg to direct your attention to the accompanying notes of testimony taken before us, and a summary thereof.

Respectfully submitted,

Chairman

Vice-Chairman and Secretary

Since the making of the report to the Governor your Committee has given further publicity to the hearings and to the subjects of their labors in general. All the newspapers and journals of the State have been requested to give such notice and have generally complied. In all to date upwards of 82,000 letters requesting suggestions and advice have been sent to persons and corporations throughout the United States.

The result has been the receipt of a great number of briefs, drafts of Acts, tables of statistics from public officials, pamphlets and the like.

Various tax reform associations have furnished your Committee with the results of their work and have requested co-operation. By direct communication with the officials of the several States your Committee has been furnished with State publications of corporations and taxes, and much information as to the practical experience in the operation of laws of other States has been obtained.

Since the report of July 1, your Committee has held public meetings in Philadelphia and taken a large amount of testimony from those voluntarily appearing before them, which is transmitted herewith, together with that previously taken and submitted to the Governor.

In all 177 persons spoke at these hearings, gave their opinions and suggestions, and were questioned by your Committee and Council. They included representatives from tax reform associations, business men's associations, boards of trade, the Pennsylvania State Grange, factories, financial institutions, public service corporations, hospitals and various public officials, county commissioners and controllers, judges, county treasurers and professional men, such as lawyers, doctors, real estate brokers and interested citizens in general. Many thousands appeared as spectators, but affected by the subjects under consideration. Many important suggestions were made. Your Committee gave the utmost latitude for discussion and suggestion both at the public hearings and by means of letters and arguments submitted to it in written form, and the public hearings were a great practical success.

Counsel for the Committee attended all the hearings and aided in questioning those who appeared, and in general consulted with your Committee in all the steps taken and conclusions arrived at.

At a meeting of the International Tax Association, held in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on September 2, 1910, Francis Shunk Brown, Esq., the Counsel of your Committee, attended as a delegate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by appointment of the Governor, and obtained valuable information.

CORPORATION LAWS.

While most of the information and argument addressed to your Committee was on the subject of the revenue laws of the State, yet a great deal of material was gathered on the subject of the corporation laws generally which was entrusted to them by the Resolution.

Aside from the Acts applying specially to all varities of corporations, and particularly to railroad, insurance and banking corporations, some of which are incorporated under statutes existing prior to 1873, corporations of the class known generally as business corporations are incorporated in our State under the Act of April 29, 1874, and its very numerous amendments and supplements, which amount to the number of fifty-seven. In addition there are over a hundred other Acts which apply to the same subject.

It is an undoubted fact that in the thirty-six years during which the law has been in existence, in consequence of these supplements and amendments, the law has unavoidably fallen into a state of contradiction and confusion on many points (particularly by reason of subsequent amendments ignoring those previously made), and is in some other points not in accord with the modern trend of legislation. Many matters have been suggested as to which these laws may be improved, and these have commended themselves to your Committee. But they do not feel that the situation is one which calls for a piece-meal revision. The laws are familiar and have been construed on most moot points, so that their operation upon everyday matters is well understood. It is not deemed advisable to recommend any radical changes until a complete revision of the whole body of the law can be presented as a corporation code or system, and such few matters as need to be cleared up or supplied can be deferred until that time. Such changes from the settled policy of the State as are deemed presently advisable can be better made in this way, and be better fitted to the body of the existing law.

A uniform business corporation law is now under consideration by the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. The first draft of such a law was made and printed in December, 1909, and presented for public discussion and your Committee has been much interested in its perusal. At the same time this is not the final draft of the law, some parts of it having since been further revised and furnished to your Committee; and a further revision is to follow. The Commissioners have themselves advised your Committee under date of October 21, 1910, to defer action in this regard. In view of the very general adoption of many of the laws recommended by this Conference, Pennsylvania having adopted the Negotiable Instruments law (1901, P. L., 194) and the Warehouse Receipts law (1909, P. L., 19), your Committee feel that before a general revision of the corporation law is undertaken, the proposed uniform business corporation law should have careful consideration.

Following the report of a special committee, the Pennsylvania Bar Association, at its meeting in 1910, adopted a resolution for the appointment of a committee to draft and present an Act to the next Legislature for the appointment of a commission to revise and unify the statutes of the State. The majority of the Bar Association Committee has determined that the task of going over the whole statute law is too much to be done in the first instance, and has ecommended that a definite branch of the law be considered by such a commission to report to the Legislature of 1913, and that the branch of the law to be taken up should include, among other things, private corporations, meaning by this to exclude public service corporations, insurance companies and the like.

If your committee is continued it will co-operate with that of the Bar Association in the consideration of this most important subject. This action of the committees of the Bar Association successively narrowing the field of proposed statutory revision is another evidence of the very large nature of the task, which has made it impracticable, if not impossible, for your Committee, with the means at its disposal, to do aught but lay some of the ground for future work.

Your Committee, therefore, does not submit any recommendations with respect to the laws in general governing the organization and conduct of corporations. If the duties of the Committee be continued, as hereinafter recommended, this and other subjects not presently ripe for legislation can be investigated and considered and reported upon to the Legislature of 1913.

FOREIGN CORPORATIONS.

There is one branch of this law, however, which has an intimate relation to State revenue, and has been the subject of much legislation in other States, with the course of which this State has not kept pace, to wit: the treatment of foreign corporations. The law relating to foreign corporations in Pennsylvania is incomplete, and in some particulars unwise. Your Committee, therefore, submits drafts of proposed Acts with regard thereto (See pages 16 and 36), together with notes attached to each Act explanatory of the provisions thereof.

The first of these Acts is a general foreign corporation law relating to the subject of the registration of foreign corporations in order to bring them within the reach of the process of our courts for the benefit of our citizens who deal with them, and within the reach of our taxing authorities. While the existing laws provide for registration, designation of office and the appointing of agents for the serving of process, many corporations fail to comply with the law. It is ineffective in not providing a means of reaching the corporation which ignores the law and defies the penalties. It is well known that there are a great many such corporations. This proposed Act (see page 16), therefore provides for a means for regulating foreign corporations by designating a State officer upon whom process may be served, if the corporation fails to make a designation. This has been the law with regard to foreign insurance companies for many years in this State and it is a very common provision elsewhere. Its validity has been sanctioned by the Supreme Court of the United States as stated in the foot note to the Act. The Act also makes the modes of procedure uniform for all classes of foreign corporations.

Existing penalties by way of fine and imprisonment for failure to register have been preserved except the penalty added to the law by judicial construction, which declares contracts made by unregistered foreign corporations to be void and permits no recovery at law upon them, however just the claims may otherwise be. This drastic ruling has not been effective to compel compliance with the law by the smaller and more irresponsible corporations, and has been productive of great injustice in permitting the escape of the payment of just debts in a way which produced no State revenue (for the defect could not be cured by registering and paying taxes), and put money in the pocket of those with a sufficiently small conscience to permit them to make the plea. This was recognized by the Legislature of 1907 (P. L. 205), which passed an Act validating such contracts therefore made, on registering and paying taxes and penalties. The Act as drafted and submitted by your Committee makes this the law for the future, and will produce greater revenue for the State and at the same time do justice between private litigants. If the Legislature does not amend the general foreign corporation law by enacting this bill, it is recommended that they alter the existing law in this regard in accordance with the policy previously announced by it, and to accomplish this a draft of Act is submitted herewith, modeled on the law of 1907. (See page 36).

Foreign corporations which comply with our laws are permitted to hold real estate in Pennsylvania by the proposed Act. There have been numerous Acts permitting certain classes of foreign corporations to hold real estate. These Acts have been carelessly amended, so that there is much existing confusion in the laws, the opinion being that some Acts have been impliedly but unintentionally repealed by failure to refer to them in amending Acts. If the Legislature is of opinion that foreign corporations in general be not permitted to hold real estate, it is recommended that supposedly existing laws on the subject should be put in one enactment in order that the law may be clear and for that purpose a draft of Act is herewith submitted. (See page 36).

Other matters touched on in the general Act relate especially to foreign corporations doing their principal business here. Their foreign birth is an accident and their internal affairs should be subject to the jurisdiction of our courts, and they should be forbidden the Federal Courts as far as possible.

Section 8. The non-compliance by a foreign corporation with the laws of this Commonwealth may only be taken advantage of with respect to real estate by the Commonwealth itself, (19) and before the same shall have come into the ownership of a purchaser for value in good faith. (20.)

Section 9. (21.)

Section 10. Section 12. If any foreign corporation which has its principal office for the doing of its business with the public within this Commonwealth shall, without the consent of record of the adverse parties, remove to a Federal Court any action pending against it in any Court of this Commonwealth, excepting in such cases as a corporation created under the laws of this Commonwealth may do so, or shall without such consent begin an action against a citizen of this Commonwealth in any Federal Court, or shall upon the request of the adverse party refuse to discontinue the same, such action on the part of the corporation shall forfeit its right to do any business in this Commonwealth, and it shall thereafter be deemed not to have complied with the laws of this Commonwealth. (24.) Such forfeiture shall be declared by proceedings in the nature of a writ of quo warranto on the suggestion of the Attorney General. (25.)

Section 13. The term "foreign corporation" as used in this Act shall be construed to mean all corporations, joint stock companies, partnerships limited, partnership associations and all associations having any of the powers or privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships, (26) organized under any laws other than those of this Commonwealth.

NOTES.

(1). This is taken from the first section of the Act of April 22nd, 1874, P. L. 108, but dropping the plural of the words "office" and "agent." The constitutional provision Article 16, Section 5, is "no foreign corporation shall do any business in this State without having one or more known places of business, and an authorized agent or agents in the same upon whom process may be served." The object of the constitution being to provide some one upon whom process may be served, one agent will do as well as several, especially since, under the service of process Act of July 9, 1901, P. L. 614, writs may be served outside of e county where issued. The decisions of Wall Paper Com-ny's Appeal, 15 Superior Ct. 407, and Phoenix Silk Manufac-ring Company vs. Reilly, 187 Pa. 526, holding that there ust be an agent in each office where business is transacted— e failure to do so making void contracts entered into at an fice where there is no such agent—while required by the word-g of the former Act impose unnecessary acts on the corpora-on. The registered agent is for service of process and not ransaction of business. As provided in the second section, ore than one agent may be designated, but not more than one gent and one office need be.

(2.) The requirement that the charter of the foreign corpora-on showing the extent of its powers shall be recorded at some ntral place where those doing business with it in the State ay have access to it in order to determine the extent of its owers, assimilates the foreign to domestic corporations. The llowing States have such a requirement: Alabama, Alaska, rizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maryland, Mas-achusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Mon-ana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, orth Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, outh Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Ver-ont, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wy-ming (42.)

Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Delaware, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, Virginia, West Vir-ginia, Wyoming (13) also require the charter to be recorded t the principal place of business. This assimilates the for-ign still more to domestic corporations, and is convenient.

(3.) This is stated in general language so as to cover special ases, especially corporations from foreign countries.

(4.) This is taken from Section 2 of the Act of 1874. The orporation is required, however, to state only its principal ffice, for the reasons heretofore given. The agents may be nore than one, so that the contingencies of death, removal, tc., may be provided against if the corporation desires.

The requirement that the certificate be preserved for public nspection in each office, contained in the Act of 1874, has been stricken out. This was useless, as the object was service of process and not transaction of business, and the decision was that the certificate might be kept in the safe and need not be displayed. McManus Contracting Co. vs. McFadden, 33 Super-ior Court, 355.

(6.) Under the authority of Lasher vs. Stimson, 145 Pa. 30, the agent of a non-registered foreign corporation is personally liable on the contracts made for it on the ground that he im-pliedly warrants his authority, and can have no authority where he is not officially registered as the agent. This has been limited to cases where the other party did not know he was dealing with a foreign corporation. Stoner vs. Phillipi, 41 Superior Court, 118. The distinction is difficult to draw from the reasoning given for the decision in Lasher vs. Stimson, and as the corporation cannot set up its own failure to register to avoid its contracts, Swan vs. Insurance Co., 96 Pa. 37, the principal is really liable. The real difficulty is to have service of process on the principal. Where service can be ob-tained however, the other party obtains an opportunity to sue the very person with whom he contracted, and a rule making the agent personally liable is a harsh one, giving the other party more than he bargained for. It is, however, the statutory rule in Utah; and in Idaho and Virginia the officers are liable with the agents on contracts made before registration.

But this liability should be preserved as to foreign insurance companies. The public does not deal with them on the same footing of equality, and the agent should be personally liable if he assumes to deal on behalf of an irresponsible foreign company which has not provided for our citizens the security required by our law.

(7.) This language will cover failure to register with the Auditor General and to pay bonus, to make annual reports and to pay taxes as well as failure to register under the present Act.

(8.) As the law aims at the doing of business within the State, both the making and the performing of contracts without being registered should be "doing business" and this wording makes it clear that both are included.

The law previously was that such contracts were void. This was not because of any express provisions in the Statute of 1874, although such provisions occur in other States, to-wit: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Michigan, Minnesota (if suit removed to Federal Court), Mississippi, North Dakota Oklahoma, South Dakota and Wisconsin. (11.) It was the result of judicial construction of the effect of making the viola-tion of the Statute a misdemeanor. Delaware River Quarry, etc. Co. vs. Bethlehem & Nazareth Pass. Ry. Co. 204 Pa. 22; Pittsburg Con. Co. vs. West Side Belt R. R. Co., 154 Fed. Rep. 929.

The same conclusion has been reached in other States. Boulden vs. Organ Co. 92 Ala. 182; American Ins. Co. vs. Stoy, 41 Mich. 385; Cary-Lombard Lumber Co. vs. Thomas, 92 Tenn. 587.

On the other hand certain States, (Connecticut, Maine, Mary-land and Massachusetts), expressly provided that the contract shall not be void; and other States, including so radical a State as Kansas, follow the doctrine that the penalty imposed by the statute is the only penalty for failure to register, and the courts will not add a further one.

(9.) The denial of the right of an unregistered foreign cor-poration to redress in the State Courts is very common. The following States deny it in actions founded on contract: Ar-kansas, California, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas and Vermont. (27.)

And the following in actions of tort: Arkansas, California, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, North Carolina, Okla-homa, Oregon, South Dakota, Tennessee and Texas. (18.) Some States, (among others Hawaii, Iowa and Utah), deny to such corporations the benefit of the laws, which would seem to deny access to the State Courts, although it has been decided to the contrary, Booth vs. Weigand, 30 Utah, 135. In New York, Oklahoma and Texas, among other States, the statute requires that the corporation be registered at the time the contract is made and a subsequent registration will not cure the defect. The law was formerly to the contrary. Neuchatel Asphalte Co. vs. N. Y. 155 N. Y. 373. The weakness of this provision is that it does not prevent a suit in the Federal Courts having juris-diction in the State, Blodgett vs. Lanyon Zinc Co., 120 Fed. 893. Or in other Courts of another State, Allegheny Co. vs. Allen, 69 N. J. L. 270: 196 U. S., 458. If the contract is void where made, however, no suit may be brought on it in another State, Allegheny Co. vs. Allen, supra. The effective provision is that given here, to declare the contract void so that it may not be enforced anywhere and to forbid access to our Courts for all causes of action.

(10.) The object of all these provisions, however, is to force the foreign corporations to comply with our laws, both for pur-poses of taxation and to bring it within the reach of the process of our Courts. Provisions such as have just been reviewed, of course, operate very powerfully to both ends. But if the foreign corporation had not complied at the time it made a contract, and there is no way of curing the lapse, there is no incentive to the corporation to pay its taxes, and the result is not to benefit the State, but to benefit the other party to the contract. He may take the fruits of it and not pay anything, and this re-sults often in a very unjust enrichment of him who may himself be an unregistered foreign corporation. How unjust this is will be seen by the cases cited above. In the Delaware River Quarry case a recovery of nearly $30,000 for work done by a construc-tion company was refused, and in the West Side Belt Railroad Company case a recovery of over $325,000 was denied upon a claim so far meritorious that is was based on an award of the Railroad Company's engineer acting as arbitrator. By the pro-visions of this proposed Act the failure of the foreign corpora-tion to provide an agent for the service of process is met by appointing the Secretary of the Commonwealth such agent. The best way to compel the payment of tax would be to impose severe penalties for failure to do so, but permit relief upon full compliance with our laws. This is the policy of the Stamp Acts enacted by Congress. Documents coming within their pro-visions which were not stamped when executed might be stamp-ed on paying a small penalty. This is also the policy of the Pennsylvania Act of May 23, 1907, P. L. 205, which validated contracts entered into by unregistered foreign corporations upon registering and paying tax before suit was brought. By its provisions, however, it was retroactive only. The policy it in-dicates should be made permanent.

Your Committee feels that a change of the law in this regard is especially important, and submits herewith a draft of a sep-arate Act (see page 36) to accomplish it, which should be en-acted if for any reason the general foreign corporation law under discussion should not be approved.

(11.) The necessity of this provision is evidenced by such cases as St. Clair vs. Cox, 106 U. S. 350; Goldey vs. Morning News, 150 U. S. 518; Mutual Life Insurance Co. vs. Spratley, 172 U. S. 602; Conley vs. Mathieson Alkali Works, 190 U. S. 406; holding that it is necessary to jurisdiction over a foreign corporation that it shall be doing business in the State at the time suit is brought. But the corporation may be sued with its assent though it is not doing business, and the validity of such a provision as in this proposed Act to secure such assent is de-termined by such cases as Hill vs. Empire State Etc., Company, 156 Fed. Rep. 797; Home Ben. Soc. vs. Muehl, 109 Ky. 479; Germania Ins. Co. vs. Ashby, 112 Ky. 303; Groel vs. United El. Co. 69 N. J. Eq. 397; Mutual Reserve etc., Assn, vs. Phelps, 190 U S. 147. It is practically the law at the present time with regard to insurance companies. Act of April 4, 1873, P. L. 27.

(12.) The Act of 1874 contains no provisions for a substitu-tion of an agent in case the one appointed be, for any reason, disqualified. The service of process Act of April 3, 1903, P. L. 139, permits service of process by leaving at the place of busi-ness if the agent is not there during business hours. It has been decided that if the registered agent leaves the employ of the corporation as its commercial agent, and is not found at the place of business, the corporation nevertheless maintains him as its registered agent and complies with the law so long as his authority as registered agent is not revoked. De La Vergne Refrigerator Co. vs. Kolischer, 214 Pa. 400. But the agent may die, or he may want to sue himself, and if no provision for com-pulsory substitution is made the object of the law will be de-feated.

(13.) So, also, if the corporation shall cease to maintain the office designated process cannot be served by leaving, or should not properly be so served.

(14.) Equally important is a provision by which corporations which never comply with our laws and yet do business with us may be subjected to the process of our Courts.

(15.) Accordingly it is provided automatically in such cases that a public official shall be the agent. A similar provision is found in a great many of the States.

In some the Secretary of the State is designated as agent for service of process if the designated agent die or remove only:— Alabama, Arkansas, Idaho, Michigan, New Jersey, New Mexico, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Vermont, Washington. (11.)

In others the Secretary of State is the agent, but the party may serve any other agent at his option. This is the present law of Pennsylvania with regard to insurance companies. Act of April 4, 1873, Sec. 13 P. L. 27. So in Arkansas, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Nebraska, Pennsylvania (ins.) and West Virginia. (7.)

In others the Secretary of State is the only agent for service of process on foreign corporations and no other agent may be served:—Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia (fraternal ins.) Kentucky (ins.) Minnesota (ins.) North Dakota and Wisconsin. (7.)

In others the Secretary of State is the agent if no appointment be made by the corporation:—Arkansas, California, Idaho, Louisiana, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon and Washington. (9.)

It seems wise to permit the corporation to designate its own agent so that notice may be more surely brought to it, but it is best to provide very fully for cases in which the corporation fails to comply with our law or to maintain its compliance.

The validity of the provision is attested by the case of Old Wayne Mutual Life Association vs. McDonough, 204 U. S. 8.

This sentence should be read in connection with Section 5 and would only authorize such service in suits growing out of business done within the State. Such service in other suits would be invalid, as the McDonough case decides The statute usually requires the corporation to file a power of attorney designating the State officer as its agent. Of that character is the Pennsylvania law as to insurance. It has been decided that on failure to file the power of attorney the State officer nevertheless becomes agent for service of process. McCullagh vs. Railway Mail Assn. 33 Pa. C. C. 529; Diamond Plate Glass Co. vs. Minn. M. F. I., 55 Fed. 27; Ehrman vs. Ins. Co., 1 M. F. Co. vs. Minn. M. F. I. Co., 55 Fed. 27; Ehrman vs. Ins. Co., 1 Fed. 471; Berry vs. Indemnity Co., 46 Fed., 439; Knapp vs. Natl. M. F. I. Co. 30 Fed. 607; Lathrop Co. vs. Interior Etc. Co., 150 Fed. 666. It seems simpler to make the designation of agent automatic.

It will be convenient at times to serve the Deputy, which must, however, be specially authorized. Reynolds vs. Heptasophs, 9 Dist. Rep. 622; McCann vs. Wayne Etc. Co. 10 Dist. Rep. 560.

(16.) The necessity of designating some known person as agent is that there may be somebody within the State upon whom the process of the Courts can be served. Such process does not run beyond the borders of the State, and the Courts have no jurisdiction upon such service. While this satisfies the technical requirement of the law, it is really a fiction, and justice is better served by actual notice outside of the State than by constructive notice in it. Therefore, to do justice and bring actual notice to the corporation, service is required also to be made outside of the State. The usual provision of the State Statutes is that the Secretary of State or State Auditor or Clerk of Court shall mail a copy of the process to the office of the corporation. These States are Alabama, Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, (ins.) Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, (ins.) Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, West Virginia and Wisconsin. (17.)

Michigan requires the plaintiff himself to give mail notice. Other States require nothing to be done after serving the State officials. Mailing of notice, however, is not as accurate as actual service, and most of the statutes fail to provide for a case in which the location of the company's office is not known to the State official, and a still more difficult case where the company may have no office. It seems better to provide, as Maryland does, that there shall be actual service, and that this may be made as though the corporation was in the State, so that service may be made on an officer of the company or at the company's office as shall be most convenient.

(17.) Sufficient time should be allowed after this actual notice for the corporation to interpose a defense if it has any. The object is not to catch the foreign corporation napping(but to bring it within the jurisdiction of our Courts. Michigan and Mississippi require thirty days' notice, and Oregon forty days.

(18.) If we permit foreign corporations freely to do business in this State, we should permit them to own the necessary real estate and not drive them to subterfuges such as domestic holding companies and trusteeships. The Act of April 26, 1855, P. L. 329, forbade foreign corporations to hold real estate and provide for its escheat to the State. This disability, however, can be taken advantage of by the State only, taking proceedings to escheat; Leazure vs. Hillegas, 7 S. & R. 313, and in practice such proceedings are not taken by the Commonwealth. The only reported instance is Commonwealth vs. New York, Lake Erie and Western R. R. Co., 132 Pa. 591, overrulling the same case 114, Pa. 340, which failed. Exceptions have been created until in practice they are nearly as important as the principal law. Foreign corporations may purchase at judicial sales to protect liens, Act of May 23, 1887, P. L. 176. Special classes of foreign corporations have been permitted to hold real estate; Insurance companies, Act of June 1, 1881, P. L. 38; river transportation companies, Act of May 25, 1887, P. L. 35; ferry and bridge companies, Act of May 25, 1887, P. L. 269; corporations for manufacturing iron, steel, paper, wood-pulp, chemical fibre, glass, lumber, wood, cotton, velvet or other fabrics, for the dyeing, etc., of cotton and other fabrics, for the manufacture of certain chemicals, wood extracts, tanning extracts, for the manufacture of wall paper, etc., brick, etc., Act of April 27, 1909, P. L. 173, which is the final amendment of a long series of Acts of 1881, 1885, 1887, 1891 and 1893, for the quarrying of slate, granite and other rocks, the bottling of mineral spring water, the manufacture of ice, the manufacture of chemicals, foodstuffs and cement, Act of May 28, 1907, P. L. 266, which was a final amendment of a series of Acts enacted in 1881, 1893 and 1901; religious publication societies, Act of June 24, 1895, P. L. 238.

The provisions of these Acts have all been collected in one statute of which a draft is presented herewith. Owing to confusion in the various enactments as explained in a note to that draft it may be desirable to re-enact these statutes in case the provision now suggested is not approved.

The Legislature has also, by the Act of June 24, 1895, P. L. 264, validated all conveyances made by such foreign corporations before proceedings are begun by the State. This Act applies to future as well as past cases, and therefore makes unnecessary the very numerous retroactive validating Acts which have been passed by the Legislatures of 1861 1869, 1876, 1878 1881, 1887, 1891, 1897, 1903, 1907 and 1909.

The laws of the following States permit foreign corporations complying with the laws to hold real estate:—Arizona, Arkansas, Connecticut, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, (qualified) Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, (railroad and mfg. and in cities) Nevada, New Mexico, New Hompshire (mfg.) New Jersey, New Yerk, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, (less than 500 acres) South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, (Mfg. lim.) Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, (less than 320 acres). (30.)

Besides Pennsylvania only Nebraska makes prohibition the rule and permission the exception, and there the exception is a large one applying to railroad and all manufacturing corporations and the holding of real estate in towns. It is evidently aimed at farm land companies. Georgia fixed a maximum of 5,000 acres. The Act of Congress in force in the District of Columbia and in the former territories of New Mexico and Oklahoma forbids the holding of real estate by corporations where more than 20 per cent. of the stock is owned by aliens. This is also a statutory provision in Wisconsin.

The limit fixed in this Act is that imposed upon domestic corporations of the same kind.

(19.) This is the present law Leazure vs. Hillegas, 7 S. & R., 313. It seems wise to make the provisions in order that a contrary construction may not prevail.

(20.) This continues the policy of the present Act of June 24th, 1895, P. L. 264, which, however, is not expressly repealed.

(21.) If this is to be the policy of the State for the future, it should also be for the past, and it is in line with the numerous validating Acts already referred to.

(22.) The present rule is that the burden is on the foreign corporation to show that it has complied with the law, and is lawfully doing business in the Commonwealth, in all cases. As such proof in most cases will be a formal matter it tends to expedition and the avoidance of technicality, that a special issue should be made of failure to comply, and it is in harmony with the Act of June 24, 1885, P. L. 149, requiring an issue as to the existence of a corporation to be especially tendered.

But the burden of proof should be on the person having the affirmative of the issue.

(23.) Under the rule of Madden vs. Electric Light Co., 181 Pa. 617, and 199 Pa. 454; McClosky vs. Snowden, 212 Pa. 249, the Courts of one State will not hear causes involving the internal management of corporations of another State. This is because it involves dealing with the yaws of another State, because the decree would only take effect in this State and there would exist the anomaly of one result in one State where the corporation operated and another result in another State, and also because the enforcement of the decree would be difficult. This applies to corporate elections, the compelling transfer of stock by mandamus, improper conduct of officers, and kindred matters. But where a corporation is merely incorporated abroad, and comes into this State to do its principal business, so that its officers and stockholders and books are all here, convenience and justice to our citizens would lead us to grant relief in our courts, and not drive a citizen to what is but the nominal home of the corporation which may be on the other side of the Continent. The practical difficulties are not insuperable, and if in a particular case they become so, the Act, by its express provisions, will not apply.

(24.) Provisions are found in the statutes of many States to keep foreign corporations out of the Federal Courts. These States are Alabama, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina and Wisconsin. (8.)

A State statute cannot oust the Federal Court from jurisdiction of a particular case nor can it make the exercise of this right a penal offense. Insurance Co. vs. Morse, 20 Wallace, 445. But as the State may exclude foreign corporations at will, it may exclude them for invalid reasons, and a statute revoking the corporation's license to do business because it exercised its right of removal is valid. Doyle vs. Continental Ins. Co., 94 U. S. 535; Security Mutual Etc. Co. vs. Prewitt, 202 U. S. 246. Following the policy of permitting bona fide foreign corporations full privileges under our laws, but encouraging corporations that really intend to do business here to incorporate under our laws rather than the laws of other States, the restriction is only imposed on the latter class of corporations.

(25.) While other statutes do not require proceedings in Court it seems fairer to do this and notice and hearing is then provided for.

(26.) This definition so far as applies to the word "corporation" is in part taken from the Constitution of Pennsylvania, Article 16, Section 13, with the addition of some words to refer to particular classes of quasi corporations.

Complaint was made to your Committee of the difficulty of determining whom to sue in the case of certain foreign partnerships operating under a system of quasi incorporation unknown to our laws. Certain express companies are of this character. These, however, are such special cases that it is difficult to provide for them by any more general words than are here used.

(27). The retroactive feature of this Act may be valid under the decision of St. Mary's Petroleum Co. vs. W. Va., 203 U. S. 183, in consequence of the reserved power of the State to alter charters. Uniformity is so desirable that the attempt should be made to apply this Act to all.

(28). This section is so worded that Acts applying to service of process on foreign insurance companies, such as the Act of April 4, 1873, P. L. 27, foreign mutual benefit societies and other kindred special laws shall be superseded, and the same procedure applied to all foreign corporations. This is advisable unless there is a reason for special procedure with regard to a particular class of corporations, and this is not the case as to the matters covered by this Act.

(29). The repealing clause is also made special. There ave been omitted, however, the various Acts validating conveyances of real estate made by foreign corporations which were forbidden to hold real estate. While the subject matter of these Acts is covered by the present Act, yet as they are monuments of title, it will be less disturbing to have them remain on the statute books.

(30). The subject of the domestication of foreign corporations as covered by the Act of June 9, 1881, P. L. 89, has not been covered in this Act, because it is so intimately connected with what should be required of domestic corporations that it seems inadvisable to recast the law at all until the subject of domestic corporations is covered. The object should be to make the foreign corporation comply with the same provisions as a domestic corporation.

The policy of requiring foreign corporations to give bail on appeal and security for costs has not been altered, as the protection of our citizens requires it. The same consideration applies to foreign attachment, in addition to the tendency to discourage thereby the practice of going abroad to incorporate.

Some States require an investigation of the financial standing of foreign corporations by the officer receiving the registration and the refusal of registry to those which are irresponsible and suggestions were made to your Committee that it be adopted by Pennsylvania. This is impracticable in a State so large as ours. It might lead to abuses, and seems premature until we so supervise our own corporations. For purposes of taxation reports of considerable fullness as to their assets, etc., are now made.

An Act validating under certain conditions contracts made by foreign corporations which shall have done or shall do any business within this Commonwealth without first having complied with the laws relating to foreign corporations.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That whenever any foreign corporation shall have done or shall do any business within this Commonwealth, without first having complied with the laws of this Commonwealth relating to foreign corporations, all contracts entered into in the course of such doing of business shall be binding upon the parties thereto, and such corporation may enforce the same in the courts of this Commonwealth or any other court having jurisdiction: Provided, that prior to commencing a suit upon such contract, the said corporation shall have complied with the laws of this Commonwealth relating to foreign corporations: and, Provided further, that prior to commencing such suit accounts for bonus on capital stock and all State taxes for each year that it shall have done business in this Commonwealth shall have been settled against such corporation in the manner required by law, and paid by it, together with such interest and penalties thereon as shall be shown by such accounts.

NOTE.

This Act makes permanent the policy of the State indicated by the Act of May 23, 1907, P. L. 205, which was retroactive only; and also the Act of May 11, 1901, P. L. 172. It applies to a failure to register with the Auditor General as well as the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the principle applicable being the same. The considerations in its favor are given in connection with a similar section in the general foreign corporation law recommended by your Committee (Section 4). The passage of this Act, in addition to the general Act, is necessary in order to provide for cases arising under the laws now in existence.

An Act authorizing foreign corporations, that is to say, corporations, joint stock companies, partnerships limited, partnership associations and all associations having any of the powers or privileges of corporations not possessed by individuals or partnerships, organized under any laws other than those of this Commonwealth, for certain purposes, to own real estate in this Commonwealth necessary for their corporate purposes under certain conditions, and validating such ownership now or heretofore existing.

Sect. 1. Be it enacted, etc., that it shall be lawful for any foreign corporation organized for any one of the purposes set forth in Section 2 of this Act, upon complying with all the laws of this Commonwealth, to take, have and hold real estate in this Commonwealth to an amount necessary and proper for corporate purposes, and to erect and maintain buildings thereon, and to mortgage, lease or convey the same or any part thereof and otherwise deal with the same as fully as any corporation organized under the general laws of this Commonwealth for the same purpose, but not to any greater amount or of any greater income or value.

Sect. 2. REVENUE LAWS.

The conclusions of your committee on this subject, as with reference to the corporation laws, are not at present of a character sufficient to make any extensive alteration in the present system. They are merely supplementary, extending it along the same principal lines as before in order to correct abuses, provide more revenue and equalize burdens. Striking changes, which may yet be necessary in the way of administration, require more mature deliberation than there has been time to give, and more information and data than are at present available.

Careful thought has been given, however, to many details in connection with

(A) The objects upon which State revenue is expended;

(B) The increase of State revenue;

(C) The change of the burden of taxation; and

(D) The more effectual collection of the revenue intended to be provided by existing laws.

(A) EXPENDITURES.

APPROPRIATIONS TO CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

Large amounts of money have been appropriated, as is well known for charitable institutions not controlled by the State. Auditors, sent by the State, see that the money is expended for the purposes for which it is appropriated, but there is no supervision of policy or management otherwise. Nor could there be—either the Trustees or the State must manage.

Pennsylvania has been a pioneer in this regard, and even now leads all States. Beginning in 1850, with $65,767.85 given to four institutions, in 1863 there was an appropriation of $146.800 to sixteen institutions. The amount has increased gradually to $421,008.50 to eleven institutions in 1873, to $1,228,276.20 to thirty-five institutions in 1887 (this of course, covering two years), to $3,024,025 to one hundred and forty-two institutions in 1901 (for two years), and to $5,446,900 to two hundred and forty institutions in 1909 (for two years). Since 1850 the total appropriation to homes and hospitals has been $26,402,778.99. The following table has been prepared by the State Board of Charities:

The total appropriation of Massachusetts in 1908 for charitable institutions and charitable work was $2,300,000. Other States making similar appropriations are Delaware, Illinois, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Mexico, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Washington and Wisconsin.

New York appropriates no money to private charities. In 1909 it appropriated to State institutions $3,225,000, and to what are classified in Pennsylvania as semi-State institutions (blind and deaf and dumb institutions) $775,000. In the same class with New York are Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming.

A brief outline of the general character of these institutions, which are in whole or in part supported by the State, and the sources from which they receive support may throw some light upon this inquiry.

As to the insane, there are six State hospitals, located at Harrisburg, Danville, Norristown, Warren, Dixmont and Wernersville.

These institutions contain 8,749 indigent patients. Except Dixmont, they are the property of the State, and receive patients from the districts in which they are located, except Wernersville, the Hospital for the Chronic Insane, which receives them from every part of the State. The cost of maintenance is divided. The county and poor districts from which an indigent patient is sent, pay to the institution, for each patient, $1.75 per week. The rest of the cost of maintenance and buildings is paid by the State. The entire cost of maintaining the insane in Pennsylvania is, approximately, $4,000,000 per year.

The other institutions of the State containing the indigent insane are what is known as County Care Institutions, and are in the following counties and cities:

Adams County Insane Hospital, Gettysburg.

Allegheny County Hospital, Woodville.

Pittsburg North Side City Home and Hospital, Hoboken.

Pittsburg City Home and Hospital, Marshalsea.

Blair County Hospital for the Insane, Hollidaysburg.

Chester County Hospital for the Insane, Embreeville.

Cumberland County Hospital for the Insane, Carlisle.

Elk County Asylum, St. Marys.

Erie County Home, Erie.

Franklin County Home, Chambersburg.

Jefferson County Asylum, Brookville.

Hospital for the Insane, Central Poor District, Retreat.

Lancaster County Hospital for the Insane, Lancaster.

Hospital for the Insane, Hillside Home, Clark's Summit.

Mercer County Hospital for the Insane, Mercer.

Philadelphia Hospital, Insane Department, Philadelphia.

Potter County Home, Coudersport.

Somerset County Hospital for Insane, Somerset.

Westmoreland County Home, Insane Department, Greensburg.

Blakeley Home, Lackawanna County, Olyphant.

These institutions are built by and are owned by the respective counties and cities in which they are located. They are maintained by the counties, the State contributing to the county, for each patient, the sum of $2.00 per week. The number in these institutions is 6,288, making the entire indigent population over 15,000.

All the State institutions are crowded, and Blockley, in the City of Philadelphia, is so over-crowded that it is filled to almost double its intended capacity.

Two new State hospitals for the insane are in course of erection; one for the criminal insane, at Farview, Wayne County, just fairly started, and one at or near Allentown, called the Homœopathic Hospital, which is approaching completion. By the time they are ready to receive patients, there will be enough surplus in the other State hospitals to fill every ward, and unless the Legislature, at the coming session makes provision for the erection of a new hospital or added wards to those in existence, there will not be, in a short time, sufficient hospital accommodations to care for the normal increase, which is about 600 a year. It is thus apparent that every session of the Legislature must provide for the care of at least 1,200 patients additional, either by building a new hospital or by adding wards to those already built.

The only possible alternative to this is the building of hospitals by the counties, under the County Care Act.

From present appearances, it does not look probable that many more counties will avail themselves of this Act. Two districts, Schuykill County and the Middle Coal Field Poor District, composed of parts of Carbon and Luzerne counties, have recently started proceedings looking to the erection of hospitals, and have submitted plans.

As to the weak-minded, there are three institutions devoted to their care, to wit: Elwyn, Polk and Spring City. The first named is not a State institution. It receives by appropriation a certain amount per capita for 750 patients. Polk has 1,543 patients and is a State institution. Spring City is a dual institution, for the weak-minded and epileptic. This institution is only partly finished, and contains 270 weak-minded and 87 epileptics.

Hospitals for the deaf, dumb and blind, as well as the oral schools for the deaf mutes, are not State institutions, nor under State control, though they are almost wholly maintained by the State by a per capita appropriation.

The only place for epileptics maintained by the State is Spring City, and two private institutions, one in the eastern part of the State, near West Chester, and the other in the western part of the State, and both receive State aid.

As to hospitals for the care of the sick and injured, these consist of institutions wholly supported by the State, viz: at Mercer, Blossburg, Hazleton, Phillipsburg, Scranton, Ashland and Connellsville.

The inmates number over 12,000, and the cost of their maintenance during the past year was $217,636.06.

The private hospitals receiving State aid number 142. Their total cost for maintenance last year was approximately $4,938,577.11. The number of indoor patients 70,394, and the aggregate number of free hospital days 1,394,982, the free dispensary service amounting to 689,023. The aid given to these institutions by the State for maintenance amounted to $3,768,500; for building, $651,500, approximately. A table giving this information in greater detail will be found eleswhere (see pages 69, 79).

There are also homes and kindred institutions. They are all private. Those that receive State aid are 97 in number.

The pauper class is cared for by the poor district—and always has been in this State.

The insane were formerly cared for in the poor districts with the other poor. The burden was then borne entirely by the county, city or poor district. After a while the State began to shoulder part of the burden by building and equipping the present State hospitals for the insane, heretofore referred to. They care for all indigent patients sent to them, charging the poor district $1.75 per week for each patient. Probably nearly 10,000 are cared for in this way. The other 5,000 or 6,000 are cared for in certain cities and counties which have erected hospitals for that purpose, the State contributing $2.00 a week for each patient's maintenance. There are a few in the poor houses— probably between 200 and 300—maintained entirely by the poor authorities. Counting buildings and maintenance, probably more than three-fourths of the cost of maintaining is borne by the State.

All of the weak-minded, who are in institutions, are supported by the State, as are epileptics, save a few in two small institutions, which receive State aid.

The cost of maintaining the criminals, like that of the poor, was formerly borne entirely by the county; but the State took upon itself a part of the burden by erecting what is known as the Eastern and Western Penitentiaries, to which certain classes of criminals may be sent, the counties from which they are sent paying the cost of maintenance, the State being at the cost of the buildings and their maintenance, and the officers and attendants. The State always pays the salaries of the Judges.

The indigent inmates of the blind, deaf and dumb institutions, and schools for oral teaching of mutes, are maintained substantially by the State. So are the inmates of the House of Refuge and Morganza—incorrigible boys and girls.

Hospitals for the sick and injured, and homes for the dependent and kindred institutions, except seven hospitals heretofore referred to, are supported in part by the State.

It will be thus be seen that while formerly none, or but very few of the dependent, defective, or criminal classes were supported by the State, she now supports wholly or in part all except the poor in almshouses and certain hospitals and homes supported by private charity. The appropriation for all charities, including those above named for the years 1909 and 1910, was $14,770,737 (see page 55).

In the public press and before medical societies there has been much talk of a general but very abusive character about the mismanagement of many of the privately managed institutions receiving State aid, particularly that they were managed in the interest of the private practice of the principal physicians and surgeons connected with them, both by way of self-advertisement and the treatment of private patients. In spite of the very full opportunity given to all persons to present their complaints specifically to your Committee either in person or by letter, no actual cases of abuse were revealed. The charges remain only general as before, and your Committee believes it is a possibility to be guarded against rather than a fact to be deplored and condemned.

Complaint was made that the existence of hospitals prevented any surgical practice by those not attached to any hospital because unattached surgeons were not permitted to perform operations in the hospitals. It was urged that it should be made a condition of State aid that they permit outside surgeons to come in. In view of the delicate nature of a surgical operation and the highly trained staff which is necessary during all stages of the case, it would not be possible to maintain the absolutely necessary discipline if an outsider attempted to fit himself to the system. With the best will in the world on both sides he would be so unfamiliar with the methods in use that there could not but be confusion. In a limited number of proper cases, however, your Committee is informed that the hospitals permit outside surgeons to come in, and a liberal rule in this regard should prevail.

It is a very generally held opinion—although in this instance also no specifications were made—that the number of institutions is too large, and that their number and location should be controlled in some way by the Board of Public Charities or other similar body. The objection to this is that it would operate as an unnecessary restriction upon private charity in the founding of new institutions, and the remedy for any supposed abuse in the way of starting unnecessary institutions with the expectation and demand that they shall be kept up by State aid is in the self-restraint of the Legislature in withholding appropriations from superfluous institutions, or, as is herein recommended, appropriating only for actual public work done.

Of the unwise appropriations of the past, however, specific instances were given as follows: That appropriations were made to hospitals before they were incorporated, or before a site was provided, without any provision by the hospital for maintenance, or before the hospital was open for patients, or before any considerable sum had been secured as an endowment from private sources. Cases were mentioned of appropriations to some institutions which were controlled by stockholders, though the declaring of a dividend was forbidden.

Many complaints have been received for a number of years on the policy of our State in this regard, not only from institutions that do not receive it, but from the public at large.

The objection is that the State money should only go in relief of the sick or the disabled poor, and that, as there is no rule by which the money is apportioned among the institutions, it may or may not be so used. A request is made by the institution. On this a recommendation is made by the Board of Public Charities, which, while giving the matter careful attention, has no fixed rule. On this the Legislature acts, changing in many instances the amount recommended by the Board of Public Charities, so that the recommendations of the latter have no practical utility. Here again there is no rule. At the end of the session the bounty of the Legislature having greatly exceeded the amount at its disposal, the Governor is called upon to cut all the appropriations to fit the Treasury. The result of these three operations, all proceeding without rule, without the opportunity for hearing in many cases, and without the balancing of conflicting claims, results in the disproportion evidenced by the figures already given. The relation between requests of the hospitals, the recommendations of the Board of Public Charities, the appropriations by the Legislature, and the final amounts approved by the Governor is shown by the following table:

There is no doubt in the vast majority of instances that much public good has been done by the appropriations to privately managed charities. But there is no guarantee, and no way of guaranteeing that the money expended will go wholly to the benefit of needy persons who should legitimately be the object of State relief. Particularly is this so where money is appropriated for purposes of permanent construction and not for maintenance.

Since 1901 for building and betterment appropriations have been made amounting to $115,000 to the Free Hospital for Poor Consumptives at White Haven. This institution now refuses State aid for maintenance, and in consequence claims the right to, and does, refuse to receive free patients. Such a situation should be rendered impossible.

It is asserted that many institutions come into existence depending on State aid for the maintenance of that existence, and that this results in an unnecessary multiplication of institutions where one would serve, and the consequent idleness of part of their equipment. At times 3,000 hospital beds are vacant. Your Committee recommend that such appropriations be made only for maintenance, and that the sums should be apportioned to the free public aid given by the institution. In those rare cases where an appropriation for construction would be proper (as to supply a community needing and having no hospital and no other means of securing one) the grant of the State should be a lien on the ground and buildings so that if the institution cease to be privately maintained as theretofore, it might revert to the State, and be continued by it. The first precedent may be found in the grant to the Orthopedic Hospital of Philadelphia in 1871, and other precedents in many of the appropriation Acts of 1909, if not in other years. A draft of an Act to that end is submitted as follows:

An Act making appropriations to institutions not wholly managed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, leins on the premises of such institutions for the use of the Commonwealth, and providing for the collection thereof.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That any and all amounts hereafter appropriated by the Legislature of this Commonwealth for the erection, enlargement or alteration of any building or buildings, or for any other permanent improvement in connection with any institution not wholly managed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, be, and the same are hereby made a non-interest bearing lien on the premises of the institution for which the appropriation is made.

Section 2. Within sixty days from the date of such appropriation the Auditor General is hereby authorized and required to transmit to the Prothonotary of the county in which such institution is located, to be by him entered of record, a certificate to the effect that the appropriation for which a lien is created by the first section of this Act, has been made to such institution. The amount of such appropriation shall be a lien from the date said certificate is so entered of record, and whenever the property of such institution shall be sold at a judicial sale the amount of such lien shall first be allowed and paid out of the proceeds of such sale before any judgment, mortgage or other claim which shall be entered of record or become a lien after the entry of record of said certificate.

Section 3. In all cases where any such institution shall cease to be used or fail to carry out the purpose for which it was organized, it shall be lawful for writs of scire facias in favor of the Commonwealth to issue on said liens and be prosecuted to judgment and execution in the same manner as such writs are ordinarily returnable.

In general, however, no appropriation should be made to any institution until it owns its site and its buildings are erected and equipped ready to begin business. Such an institution can properly be made an instrument of the Commonwealth for the help of the poor and a benefit to the State. This method will operate as a check upon unnecessary institutions more than any supervision by the Board of Public Charities in advance as a prerequisite to the granting of a charter.

There has been prepared by the Board of Public Charities for your Committee a table which shows as to most of the hospitals of the State (only those which did not make report being omitted) of free hospital days; that is to say, the total number of days that one free patient was treated by the hospital, and also the cost of each day of such treatment, the total cost of the free days, the State appropriation and the excess or deficiency of appropriation proportioned to the cost of free treatment and other valuable information.

NOTE.—Hospitals not shown herein failed to submit statistics.

The results shown by this table vary considerably. In the great majority of cases the cost exceeded the appropriation, the total cost of free days being $2,718,374.45 and the appropriations (to these hospitals) being $1,527,875. Only 21 hospitals received from the State more money than they expended in free treatment. As to some of these the excess was considerable in proportion to the amount of money appropriated. On the other hand, the excess of money spent in free treatment over appropriations varies greatly with the hospital. The Howard Hospital of Philadelphia, spent $83,388 in free treatment, and received only $5,000 from the State. The University of Pennsylvania Hospital spent $134,278.92, and received only $62,500. But as to thirteen hospitals the difference was less than $1,000. The table also shows an extremely varying unit of cost, running from $3.39 at the American Oncologic Hospital, Philadelphia, $3.70 at the DuBois Hospital, and $3.42 at the Packer Hospital at Sayre, to 63 cents at the Children's Hospital, Philadelphia, 95 cents at St. Francis Hospital, Pittsburg, and the like. This is the result of the higher cost of treating special diseases like cancer, and the greater cost of supplies in small hospitals in remote districts, as well as difference in equipment.

In estimating the cost of free hospital days an element must fairly be reckoned upon which does not appear in the reports to the Board of Public Charities. This is the expense of free dispensary work which in some hospitals is very much larger than the cost of treating patients in wards, which alone is taken in arriving at the cost of "free hospital days." For instance, it appears from the table (page 63), that the appropriation to the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital of Philadelphia, for the year ending May 31, 1909, was $30,239.10 in excess of the free hospital days. But this does not give a true idea of the charitable work of the hospital, as the partially free in-patients, accident, dispensary, electrical and X-ray patients are not included in this total. The total amount expended for charitable patients for the twelve months ending May 31, 1909, is $68,354.98. The Mount Sinai Hospital in Philadelphia, for example, for the year ending May 31, 1909, paid for free hospital days $24,823.26 and received a State appropriation of $10,000. It has only 34 beds, but its dispensary work extended to 51,474 patients. Methods of reckoning the cost of this work could be best determined by conference between the institutions involved and the Board of Public Charities, or the Department of State Charitable Institutions herein recommended (see page 99).

But even as to free hospital days, so called, the method of arriving at the cost varies with the bookkeeping methods of the institution. Owing to the inter-relation of expenses it is impossible to get an exact figure. Some institutions divide the total cost of maintenance by the number of hospital days, both pay and free, and get at the cost of free hospital days by multiplying the quotient by the number of free days. It is obvious that as the cost of pay patients is much greater than that of free patients the result considerably overstates the cost of free hospital days. Other institutions, notably the Jefferson Medical College Hospital, state separately the total cost of maintaining free hospital days by employing an arbitrary percentage method based, of course, upon general experience, but containing nevertheless an unascertainable element of error. This method recognizes that pay patients cost more than free patients. The remedy is in a uniform method of accounting, which can best be devised by the Board of Public Charities or proposed Department of State Charitable Institutions in conference with the institutions interested. The combined experience of all may give a percentage which will determine with fair accuracy the cost of free patients.

The State aid, therefore, to each private charitable institution should be in the form of a fixed sum for each day a free patient is treated therein, the sum to be specially determined for each institution according to its experience of cost in the past. The wide variation in the unit of cost above noted would prevent the use of an average unit, which would produce an even greater inequality than now exists. This sum also can best be fixed for each one by the State Department which shall have the supervision of charities in consultation with the institution (a similar work to that of which the result is given in the table already mentioned), and your Committee recommends that an application be required to be made to such Department for this purpose, and proper consideration and treatment thereof can then be had. As it is not possible to determine in advance how many free patients will be treated during the next two appropriation years, the sum should be calculated on the basis of the amount expended for the last two years. It will then operate as a reimbursement to the institution for money expended and this is in line with the present policy of all such appropriations, the law requiring that the money be spent and vouchers furnished before the State relief is given. The method is already provided by the Auditors of the State for checking the application of the money, and this work can be continued by the Department proposed. In order not to unduly increase appropriations to charity, only part of such cost should be assumed by the State, and your Committee recommends that State aid be confined to two-thirds of the sum so expended. Two-thirds of the cost of free hospital days in the hospitals reported to the Board of Public Charities is $1,812,249.62, and this exceeds the amount appropriated to those hospitals by only $284,374.62. It is the expectation of your Committee that the additional revenue necessary to make up this sum (to which must be added the additional sum which will go to the few hospitals not reporting) will be at hand.

As above shown the State bears part of the cost of maintaining the poor insane in local insane hospitals, as well as in State institutions. No State aid is extended to the sick poor in the institutions maintained by local public authorities.

Your Committee recommends that State aid should also be extended to these in the same way, that is, in proportion to free hospital days. Data are not available for determining the cost of this or the extent to which it would be possible with the existing revenue, but the principle is worthy of the earnest consideration of the Legislature.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

It was the opinion of some expressed to your Committee that State charity could be better distributed through the means of State institutions than through aiding private charities. The practice of the States noted elsewhere in this report (page 48) shows that the Pennsylvania system in the extent to which it has gone, is the exception rather than the rule. Your Committee is of the opinion that there should be no radical change of our policy in this regard, and that the present system is the most efficient in the country.

Notwithstanding the failure of other States to follow to any extent along the lines of Pennsylvania, her system is, nevertheless, winning favor and has the approval of students of the subject. We may expect to see the system spread rather than to have it universally disapproved. The extent of the relief afforded may be seen from the table above (pages 46, 59). This immense amount of relief is of unquestioned advantage to the State. It is largely in aid of those to whom help in sickness is otherwise impossible. To withdraw it suddenly would be inhuman, and the State and county institutions are not equipped to either render the assistance or to bear the burden. If any change is to be made it should be by way of a very gradual reduction of the relief, say by reducing the proportion of the cost of free hospital days to which the State should contribute. Sudden readjustments of the ways in which the State money is expended are even more harmful than the sudden readjustment of the burden of raising it.

Yet there is no question that State institutions are necessary and that the first call upon the State Treasury for this purpose should be by those institutions which the State has undertaken, and which are dragging on unfinished and of no use. There are now four such in a partially finished state. The money which has been put into them has been idle, so far as actual help to anyone is concerned, from the date of the Acts creating them. These are the Eastern Pennsylvania State Institution for the Feeble Minded and Epileptic, State Hospital for the Criminal Insane, State Hospital for Injured Persons of the Trevorton, Shamokin and Mount Carmel Coal Fields, and the Homeopathic State Hospital for the Insane near Allentown. Of these the first (which is located at Spring City) has nearly 400 inmates, all males, and there is no provision for females, for which there is great need. This is only a small part of the accommodations intended to be afforded. The Rittersville Hospital is nearing completion. It was authorized in 1901, and construction was commenced in 1904. The Commission has been insistent in their requests for money to complete, but it was diverted to other uses. In at least one case the appropriations for the construction of the Allentown Hospital asked for by the Commission for erecting it to enable it to complete it, and approved by the Legislature, have from the beginning been reduced by the Governor because, as stated in his veto reductions, there was not sufficient State revenue and this reduction was made though he had advocated in his message to the Legislature the completion of the institution, and recognizing the pressing need for the proper care of the insane, whilst at the same time there were approved large appropriations to institutions not under State control.

The Trevorton Hospital was given $60,000 by the Legislature of 1907, but only $30,000 was approved by the Governor. The Legislature of 1909 gave $75,000 for construction and $50,000 for maintenance and the Governor approved this for only $25,000 each. The work has therefore stopped for lack of funds. The Fairview Hospital was given $250,000 by the Legislature of 1909, and the Governor approved of only $100,000.

Your Committee earnestly urge upon the Legislature that sufficient moneys be appropriated at this session of the Legislature to at once complete these buildings and that this demand in its entirety be a preferred claim upon such part of the State revenue as should be devoted to charity. The appropriations at each session should be enough to carry on the work of each institution vigorously and continuously to the next session. Waste by deterioration and idle capital, to say nothing of the need of aid to the suffering, should not be permitted.

Secondary to these State institutions mentioned are local insane hospitals which receive State aid under the County Care Act, above mentioned. These deserve encouragement and it would be well to increase State aid to them and thus encourage further building, either by way of helping in erection or increasing the per capita cost of maintenance. The actual cost of maintenance is less than in State hospitals and the percentage of cures is greater as the patients have more out-door life and are more convenient to the visits of friends.

The weak-minded also need more State institutions than the three already mentioned. The institution at Spring City is intended for both weak-minded and epileptic. The Board of Public Charities has recommended, and your Committee endorses the recommendation, that this institution, which is nearing completion, be diverted solely to the care of the weak-minded and that provision be made elsewhere for the epileptic. Weak-minded persons who are scattered at large in great numbers (estimated at 18,000 in Pennsylvania) throughout the country are a menace to society and by themselves and their off spring recruit the largest part of the criminal and dependent classes.

The same conditions apply to the epileptic and an institution caring for 700 or 800 is now needed. In the insane hospitals, now overcrowded, are from 2,500 to 3,000 feeble-minded and epileptic people.

Tuberculous insane patients should be kept in a separate institution, and if the recommendation of the State Commissioner of Health be followed a hospital can be erected at Cresson upon ground already belonging to the State, in a particularly favorable locality.

Another need is the establishment of psychopathic wards attached to some of the large general hospitals in the cities where cases of neurasthenia, hysteria and other mental states not amounting to insanity, can be investigated and treated without the stigma attaching to residence in an insane asylum.

State institutions to take up the work of the local privately-maintained homes and refuges are also needed. There is no State institution for abandoned and neglected children or for wayward girls.

The cost of the principal additional State institutions needed is estimated as follows:

Hospital for the tuberculous insane, to be located at Cresson, $240,000.

Two psychopathic wards to be attached, one to a hospital in the East and the other to a hospital in the West, $80,000 each, or $160,000.

Farm Colony for Epileptics (the Spring City Institution to be devoted solely to the Feeble-Minded), $600,000.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

Part of the delay in the completion of State institutions may be traceable to the practice of creating a separate commission to build each institution. The object of this has been to commit such work to those most interested in the subject in the hope that the best results would be obtained, and whilst these commissions (of the present unfinished institutions) appear to have labored zealously, they have not been able to obtain the moneys to complete their several institutions. It appears to your Committee that if all of this work had been committed to the direction of one State Department, with power to appoint necessary architects, inspectors and employees, such Department representing the State directly would have secured the moneys needed and expedition in construction would have been obtained.

Your Committee therefore recommends that the commissions to erect the hospitals at Trevorton, Fairview and Spring City, be abolished and their power transferred to a State Department, and that the commission to erect the Homeopathic Insane Hospital near Allentown be given the sum necessary to complete immediately. The Allentown Hospital is so nearly completed that it can be finished by the present Commission before the Department could be organized. Acts to accomplish this are submitted herewith (see page 101).

The Board of Commissioners of Public Grounds and Buildings, as now constituted by the organization of the Governor, Auditor General and State Treasurer, ex-officiis, has not the time and facilities for such a large work, in addition to the many duties of its members in their individual offices. The institutions are placed all over the State. The work really requires the attention of specialists in addition to the architect in immediate charge of each branch.

Much the same considerations apply to the Board of Public Charities as now constituted. Its members are business men serving gratuitously, and while their service has been devoted, they are scattered over the State, and it is a physical impossibility to give sufficient attention as a Board to the work now in hand. The work of erecting new buildings is not possible to them.

The Legislature of 1905 passed a well-considered bill creating a Department of State Charitable Institutions, which was vetoed by the Governor on the ground that it covered the same ground as the Board of Public Charities, which, nevertheless, was not abolished.

A comparison of the bill with the duties of that Board, and of the Committee on Lunacy, which is part of it, discloses that a great deal is omitted. The whole subject of lunacy, and the visitation of correctional and reformatory institutions, both State and local, would have remained to the Board. Your Committee believes that the best interests of the State would be served by entrusting all these matters to such a Department, and discontinuing the Board of Public Charities. No thought of inefficiency or wilful neglect enters into this recommendation. It is the product of the growth of our institutions to a point where a volunteer board has too much to do.

Accordingly the bill has been revised to include all the duties entrusted to the Board of Public Charities by the Act of 1869 (P. L. 90) and its supplements, and to the Committee on Lunacy by the Act of 1872 (P. L. 43), and its supplements, and the repeal of those Acts. The Committee on Lunacy, however, is to retain its membership of a lawyer and a physician with the addition of the Commissioners, and the aid of a Secretary. The administrative work will doubtless fall upon the official members, and at the same time the advice of the professional members will be available.

The Act revised as referred to, is submitted herewith (see page 105).

(B) NECESSITY OF INCREASED STATE EXPENDITURE.

The demand for better roads comes from all classes o citizens, automobile owners, farmers and all others wh use the highways. It is elsewhere proposed that the tax o automobiles shall be applied to the maintenance of im proved roads. All the increased revenue that could b legitimately raised could be expended in this way wit benefit to the State.

The following table (see page 128) shows the improve and unimproved roads of the Commonwealth outside o Philadelphia. In spite of the amounts already spent it ap pears that only a beginning has been made.

Since the organization of the State Highway Departmen in 1903 we have spent $8,168,700 for the construction o

State highways with a total road mileage of 86,593. In the last five years New York State has spent $26,000,000, and the counties $10,000,000 on main highways, though its total road mileage is only 67,579 miles. In New Jersey $6,000,000 has been spent on road construction, of which the State's share was $1,550,000 upon a mileage of 14,842. Massachusetts in five years has spent $4,274,633 on a mileage of 17,145 and Maryland a total of $7,384,000 on a mileage of 16,000.

The extension of improved roads on anything like the scale thus suggested must be made on sound principles of financiering by the expenditure of capital rather than income. Capital can only be found by borrowing, as our municipalities freely do for like purposes. The Constitution severely limits the borrowing power of the State by providing (Article IX, Section 4):

"No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the State in war, or to pay existing debt; and the debt created to supply deficiencies in revenue shall never exceed, in the aggregate at any one time, one million of dollars."

Our neighboring States are helping out the construction of State roads by this means. New York authorized a bond issue of $50,000,000 for highway improvement in 1905 although the State was already heavily in debt. These bonds are being issued from year to year as authorized by the Legislature. Massachusetts has issued $1,820,000 of bonds since 1906, the proceeds going to road construction, and Maryland $6,000,000.

Your Committee is of opinion that our borrowing power should be enlarged to meet the demand and thus enable us to keep pace with our sister Commonwealths in this respect. Your Committee recommends and submits herewith a draft of a Joint Resolution to accomplish that purpose. (See page 130.)

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to Section Four, Article Nine of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

Be it Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, that the following amendment to Section 4, Article 9, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, be and the same is hereby proposed in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:

That Section 4 of Article 9, which reads as follows:

"No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State, except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the State in war, or to pay existing debt; and the debt created to supply deficiencies in revenue shall never exceed, in the aggregate at any one time, one million of dollars."

Be amended so that the same shall read as follows:

No debt shall be created by or on behalf of the State except to supply casual deficiencies of revenue, repel invasion, suppress insurrection, defend the State in war, construct and improve its public highways, or to pay existing debt; and the debt created to supply deficiencies in revenue shall never exceed, in the aggregate at any one time, one million of dollars.

Schools also demand increased expenditures. The State Normal Schools claim that they should receive more State money. The common school appropriations should be increased not only to give greater efficiency in the management of the schools, but to relieve the local taxes. One of the requests of the Pennsylvania State Grange to your Committee was for relief from the local taxation on real estate. Coupled with this was the request that the State pay the minimum wage to public school teachers for the minimum term. This would necessitate the expenditure of $40 per month for an average school year of 8 1-2 months nearly, for 35,111 teachers, or the sum of $12,537,740. If $50.00 per month were paid it would require $14,922,175. For the year ending June, 1909, the total paid by the State for this purpose was $905,025.55, and for the year ending June, 1910, the total was $966,756.10. The common school appropriation for each of the last two appropriation years was $7,500,000. If the State assumed these wages of school teachers it would mean an increase of from $5,000,000 to $7,500,000 per year, and this is too great a burden for the State to bear even with the increased revenue, this specific relief is not presently possible. But some substantial advance in that direction must shortly be made.

As elsewhere stated, money is needed for the completion of State institutions now under way. This has been repeatedly recommended by the officials having them in charge and has been recommended by the Governor. The sums needed may be repeated here:

Homeopathic State Hospital for Insane at Allentown, Completion	$ 663,000.00
Equipment	250,000.00
Miners' Hospital at Trevorton	150,000.00
Feeble Minded Institution at Spring City	1,500,000.00
Hospital for Criminal Insane at Farview	1,187,602.00

New institutions for the care of the State's insane, feeble minded or otherwise deficient persons, are recommended elsewhere by the Board of Public Charities as urgently needed. The sum required is estimated at $1,000,000.

The State debt is overbalanced by the amount in the Sinking Fund and has always been inconsiderable. In this happy condition of affairs the State has always been able to bring her receipts and expenditures approximately even (subject to the uncertainties of calculation of the revenues), as shown by the following table:

	Receipts	Expenditures	Surplus of Receipts over Expenditures	Excess of Expenditures over receipts
1905	$24,269,119.72	$26,930,538.67	.....	$2,661,418.95
1906	25,818,924.03	25,574,200.42	$ 244,723.61	.....
1907	27,027,132.72	24,589,725.79	2,437,406.93	.....
1908	25,852,548.95	29,197,654.15	.....	3,345,105.20
1909	29,101,183.70	30,021,773.57	.....	920,589.87
1910	28,946,424.43	27,657,399.88	1,289,024.55	.....

With this Showing, the balance being somewhat against the Commonwealth, the increased expenditures necessary can only eb met by increases in State taxation.

(C) CHANGE OF SUBJECTS OF TAXATION.

The present division of subjects of taxation between the State and the localities is an admirable feature which should be preserved. The changes which should be made are for the purpose of an increased revenue, and to equalize burdens among the members of the classes as now taxed. Among the many subjects of taxation suggested your Committee has given special consideration to the following:

DIRECT INHERITANCE TAX.

Pennsylvania was the first State in the Union to put in force an inheritance tax, and with the exception of a tax on bank dividends and on the recording of certain local papers, etc., (Acts of 1825-1826, Chapter 2), this was the first State tax of any kind in Pennsylvania; the Act first creating anything like a system of State taxation being passed in 1831. Our tax on collateral inheritances was introduced in 1826 and has remained in force with occasional amendments to the present day. The tax was placed at its present rate, at 5 per cent., in 1846. The whole subject was codified in 1887 by "An Act to provide for the better collection of collateral inheritance taxes." The policy thus begun in Pennsylvania in 1826 has spread through most of the States of the Union and has extended to direct as well as collateral inheritances.

Inheritance tax is no longer a mere theory, but an established fact, and it has come to stay. A State properly taxes a right of succession which its laws confer, and such duty should be paid to the State which protects the rights of property. Inheritances are now taxed to a greater or less extent in thirty-six States, and the tendency is to pass Acts taxing lineal as well as collateral heirs and at graduated rates. Twenty-one States of the Union tax both direct and collateral heirs, viz: Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Idaho, Illinois, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Fifteen States levy a collateral tax only, namely, Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont and Virginia, all at a 5 per cent. rate; Maine, 4 per cent.; Maryland, 2 1-2 per cent. North Dakota, 2 per cent., and Texas from 2 to 12 per cent.

Only twelve States have no inheritance tax, namely, Alabama, Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Mississippi, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Rhode Island and South Carolina.

The American Acts generally tax collaterals at the rate of 5 per cent. and lineals from 1-2 per cent. (Connecticut) to 3 per cent., (Louisiana), though Minnesota and Utah make no distinction between direct and collateral heirs. However, in all other cases in which direct heirs are taxed the rates are much lower and the exemption (except in Connecticut and North Carolina) much larger than for collateral heirs. Many States graduate the tax in more than two classes, according to the degrees of relationship between the decedent and beneficiary. In 1897 Pennsylvania enacted a direct inheritance tax law which exempted estates of $5,000 in value. In consequence of the grading effected by this exemption, the law was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court and no attempt to impose it in any form has since been made. A table is submitted herewith (see page 152) showing the inheritance tax laws in force in the various States of the Union with respect to the rates and grading thereof both as to the degrees of relationship and the size of the estate.

Pennsylvania by taxing collaterals only seriously restricts its revenue-producing power. The New York inheritance tax (5 per cent. collateral and 1 per cent. direct) averages more than $5,000,000 a year, while in Pennsylvania the average annual receipts from our 5 per cent. collateral inheritance tax in the past five years has been $1,582,780.95.

Your Committee proposes a direct inheritance tax therefore of 1 per cent. upon all estates not subject to the collateral inheritance tax, and submits herewith a draft of an Act for that purpose (see page 141). The Act submitted is based very largely on the Acts now existing in this Commonwealth with reference to collateral inheritance taxes. For the sake of uniformity both are provided for by the same statute. In its preparation your Committee has aimed at the following:

1. A reasonable tax which will provide a fair revenue;
2. One that is definitely fixed and easily computed;
3. A tax avoiding double taxation, in the case of estates of citizens of those of our sister Commonwealths that provide a like exemption in favor of the estates of citizens of this Commonwealth.

A reference to the table annexed to this report (see page 152), will show the reasonableness of the tax (5 per cent. collateral and 1 per cent. direct) as compared with similar taxes in other States. Such an inheritance tax has many advantages and is not open to any serious objection. It is the price paid for the privilege given by law of taking by will or descent. It is a source of revenue which cannot be evaded, as the estates of decedents must be inventoried and administered. It is easily collected and one that equitably apportions public burdens in proportion to the ability to bear them. One cause of the great popularity of the inheritance tax is that it is imposed upon the person paying it at a time when he least feels the burden, and when he is receiving a benefit more or less unexpected and which he receives by virtue of State laws permitting the succession of property at the time of death. It is taking something from him before he gets it.

Your Committee is in hearty accord with the modern tendency of legislation to graduate the rate of the tax according to the size of the estate. This has been the policy of Pennsylvania from the beginning in one particular, as estates of $250 and less have been exempted by our collateral inheritance tax law. The Act of 1897 was in line with this policy. Inasmuch, however, as our Constitution forbids this grading, owing to the requirement in Article 9, Section 1, that taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of subjects, such a tax cannot now be levied.

Your Committee, therefore, recommends that a constitutional amendment be proposed permitting such a grading and submits herewith a draft of a Joint Resolution for that purpose (see page 150).

The amendment as drawn will provide for the grading in this manner of other subjects of taxation as well as inheritances, and will permit the exemption of small estates from all kinds of tax. It has been advocated, for example, that $500 of moneyed investments be freed from personal property tax. This, of course, is not now possible. The principle of graduation, that is, the laying of a larger percentage on a larger sum—seems to your Committee both just and expedient, especially as applied to inheritance taxes, in which a high progressive rate should tend to counteract the piling up of colossal fortunes, which experience has shown are not conducive to the public welfare.

They put into the hands of a very few an abnormal power over the many, which no matter how well disposed its possessors may be, can but be harmful to the social and political sovereignty of the people. There should be some remedy for such a condition where a few, a very few, comparatively, can have such power.

Your Committee in recommending the graduated taxes well know that the small percentage suggested will have little if any effect in securing a general distribution of these fortunes, but the suggestion is made in the hope that it will be the means of promoting discussion of this most important subject, with a probable beneficial result. The leading nations of continental Europe and the Provinces of Canada have graduated inheritance taxes Such a tax has been approved by modern economists and statesmen. Mr. Edwin R. A. Seligman, Professor of Political Economy and Finance in Columbia University, a leading authority on taxation and a member of the New York State Commission of 1906, fully discussed this question in his work on Progressive Taxation, pages 213 and 215, with the conclusion "that the theory of progression is more applicable to the inheritance tax than to any other part of the fiscal system; and that * * * * * * * * * * * some scale of progression is both desirable and practicable (Essays on Taxation, Chapter 5—the Inheritance Tax, page 133)." The same authority says, "In the United States also, there is now a decided movement toward the progressive inheritance tax—and it is more than probable that progressive inheritance taxes will play by no means an insignificant role in the fiscal systems of the future" (Supra, pages 133, 135). Moreover, such a tax has been sustained by the United States Supreme Court which decided in Magoun vs. Trust and Savings Bank, 170 U. S. 283 (1898), that the progressive scale or principle of graduation in inheritance taxes was not in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment. Under this decision the principle of progression is applicable to the direct taxes as well. Partly as a consequence of this decision a number of progressive inheritance tax bills have been introduced and now many of our State statutes show graduated rates of tax. Ohio was the first State in the Union to apply this principle to the inheritance tax, but the tax now is in some degree progressive in sixteen States, as follows: California, Idaho, Illinois, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New York, West Virginia, and Wisconsin have progressive rates for both direct and collateral heirs. In Arkansas, Colorado, Nebraska, North Carolina, Oregon and South Dakota the progressive rates apply only to distant relatives and strangers in blood while in Washington and Texas they apply to all collateral heirs. However, our own Legislature is subject to the above mentioned restriction in Article 9, Section 1 of our Constitution, which as interpreted by our Supreme Court in Cope's Estate, 191 Pa. 1, decided in 1899, prevents the levying of such a tax in Pennsylvania without some such constitutional amendment as that proposed by your Committee.

Some States have got progressive taxation without constitutional amendments. In South Carolina, for example, where the State Constitution requires the Legislature to provide for a uniform and equal rate of assessment and taxation and prescribes regulations to secure a just valuation for taxation for all property, but provides "that the General Assembly may provide for a graduated tax on incomes" the South Carolina Supreme Court in Alderman vs. Wells, L. R. A. (N. S.) 864, in sustaining a graduated income tax which exempts incomes under a specified amount and increases the tax as the income reaches stated amounts above that sum, said, "It is impossible to conceive how a tax on incomes could be graduated without exempting some incomes or without making the tax higher on some than others." Many of the States have upheld the constitutionality of such a tax by declaring it to be a tax on the devolution of property. It is a tax not on wealth, but on the transfer of wealth. Thus the Louisiana inheritance tax was originally upheld by the Federal Supreme Court in Meger vs. Grima, et al., 8 Howard 490, as a simple regulation of inheritance.

Your Committee finds that other States than Pennsylvania have had constitutional troubles in the taxation of inheritances. One of the constitutional amendments adopted by New Hampshire in 1903 extended the permissible objects of taxation to include franchises and "property when passing by will or inheritance." In Minnesota the Supreme Court decided that a progressive inheritance tax passed by the Legislature in 1875 violated the constitutional requirement that all taxes must be "as nearly equal as may be," both by its $2,000 exemption and by its arbitrary schedule. In 1894, a constitutional amendment authorizing a tax either proportional or progressive, but not exceeding 5 per cent. on inheritances above a fixed amount, was adopted. The amendment which was in the form of a proviso added to the section enjoining equality of taxation, reads as follows: "And providing further, that there may be by law levied and collected a tax upon all inheritances, devises, bequests, legacies and gifts of every kind and description above a fixed and specified sum of any and all natural persons and corporations. Such tax above such exempted sum may be uniform or it may be graded or progressive, but shall not exceed a maximum tax of 5 per cent." in 1905, a progressive inheritance tax was enacted which was held by the Supreme Court of Minnesota in State ex rel Foote vs. Bazille, 6 L. R. A. (N. S.), 732, not to be contrary to the Constitution as above amended and was sustained, the Court saying, "The authority to make the tax graded or progressive was incorporated in the law advisedly, and in view of the well known and firmly established system of such taxation in force in this country based upon the wise and wholesome doctrine that ability to pay is the true basis for all taxation. Though it results in a measure in inequality, it conforms to a system sanctioned and supported by the authorities generally and is not repugnant to constitutional principles."

It may be added that the New Constitution of Oklahoma expressly authorizes progressive taxation of both direct and collateral inheritances. In addition to the effect of the amendment recommended by your Committee on the question of grading inheritance taxes, your Committee believes the amendment suggested to be in line with the thought that a Constitution should be a declaration of general principles rather than a specification of particulars. The wording will permit greater freedom to the Legislature in taxing other property in this way, if the advance of modern legislation, keeping pace with progressive civilization, makes it advisable.

While it remains the policy of the State to give aid to charity, it seems unnecessarily circuitous to levy a tax upon bequests for that purpose. To exempt such bequests merely means a gift in another form, and without the idle act of taking away and then giving again. The amount would not be large. For the years 1908, 1909 and eight months in 1910 in thirty counties reporting to your Committee, the tax on bequests to charity as shown by the local records amounts to $587,684.45. Such a concession has been long asked for by those interested in charitable work and it seems only just. The Constitution of the State permits the exemption from taxation of "institutions of purely public charity." The adoption of the same language as the measure of the actual exemption would exclude all gifts other than those going to the benefit of persons who must otherwise be the subject of State aid. Accordingly it is recommended that this exemption be granted and an Act accomplishing that purpose is submitted herewith (see page 150).

This exemption really forms part of the scheme of taxation of inheritances, but is put in the form of a separate Act in order that it may be considered separately for the convenience of the Legislature, and in order that any alterations which are deemed advisable may be conveniently made without affecting the general scheme of taxing inheritances by reason of creating unlawful exemptions in that Act.

An Act laying a State tax on estates passing either by Will or under the Intestate Laws of this Commonwealth or by deed, grant, bargain or sale, made or intended to take effect after the death of the grantor or bargainer and providing for the collection thereof.

Sect. 1. Be it enacted, etc., That all estates, real, personal and mixed, of every kind whatsoever, situated within this State, whether the person or persons dying seized thereof be domiciled within or out of this State, and all such estates situated in another State, territory or country, when the person or persons dying seized thereof shall have their domicile within this Commonwealth, passing from any person who may die seized or possessed of such estates, either by will or under the intestate laws of this State, or any part of such estate or estates, or interest therein, transferred by deed, grant, bargain or sale, made or intended to take effect, in possession or enjoyment after the death of the grantor or bargainer, to or for the use of father, mother, husband, wife, children, and lineal descendants born in lawful wedlock, children adopted according to law and their lineal descendants children of a former husband or wife, or the wife or widow of the son of the person dying seized or possessed thereof, shall be, and they are hereby made subject to a tax of one dollar on every hundred dollars of the clear value of such estate or estates, and at and after the same rate for any less amount, to be paid to the use of the Commonwealth; and all such estates passing to any other person or persons or to bodies corporate or politic in trust or otherwise shall be and they are hereby made subject to a like tax of five dollars on every hundred dollars; and all owners of such estates, and all executors and administrators and their sureties, shall only be discharged from liability for the amount of such taxes or duties, the settlement of which they may be charged with, by having paid the same over, for the use aforesaid, as hereinafter directed.

Sect. 2. Where a testator appoints or names one or more executors, and makes a bequest or devise of property to them, in lieu of their commissions or allowances, or appoints them his residuary legatees, and said bequests, devises, or residuary legacies, exceed what would be a fair compensation for their services, such excess shall be subject to the payment of the tax provided by this Act; the rate of compensation to be fixed by the proper Courts having jurisdiction in the case.

Sect. 3. In all cases where there has been or shall be a devise, descent or bequest to take effect in possession, or come into actual enjoyment after the expiration of one or more life estates, or a period of years, the tax on such estate shall not be payable, nor interest begin to run thereon, until the person or persons, bodies corporate or politic liable for the same shall come into actual possession of such estate, by the termination of the estates for life or years, and the tax shall be assessed upon the value of the estate at the time the right of possession accrues to the owner as aforesaid: Provided, that the owner shall have the right to pay the tax at any time prior to his coming into possession, and, in such cases, the tax shall be assessed on the value of the estate at the time of the payment of the tax, after deducting the value of the life estate or estates for years: And, provided further, that the tax on real estate shall remain a lien on the real estate on which the same is chargeable until paid. And the owner of any personal estate shall make a full return of the same to the Register of Wills of the proper county within one year from the death of the decedent, and within that time enter into security for the payment of the tax to the satisfaction of such register; and in case of failure to do so, the tax shall be immediately payable and collectible.

Sect. 4. If the tax provided by this Act shall be paid within three months after the death of the decedent, a discount of 5 per centum shall be made and allowed; and if the said tax is not paid at the end of one year from the death of the decedent, interest shall then be charged at the rate of 12 per centum per annum on such tax; but where from claims made upon the estate, litigation, or other unavoidable cause of delay, the estate of any decedent or a part thereof cannot be settled up at the end of the year from his or her decease, 6 per centum per annum shall be charged upon the tax provided by this Act, arising from the unsettled part thereof, from the end of such year until there be default. Provided further, that where real or personal estate withheld by reason of litigation or other cause of delay in manner aforesaid from the parties entitled thereto, subject to said tax, has not been, or shall not be productive to the extent of 6 per centum per annum, they shall not be compelled to pay a greater amount as interest to the Commonwealth than they may have realized, or shall realize from such estate during the time the same has been or shall be withheld as aforesaid.

Sect. 5. The executor, or administrator, or other trustee, paying any legacy or share in the distribution of any estate, subject to the tax provided by this Act, shall deduct therefrom at the rate of one dollar or five dollars on every hundred dollars, as the case may be, as provided in Section 1 of this Act, upon the whole legacy or sum paid; or if not money, he shall demand payment of a sum, to be computed at the rate of tax chargeable thereon, upon the appraised value thereof, for the use of the Commonwealth; and no executor or administrator shall be compelled to pay or deliver any specific legacy or article to be distributed, subject to tax, except on the payment into his hands of a sum computed on its value as aforesaid; and in case of neglect or refusal on the part of said legatee to pay the same, such specific legacy or article, or so much thereof as shall be necessary, shall be sold by such executor or administrator at public sale, after notice to such legatee, and the balance that may be left in the hands of the executor or administrator shall be distributed, as is or may be directed by law; and every sum of money retained by an executor or administrator, or paid into his hands on account of any legacy or distributive share, for the use of the Commonwealth, shall be paid by him without delay.

Sec. 6. If the legacy subject to the tax provided by this Act be given to any person for life, or for a term of years, years, or for any other limited period, upon a condition or contingency, if the same be money, the tax thereon shall be retained upon the whole amount; but if not money, application shall be made to the Orphans' Court having jurisdiction of the accounts of the executors or administrators to make apportionment, if the case requires it, of the sum to be paid by such legatees, and for such further order relative thereto as equity shall require.

Sect. 7. Whenever such legacy shall be charged upon or payable out of real estate the heir or devisee before paying the same shall deduct therefrom the tax chargeable thereon and pay the amount so deducted to the executor; and the same shall remain a charge upon such real estate until so paid, and the payment thereof shall be enforced by the decree of the Orphans' Court in the same manner as the payment of such legacy may be enforced.

Sect. 8. Whenever any real estate of which any decedent may die is seized shall be subject to the tax provided by this Act, it shall be the duty of executors and administrators to give information thereof to the Register of the county where administration had been granted, within six months after they undertake the execution of their respective duties, or if the fact be not known to them within that period, within one month after the same shall have come to their knowledge; and it shall be the duty of the owners of such estates, immediately upon the vesting of the estate, to give information thereof to the Register having jurisdiction of the granting of administration.

Sect. 9. It shall be the duty of any executor or administrator, on the payment of the tax provided by this Act, to take duplicate receipts from the Register, one of which shall be forwarded forthwith to the Auditor General, whose duty it shall be to charge the Register receiving the money with the amount, and seal with the seal of his office and countersign the receipt and transmit it to the executor or administrator, whereupon it shall be a proper voucher in the settlement of the estate; but in no event shall an executor or administrator be entitled to a credit in his account unless the said receipt is so sealed and countersigned by the Auditor General.

Sect. 10. And whenever any such tax shall have remained due and unpaid for one year, it shall be lawful

The lien of the taxes provided by this Act shall continue until the said taxes are settled and satisfied: Pro-vided, That the said lien shall be limited to the property chargeable therewith: And provided further, That all said taxes shall be sued for within five years after they are due and legally demandable, otherwise they shall be presumed to have been paid and cease to be a lien as against any pur-chasers of real estate.

Sect. 22. In all cases where any amount of the tax pro-vided by this Act has heretofore been paid, or may hereafter be paid, erroneously, either with respect to the amount of the estate or the rate of the tax to the Register of Wills of the proper county, for the use of the Commonwealth, it shall be lawful for the State Treasurer, on satisfactory proof ren-dered to him by said Register of Wills of such erroneous payment, to refund and pay over to the executor, adminis-trator, person or persons who may have heretofore paid or may hereafter pay any of such tax in error, the amount of such tax thus erroneously poid: Provided, That all applica-tions for the repayment of such aforesaid tax, erroneously paid into the Treasury, shall be made within two years from the date of said payment, except when the estate, upon which such tax shall have been erroneously paid shall have consisted in whole or in part of a partnership, or other in-terest of uncertain value, or shall have been involved in liti-gation, by reason whereof there shall have been an overvalu-ation of that portion of the estate on which the tax has been assessed and paid, which overvaluation could not have been ascertained within said period of two years; then, and in such case, the application for repayment may be made to the State Treasurer within one year from the termination of such litigation, or ascertainment of such overvaluation.

Sect. 23. Property of a resident of the Commonwealth which is not therein at the time of his death shall not be taxable under the provisions of this Act if legally subject in another State or country to a tax of like character and amount to that hereby imposed, and if such tax be actually paid or guaranteed or secured in accordance with law in such other State or country; if legally subject in another State or country to a tax of like character but of less amount than that hereby imposed and such tax be actually paid or guaranteed or secured as aforesaid, such property shall be taxable under this Act to the extent of the difference be-tween the tax thus actually paid, guaranteed or secured, and the amount for which such property would otherwise be liable hereunder. Property of a non-resident decedent which is within the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth at the time of his death, if subject to a tax of like character with that imposed by this Act by the law of the State or country of his residence, shall be subject only to such portion of the tax hereby imposed as may be in excess of such tax imposed by the laws of such State or country: Provided, That a like exemption is made by the laws of such other State or country in favor of estates of citizens of this Commonwealth, but no such exemption shall be allowed until such tax provided for by the law of such other State or country shall be actually paid, guaranteed, or secured in accordance with law.

NOTES

Section 1 is based on the first section of the Act of May 6, 1887, relating to collateral inheritance taxes. The two hundred and fifty dollars exemption therein provided is dropped and estates passing to "father, mother, husband, wife, children, and lineal descendants born in lawful wed-lock, or the wife, or widow of the son" and "children of a former husband or wife" of the person dying seized hereto-fore exempt under Section 1, Act May 1, 1887, P. L. 79, as amended by the Act of April 22, 1905, P. L. 259, are made subject to a 1 per cent. tax. There is also added to this class "children adopted according to law and their lineal descendants." This changes the law as made by the decision in Com. vs. Nancrede, 32 Pa. 389. The change better accords with the spirit of the law and the provision in other States. The Constitutional provision, Article 9, Section 1, declaring that all taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of sub-jects, as interpreted in Cope's Estate, 191 Pa. 1, requires the elimination of the two hundred and fifty dollars exemption as to direct inheritances, and it has seemed to your Commit-tee, therefore, more consistent to likewise strike it out as to collaterals.

Sections 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 are based on the like sections of the Act of May 6, 1887.

Sections 13 and 14 are based on Sections 1 and 2 of the Act of June 26, 1895, P. L. 325.

Sections 15, 16 and 17 are based on Sections 13, 14 and 15 of the Act of May 6, 1887.

Section 18 is based on Act of May 14, 1891, P. L. 59, which amended Section 16 of the Act of May 6, 1887.

Sections 19, 20 and 21 are based on Sections 17, 19 and 20 of the Act of May 6, 1887.

Section 22 is based on Act of March 25, 1901, P. L. 59, which amended Act of June 12, 1878.

Section 23 is based on Section 3 of the Massachusetts In-heritance Tax Act of June 12, 1909, P. L. 647. Its purpose is to prevent double taxation and while giving a proper share of the taxable estate to any State enacting a similar pro-vision, to relieve the estates of our citizens so far as they are taxed abroad in such States.

An Act to exempt from the payment of inheritance taxes bequests and devises to institutions of purely public Charity.

Sect. 1. Be it enacted, etc., That hereafter all bequests and devises to institutions of purely public charity shall be exempt from liability for inheritance taxes.

A Joint Resolution, proposing an amendment to Section One of Article Nine of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, relat-ing to taxation.

Sect. 1. Be it resolved, etc., That the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof.

Sect. 2. Amend Section 1 of Article 9 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which reads as follows:

"All taxes shall be uniform, upon the same class of sub-jects, within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax, and shall be levied and collected under general laws; but the General Assembly may, by general laws, exempt from taxation public property used for public purposes, actual places of religious worship, places of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit, and institutions of purely public charity," so as to read as follows:

All taxes shall be uniform upon the same class of sub-jects within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax, and shall be levied and collected under general laws, and the subjects of taxation may be classified for the purpose of laying graded or progressive taxes, but the General As-sembly may, by general laws, exempt from taxation public property used for public purposes, actual places of religious worship, places of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit, and institutions of purely public charity.

NOTE.

This form your Committee recommends for the purpose of freeing the Legislature to apply the principle of graduation as may be thought necessary, a freedom which most other States have. If it be thought well, however, to confine the present amendment to inheritance taxes the following alter-native is proposed:

All taxes shall be uniform, upon the same class of subjects, within the territorial limits of the authority levying the tax, and shall be levied and collected under general laws; but the General Assembly may, by laws, provide for a uniform or graduated or progressive tax upon all states passing either by will or under interstate laws or by any instrument intended to take effect after death and exempt from taxation a fixed and specific amount of such estate and public property used for pub-lic purposes, actual places of religious worship, places of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit and institutions of purely public charity.

TAX ON AUTOMOBILES.

The present Act of 1909 divides automobiles into three asses. The first class (under 20 horse power), pays .00; the second class (between 20 and 50 horse power), ys $10.00, and the third class (over 50 horse power), ys $15.00. The number of automobiles registered to arly the close of the year 1910 is as follows:

hicles less than 20 horse power	755 at	$5.00	$3,775.00
hicles 20 horse power, but less than 50 horse power	20,304 at	10.00	203,040.00
hicles 50 horse power or more	12,273 at	15.00	184,195.00
Total	33,332		$391,010.00
In addition there was received:
ealers' registrations	2,908 at	$5.00	$14,540.00
otor cycle registrations	3,808 at	2.00	7,616.00
hauffeurs' licenses	15,845 at	2.00	31,690.00
pecial juvenile licenses	684
A grand total of	56,577		$444,856.00

New Jersey divides automobiles into three classes, the oints of dvision being at 10 and 30 horse power, and axes the classes $3.00, $5.00 and $10.00, respectively. Iassachusetts divides them into five classes with the points f division at 20, 30, 40 and 50 horse power and taxes them 5.00, $10.00, $15.00, $20.00 and $25.00, respectively. Connecticut divides them into five classes with the division at 0, 30, 35 and 40 horse power and taxes them $6.00, $10.00, 15.00, $20.00 and $30.00, respectively. All these States rovide that the money thus raised shall be at the disposition of the Commissioner of Highways, without further ppropriation to expend on the roads of the State.

This tax can be collected with absolute certainty. The utomobile is a luxury which can easily bear the increased ax and if the amount realized was expended in the improvement of the roads, the owners of the automobiles would be so benefited that they would doubtless cheerfully pay it. At the same time it would be a great relief to ocal communities which are put to additional expense in maintaining road surfaces injuriously affected by automobile traffic.

Your Committee therefore recommends the imposition of a tax of $25.00, $50.00 and $75.00 upon the respective classes of registration of vehicles as now established. This on the basis of 1910 would produce a revenue of

Under 20 horse power	$18,875.00
20 to 50 horse power	1,051,200.00
50 horse power or more	920,475.00
Total	$1,954,550.00

Under the present law this fund is paid to the State Highway Department "to be used for the improvement of the roads of this Commonwealth." It should also be available for maintenance of improved roads.

A draft of an Act to accomplish this change is accordingly submitted herewith (see page 157).

An Act to amend Sections 2 and 21 of an Act entitled "An Act relating to motor-vehicles: Regulating their speed upon the public streets and highways of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; providing for their registration, and the licensing of operators, by the State Highway Department; establishing the rights of motor-vehicles upon the public highways, with relation to other vehicles; regulating the service of process and of proceeding in actions for damages arising therefrom; prescribing the penalties for violations of the provisions of this Act, and providing for the disposition of fines imposed thereunder." Approved April 27, 1909.

Sect. 1. Be it enacted, etc., That Section 2 of an Act entitled "An Act relating to motor-vehicles: regulating their speed upon the public streets and highways of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, providing for their registration, and the licensing of operators, by the State Highway Department; establishing the rights of motor-vehicles upon the public highways, with relation to other vehicles; regulating the service of process and of proceedings in actions for damages arising therefrom; prescribing the penalties for violations of the provisions of this Act, and providing for the disposition of fines imposed thereunder." Approved April 27, 1909, which reads as follows:

Sect. 2. Application for the registration of motor-vehicles shall be made to the State Highway Department, or to a lawful agent appointed by the Highway Commissioner. The application shall contain the name, place of residence, and correct post-office address of the owner; with a brief description of the motor-vehicles, stating the name of the maker, the manufacturer's number, the character of the motive power, and the rated horse-power. The said application shall be made upon a blank provided for the purpose by the State Highway Department. It shall be signed by the owner, and be verified by oath or affirmation. Upon receipt of the application, and a fee of five dollars ($5.00) for motor-vehicles of less than twenty horse-power, ten dollars ($10.00) for motor-vehicles of twenty horse-power or more and less than fifty horse-power, and fifteen dollars ($15.00) for motor-vehicles of fifty horse-power or over, or in the case of a motor-cycle, two dollars ($2.00), the State Highway Department shall register the said motor vehicle or motor-cycle in a book to be kept for that purpose; and shall issue to the owner a registration certificate, and two (2) number tags having thereon the registration number, the figures of which shall be not less than five (5) inches in height, the maker's number of the car, the abbreviated name of the State, and the year: Provided, however, That non-residents of this Commonwealth shall be exempt for a period of ten (10) days from the provision of this section, if they have complied with the requirements of the State in which they reside, and display upon their motor-vehicle number-tags that indicate the State by which they are issued and their register number: Provided further, That this privilege shall not apply to residents of States which do not extend similar privileges to residents of this Commonwealth: Provided further, That motor-cycles under this Act, in lieu of the specific form of tag or tags as required herein, shall be required to have painted or attached on the rear mud-guard of such motor-cycle the registration number, in letters and figures of not less than three inches in height and not less than three-eighths of an inch in width, which shall be displayed in some conspicuous color or design other than that of which the said motor-cycle is painted; but no metal sign shall be required in order that the said letters and figures can be plainly readable. The manner of numbering said motor-cycles shall be regarded as a compliance with the terms of this Act, as though a tag or tags had actually been furnished and supplied by the said Highway Department. Any neglect or failure to carry out the terms or provisions of this section as to numbers shall be construed and regarded as a violation of this Act, with the same force and effect as though the provisions herein mentioned in regard to tag or tags had been violated.

"Applicants for registration or license who reside outside of this State shall, in addition to the above requirements, designate in their application a resident of this State as their authorized agent upon whom process may be served," be and the same is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sect. 2. Application for the registration of motor-vehicles shall be made to the State Highway Department, or to a lawful agent appointed by the Highway Commissioner. The application shall contain the name, place of residence, and correct post-office address of the owner; with a brief description of the motor-vehicle, stating the name of the maker, the manufacturer's number, the character of the motive power, and the rated horse-power. The said application shall be made upon a blank provided for the purpose by the State Highway Department. It shall be signed by the owner, and be verified by oath or affirmation. Upon receipt of the application, and a fee of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) for motor-vehicles of less than twenty horse-power, fifty dollars ($50.00) for motor-vehicles of twenty horse-power or more and less than fifty horse-power, and seventy-five dollars ($75.00) for motor-vehicles of fifty horse-power or over, or in the case of a motor-cycle, two dollars ($2.00), the State Highway Department shall register the said motor-vehicle or motor-cycle in a book to be kept for that purpose and shall issue to the owner a registration certificate, and two (2) number tags having thereon the registration number the figures of which shall be not less than five (5) inches in height, the maker's number of the car, the abbreviated name of the State, and year: Provided, however, That non-residents of this Commonwealth shall be exempt for a period of ten (10) days from the provisions of this section, if they have complied with the requirements of the State in which they reside, and display upon their motor-vehicle number-tags that indicate the State by which they are issued and their registry number: Provided further, that this privilege shall not apply to residents of States which do not extend similar privileges to residents of this Commonwealth: Provided further, That motor-cycles under this Act, in lieu of the specific form of tag or tags as required herein, shall be required to have painted or attached on the rear mud-guard of such motor-cycles the registration number, in letters and figures of not less than three inches in height and not less than three-eighths of an inch in width, which shall be displayed in some conspicuous color or design other than that of which the said motor-cycle is painted; but no metal sign shall be required in order that the said letters and figures can be plainly readable. The manner of numbering said motor-cycles shall be regarded as a compliance with the terms of this Act, as though a tag or tags had actually been furnished and supplied by the said Highway Department. Any neglect or failure to carry out the terms or provisions of this section as to numbers shall be construed and regarded as a violation of this Act, with the same force and effect as though the provisions herein mentioned in regard to tag or tags had been violated.

Applicants for registration or license who reside outside of this State shall, in addition to the above requirements, designate in their application a resident of this State as their authorized agent upon whom process may be served.

Sect. 2. That Section 21 of the said Act, which reads as follows:

"Sect. 21. The revenues derived from the registration of motor-vehicles, and from licensing operators thereof, under the provisions of this Act, shall be paid by the State Highway Department to the State Treasurer, to be used for the improvement of the roads of this Commonwealth," be, and the same is, hereby amended to read as follows:

Sect. 21. The revenues derived from the registration of motor-vehicles, and from licensing operators thereof, under the provisions of this Act, shall be paid by the State Highway Department to the State Treasurer, to be used for the improvement of the roads of this Commonwealth and the maintenance thereof.

TAX ON ANTHRACITE COAL.

Many recommendations were made to your Committee, that a tax be imposed on some of the natural resources of the State, such as the gross production of mines, oil and gas wells. This was one of the requests of the State Grange. So far as these natural products come in competition with those produced by other States, it would be a considerable burden upon the operation of such industries in this Commonwealth to lay any tax. This would apply to oil, gas and bituminous coal. It would in the end be a tax upon the real estate from which such products were derived, and would be an exception to the general policy of the Commonwealth, not to tax real estate specifically for State purposes, but to leave it to bear the principal burden of local taxation.

As to anthracite coal, however, in which this Commonwealth has a practical monopoly, competition would not exist. Such a tax would be like the tax on gross receipts of transportation and other similar companies, a tax on business operations as to which there is more or less of a monopoly. Moreover, as the tax could be laid on the coal before it became the subject of interstate commerce, a large part of the burden would be passed on, if any change in price, to the citizens of other States. It is estimated that 80 per cent. of this coal goes out of the State.

At the meeting held at Scranton disinterested public men warmly advocated such a tax, and reference was made, among other considerations, to the number of accidents in the anthracite coal mines, which left a burden of disabled men, widows and orphans to fall upon State aid. The proportion is much greater in the anthracite regions, being for 1908, 618 fatal and 3,526 non-fatal accidents in the production of 70,238,530 tons of anthracite, to 531 fatal and 3,005 non-fatal accidents in the production of 118,313,525 tons of bituminous. The yearly averages in the anthracite mines up to 1907 showed deaths of 573, leaving 322 widows and 770 orphans; for the bituminous, 457 deaths, leaving 252 widows and 546 orphans.

The Department of Mines made the necessity of relieving this burden the subject of earnest comment in its report of 1907, advised a tax of three-fourths of a cent per ton on bituminous coal and one and one-half cents on anthracite, the sum realized to be applied to this specific purpose, and repeated the recommendation in 1909.

Your Committee therefore recommends the imposition of a State tax of 2 1-2 per cent. of the value of all anthracite coal at the mouth of the mine, as provided by the draft of an Act submitted herewith. (See page 165.)

The product of anthracite coal in this Commonwealth in the year 1908 amounted to 70,238,530 tons of the value of $153,917,458, and in 1909 to 80,223,833 tons of the value of $180,503,624. Upon the basis of the production of 1908 the tax would realize $3,847,936.45, and upon the basis of 1909 the sum of $4,512,580.60, and would form a very substantial addition to the State revenue. This would be at the rate of approximately 5 1-2 cents per ton, irrespective of size.

One especially interesting suggestion made was that the coal in situ be relieved of local taxation, and, a portion of the anthracite coal tax be returned to the counties to compensate for this. It is often the case that the surface is owned by one person and the coal by another, the division being horizontal instead of vertical. The coal is then assessed separately as real estate, and whether assessed this way or with the surface, the uncertainties of valuation owing to ignorance of the extent of the coal cause much difficulty and feeling between the taxing officials and owners. Instances may be found in the cases of Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway Company's Assessment, 224 Pa. 240, where the court held that it was not uniform taxation to assess coal lands at a ratio of actual to assessed value different from other lands; and in Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Company's Assessment, 225 Pa. 272, the court condemned the unvarying use of the so-called "foot-acre" method, whereby all coal in place is valued according to a unit of cubical content, to wit, an acre of coal a foot thick, without regard to quality and accessibility, which greatly affect the actual value. Then again, the County Commissioners of the different counties adopt different values for the unit, Lackawanna county, $200; Luzerne county, $67 and like variations in other counties. These difficulties would be done away with by the method suggested. On the other hand, there are practical difficulties in local distribution, owing to local taxes for roads, schools, poor and the like in the subdivisions of the counties.

As the primary purpose of the tax at this time is the raising of State revenue, your Committee does not recommend that the system of local distribution be now put in effect. After the yield of the tax has been determined, and statistics have been gathered as to the amount and kind of local taxes to be displaced, a system may be established by which from an increase of the State tax the present local taxes may be supplied and discontinued. Information on these points is still being sought, and if proper data can be obtained and a practical scheme worked out before adjournment of the Legislature, further report on the subject will be made.

A somewhat similar suggestion as to timber was made, that is, to exempt it from taxes until fit for market. The situation is different. Timber land has no value apart from timber until it is cleared, and in many localities there would be little land left to pay the expenses of local government. The coal is always fit for market, and is always being mined and revenue realized. But we must wait for a revenue from timber in this way.

A draft of an Act laying an ad valorem tax on coal at the mouth of the mine is therefore submitted herewith (see page 165). An alternative is suggested in case it should be the opinion of the Legislature that it is more desirable to lay the tax at a flat rate per ton (see page 165). The tax according to value would be more uniform and the tax at a flat rate easier of ascertainment.

With respect to oil, gas and bituminous coal a tax of the same amount laid by all of the States in which they are produced which come in competition with the product of our State, without the necessity of a long haul to market, would so equalize conditions that there would be no unfairness. West Virginia in particular is seeking a proper method of taxing its oil and gas products. A conference between these States would be beneficial to all concerned, and your Committee recommends that an invitation be extended to them to meet delegates appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to discuss the subject, the expenses of the delegates to be provided for in the general appropriation bill. For this purpose the following Joint Resolution is proposed:

A joint resolution providing for the issuing of an invitation to neighboring States to a conference with respect to the taxing of oil, gas and bituminous coal.

Resolved, if the concur, That the Governor of the Commonwealth be requested to issue an invitation to the States of Ohio, West Virginia, and Maryland to participate in a joint conference with this State upon the subject of a tax of the same amount to be laid by each State upon oil, gas and bituminous coal, and upon the method of laying the same; and

Be it further Resolved, That upon the Governor of the Commonwealth receiving from the Governors of the States of Ohio, West Virginia and Maryland an indication of the willingness of their respective States to participate in such a conference the Governor be and he is hereby authorized to appoint three delegates to meet and confer with delegates from all those States when the same shall be designated, at a time and place to be mutually agreed upon; and,

Be it further Resolved, That the expenses of such delegates be paid out of a sum to be appropriated in the general appropriation bill and be drawn from the State Treasury upon the warrant of the chairman of the delegation, who shall be designated as such by the Governor.

An Act laying a State tax on anthracite coal and providing for the collection of the same.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That hereafter every ton of anthracite coal of the weight of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds avoirdupois mined in this Commonwealth shall be subject to a State tax of five cents to be settled and collected as provided by law for other State taxes.

(Or as an alternative title and first section.)

An Act laying a State tax on anthracite coal and providing for the collection of the same.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That hereafter every ton of anthracite coal of the weight of two thousand two hundred and forty pounds avoirdupois mined in this Commonwealth shall be subject to a State tax of two and one-half per centum of the value thereof at the mouth of the mine, to be settled and collected as provided by law for other State taxes.

Section 2. Every operator of an anthracite coal mine or mines in this Commonwealth shall report to the Auditor General in the month of January in each year hereafter the number of such tons of anthracite coal mined by such operator within the calendar year then next preceding; and the value thereof at the mouth of the mine. Such report shall be in writing under the oath of the operator if an individual, or of one of them if more than one individual or of a principal executive officer of a corporation, limited partnership or joint stock association.

Section 3. If any such operator shall fail to furnish such report within the time required, it shall be the duty of the accounting officers of the Commonwealth to add 10 per centum to the tax for each and every year for which such report was not so furnished, which percentage shall be settled and collected with the said tax in the usual manner of settling accounts and collecting such taxes; and if any individual operator or the officers of an operator being a corporation, limited partnership, or joint stock association, or any of them, shall intentionally fail to make such report for three successive years, he or they shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of five hundred dollars and undergo an imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both or either, at the discretion of the Court.

Section 4. If the Auditor General or State Treasurer is not satisfied with the report so made, they are hereby authorized and empowered to make an estimate of the number of tons mined by the operator and to settle an account on the basis of such estimate for the taxes, penalties and interest due the Commonwealth thereon, with the right to the operator dissatisfied with any settlement so made to appeal therefrom in the manner provided by law; and if no such report is made the Auditor General and State Treasurer shall make an estimate and settle an account as aforesaid, from which settlement there shall be a right of appeal in the manner provided by law.

NOTE.

The classification of anthracite coal as distinguished from bituminous coal has been sanctioned by long existing legislation with reference to the different modes of inspection of bituminous and anthracite mines and the classification sustained in the case of Durkin vs. Kingston Coal Co., 171 Pa. 193.

By an Act of 1864, P. L. 218, a tonnage tax of 2 cents was put on the products of mines. This was amended by an Act of the same year, P. L. 988, continued by an Act of 1868, P. L. 108, and finally abolished by an Act of 1864, P. L. 68. The latter Act substituted a tax on the number of tons of coal mined or purchased by companies engaging in the mining or purchasing and selling of coal at the rate of 3 cents per ton. This was sustained as a tax on franchises or privileges of the company and the classification of these companies separately for purposes of taxation was approved in the case of Kittanning Coal Company vs. Commonwealth, 79 Pa. 103.

By the Act of 1879, P. L. 112, the tax was abolished as of July 1, 1881. It was held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States as to interstate tonnage by the case of Philadelphia & Reading R. R. Co. vs. Penna., 15 Wall. 232.

The method of report and settlement of the tax is based on the method with regard to capital stock tax of corporations.

MERCANTILE LICENSE TAX.

The largest number of protests made to your Committee against existing taxes is that made against the mercantile license tax. The principal complaint is that as a tax on gross sales instead of on profit, it bears on those who do a large volume of business in staple articles upon a small margin of profit. As the tax bears equally upon all of the competitors of such a merchant there is no preference of any one, and the tax can easily be allowed for as an item of expense of the business. The tax as now laid has the advantage of being easily and accurately ascertainable. To ascertain the amount of profit would necessitate far more inquisition than the present method, and this matter of prying into the affairs of merchants is even now a matter of complaint. The same difficulty of accurate estimate would be met with in any attempt to tax on the amount of capital involved in the business. The mercantile license tax has existed in this State continuously in various forms since the year 1821. It is not large in amount, being only one mill on retail dealers, one-half mill on wholesale dealers, and one-quarter mill on dealers at exchange. Business of all kinds has become so accustomed to the tax as to have adjusted itself thereto, and it seems only fair that the private business man should bear part of the burdens of the Government by which he benefits, when corporations are called upon to bear so much heavier burdens in the way of capital stock tax, and public service corporations bear in addition a gross receipts tax of eight mills upon the business which they conduct, which is also a tax upon privilege and is laid in the same way. It is proposed hereafter to impose a tax on manufacturing corporations also, as some of the merchants have suggested, so that this privilege will not escape. Money which is active in business and is thus being repeatedly turned over is specially fitted for taxation, and in all States is a special object of such taxation. If the money of the merchant is not taxed, a large amount will escape its share of the public burden. This is opposed to the principle of equalizing taxes on property of the same class so far as it is practical to subject it to successful taxation.

The cost of collecting this tax is not so large as might be supposed. The average cost for the year 1907 was 10.6 per cent., and for 1908, 10.5 per cent. One of the items in this cost is advertising of the mercantile tax lists, which is now made everywhere except at Philadelphia, although there is authority to order it there. This publicity is in line with the general movement for publicity in all tax matters, a striking instance of which is the provisions of the Federal Corporation Tax law. Many recommendations have been made with respect to real estate assessment, that lists be published of the values so that the conflicting opinions and interests of neighbors may produce greater equality in valuations. Your Committee thinks that if a list were published including not merely the names and classification but also the amount of business on which a tax is laid (which could be done at slight expense) the lists would be of great value in securing equalization.

They therefore recommend the enactment of the following Act:

An Act relative to Mercantile Appraisers' Lists.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That hereafter the Mercantile Appraisers' Lists published in each county of the Commonwealth, in addition to the names and classification of each person subject to license, shall also give the amount of the gross volume of business transacted annually upon which the tax is assessed.

Your committee therefore recommended that the mercantile license tax be continued as now laid.

TAXES ON INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Insurance companies now pay the capital stock if they have capital stock, and the four mills tax on money at interest (except in such extraordinary cases as that of the Provident Life and Trust Company, elsewhere referred to), and an eight mills tax upon the premiums received for business done within the State. Foreign companies pay 2 per cent. of the premiums upon business done within the State. Some of the companies, and also the Insurance Commissioner, have advocated that the tax on premiums be increased and all other taxes abolished. This tax is like that on the gross receipts of certain public service corporations. It is very easy to ascertain and collect, as it falls upon all classes of companies alike, none is able, by reason of special circumstances or any concealment, to evade it. Such a tax would reach even the evasive Provident Life and Trust Company. It should extend to both foreign and domestic companies and all those in the insurance pusiness, except fraternal orders, which stand on a different basis, to wit, that of benevolence.

This, at the same time, would adjust the complaint which are made even by our own insurance companies of the excessive rate charged to foreign companies. The practical result is to bear hard upon our companies when they go abroad to do business, because they are met in the most important States with a retaliatory tax of the same kind, and hence do business there at a disadvantage with their competitors. Under the very stringent provisions of our law as to the registration and inspection and reserves of foreign companies, our citizens are as safe in dealing with them as with domestic companies, and both should do business upon the same basis.

It was represented by certain of the insurance companies that a tax of 2 per cent. on the gross premiums would yield a revenue which would be approximately equal to that derived from the present taxes, for which it is substituted. The suggestion of this tax, however, unites in the minds of the Committee with a demand for increased taxation upon the insurance companies. These companies have control of very large funds, and as such form a concrete body of wealth which is easily and efficiently taxed, and the burden of the tax thereby distributed over the portion of the community doing business with them, a class well able to bear it. In this respect they are analogous to banking institutions.

Your Committee, therefore, submits herewith a draft of an Act designed to accomplish the result suggested, and modeled upon the existing Act of 1895, imposing the tax at the rate of 3 per cent. (see page 170).

An Act to further amend Section 24, of an Act entitled "A further supplement to an Act entitled 'An Act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine," approved the 1st day of June, Anno Domini 1889.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That Section 24 of an Act entitled "A further supplement to an Act entitled 'An Act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine," approved the 1st day of June, Anno Domini 1889, which as heretofore amended reads as follows:

"That hereafter it shall be the duty of the President, Secretary or other proper officer of each and every insurance company or association, incorporated by or under any law of this Commonwealth, except companies doing business upon the purely mutual plan without any capital stock or accumulated reserve, and purely mutual beneficial associations whose funds for the benefit of members, their families or heirs are made up entirely of the weekly or monthly contributions of their members and the accumulated interest thereon, to make report in writing to the Auditor General, semi-annually, upon the first days of July and January in each year, setting forth the entire amount of premiums and assessments received by such company or association during the preceding six months, whether said premiums and assessments were received in money or in form of notes, credits or other substitutes for money; and every such company or association shall pay into the State Treasury, semi-annually, on the last days of January and July, in addition to any other taxes to which it may be liable under the first and twenty-first sections of this Act, a tax of eight mills on the dollar upon the gross amount of said premiums and assessments received from business transacted within this Commonwealth: Provided, That said reports shall be made under oath or affirmation, and it shall be the duty of the accounting officers of the Commonwealth to add 10 per centum to the account of any company or association whose officers shall neglect or refuse for a period of thirty days to make said report, or to pay into the State Treasury the tax imposed by this section: And provided further, That hereafter the annual tax upon premiums or insurance companies of other States or foreign Governments, shall be at the rate of 2 per centum upon the gross premiums of every character and description received from business done within this Commonwealth within the entire calendar year preceding," be amended to read as follows:

That hereafter it shall be the duty of the President, Secretary or other proper officer of each and every insurance company or asssociation of every kind whatsoever and wheresoever incorporated, including stock and mutual companies, and mutual beneficial associations, doing business in this Commonwealth, to make report in writing to the Auditor General annually in the month of January in each year hereafter, setting forth the entire amount of premiums and assessments received by such company or association during the preceding calendar year, whether said premiums and assessments were received in money or in the form of notes, credits or other substitutes for money; and every such company or association shall pay into the State Treasury annually on the last day of January in each year a tax of three per cent. upon the gross amount of such premiums and assessments received from business transacted within this Commonwealth: Provided, That said report shall be made under oath or affirmation, and that it shall be the duty of the accounting officers of the Commonwealth to add ten per centum to the account of any company or association whose officers shall neglect or refuse for a period of thirty days to make said report or to pay into the State Treasury the tax hereby imposed: And provided further, That the tax hereby imposed shall be in lieu of any tax to which such companies might otherwise be liable under the first section of this Act, and in lieu of any tax to which it might otherwise be liable under the twenty-first section of this Act as respects so much of its capital as is invested in the business of insurance.

TRANSFER COMPANIES.

In connection with the gross receipts tax, it may be well to mention that companies transferring baggage and doing a like business do not pay the tax. It might be supposed that they were included in the term "express companies," upon which a special Act of 1899 imposes the eight mills gross receipts tax. But in practice the tax has not been collected from these companies, and as their business is exactly analogous to that of express companies and as they are an important class of public service corporations, your Committee recommends the imposition of the tax upon them, and submits herewith a draft of an amendment to the Act of 1899 above mentioned, to accomplish that end (see page 172).

An Act to amend Section 2 of an Act entitled "A supplement to an Act entitled 'An Act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, amending and extending the provisions thereof," approved the 28th day of April, A. D. 1899.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That Section 2 of an Act entitled "A supplement to an Act, entitled 'An Act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, amending and extending the provisions thereof," which reads as follows:

"Section 2. Every corporation, limited partnership, joint stock association, partnership firm or association of individuals, incorporated or unincorporated, engaged in the business commonly known as express business, shall pay to the State Treasurer, for the use of the Commonwealth, a tax of eight mills upon the amount of their gross receipts from express business done wholly within this State, the said tax shall be paid semi-annually upon the last days of January and July in each year; and for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of the same, it shall be the duty of the Treasurer, or other proper officer of the said corporation, limited partnership, joint stock association, partnership, firm or asssociation of individuals, to transmit to the Auditor General a statement, under oath or affirmation, of the amount of gross receipts of the said corporation, limited partnership, joint stock association, partnership, firm, or association of individuals, incorporated or unincorporated, derived from all sources ,and of the gross receipts from business done wholly within the State during the preceding six months ending upon the first days of January and July in each year; and if any such corporation, limited partnership, joint stock association, partnership, firm, or association of individuals, incorporated or unincorporated, shall neglect or refuse for a period of thirty days after such tax becomes due to make said returns, or to pay the said tax, the amount thereof, with an addition of 10 per centum thereto, shall be collected for the use of the Commonwealth as other taxes are recoverable by law. No other tax upon express receipts, or upon the privilege of transacting express business, shall be collected without further authority of law to be hereafter enacted: Providing, That this Act shall not be construed to repeal or take the place of the tax upon capital stock now imposed by law; but the tax on gross receipts hereby imposed shall be in addition to the tax on capital stock imposed by existing law upon any of the corporations, companies or associations hereby taxed," be, and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 2. Every corporation, limited partnership, joint stock association, partnership, firm, or association of individuals, incorporated or unincorporated engaged in the business of carrying baggage or persons or in the business commonly known as express business, or in any other business of a like character and commonly known as transfer companies, express companies and companies doing similar business, shall pay to the State Treasurer, for the use of the Commonwealth, a tax of eight mills upon the amount of their gross receipts from transfer, express and similar business done wholly within this State, the said tax shall be paid semi-annually upon the last days of January and July in each year; and for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of the same, it shall be the duty of the Treasurer, or other proper officer of the said corporation, limited partnership, joint stock association, partnership, firm, or association of individuals, to transmit to the Auditor General a statement, under oath or affirmation, of the amount of gross receipts of the said corporation, limited partnership joint stock association partnership firm or association of individuals, incorporated or unincorporated, derived from all sources, and of the gross receipts from business done wholly within the State, during the preceding six months ending upon the first days of January and July in each year; and if any such corporation, limited partnership, joint stock association, partnership, firm, or association of individuals, incorporated or unincorporated, shall neglect or refuse for a period of thirty days after such tax becomes due to make said returns, or to pay the said tax, the amount thereof, with an addition of 10 per centum thereto, shall be collected for the use of the Commonwealth as other taxes are recoverable by law. No other tax upon transfer, express and similar receipts, or upon the privilege of transacting transfer, express and similar business, shall be collected without further authority of law to be hereafter enacted: Providing, That this act shall not be construed to repeal or take the place of the tax upon capital stock now imposed by law; but the tax on gross receipts hereby imposed shall be in addition to the tax on capital stock imposed by existing law upon any of the corporations, companies or associations hereby taxed.

EXEMPTION OF SAVINGS INSTITUTIONS FROM FOUR MILLS TAX.

The Legislature of 1909, P. L. 298, exempted savings institutions not having a capital stock from the four mills tax on monied investments, with the proviso that this should not relieve from payment corporations which had issued loans free of tax. This Act is wrong in principle. These institutions are not charitable organizations. While few in number, they have the control of a great amount of money, the total deposits amounting (November 6, 1909, to $167,068,144.72), of which the Philadelphia Savings Fund Society alone had $92,259,930.43.

The passage of this Act was advocated on the plea that it would benefit the depositors in this class of depositories whose funds are largely made up of small savings. But the result intended has not been accomplished. While in theory a tax on the creditor, it really falls upon the debtor, and yet though exempt from the tax there has been no change influenced by the Act in the rate of interest demanded by these institutions since its passage.

Nor has the exemption benefited the depositors. The rate of interest paid (3.65 per cent.) is the same as before, and the money realized has gone to swell the already large surplus which is never divided, and for the Philadelphia Savings Fund alone amounted, on November 10, 1910, to $9,574,159.36.

If the interest charged was lower than the current rate (because of the exemption from the four mills tax), it would appear to tend to favoritism in the granting of loans, and it could not be otherwise than a profitable abuse. Indeed, it is not difficult to conclude that the only material benefit because of this exemption will accrue to those corporations or other borrowers who are able, through their relations with the officials of the institutions, to do business with them and save the tax, and there can be no legal or moral reason for an exemption from which there could possibly flow such a preference.

If there could be a legal exemption from taxation of the man who has but small savings, one which could fairly tend to his thrift and uplift, your Committee would be only too glad to make a recommendation to that end, and in that spirit have elsewhere suggested the adoption of a Constitutional Amendment which will, if adopted, secure such a result (see page 150).

As this Act of May 1, 1909, P. L. 298, serves no useful purpose its repeal is recommended, and a draft of an Act therefor is herewith submitted (see page 176).

It may be well to call attention to the evils attendant upon the accumulations of reserve and surplus in institutions of this sort, and of insurance companies. This subject was very thoroughly exposed in the investigation of the the New York insurance companies in 1905; and the opportunities given to their managers for profit through the wielding of such sums, even in investing them with perfect safety. All the profits of our savings funds should go to depositors. But the margin between the rate of interest on investments and the rate paid depositors, permits the accumulation of a surplus, laid away under the guise of providing for the unlikely contingencies of a remote day, far beyond what appears to your Committee to be the necessity of the case. No case of actual abuse yet appears, but the best safety lies in fear, and your Committee will be gratified if their further investigations find a way of limiting these funds.

An Act to repeal an Act entitled "An Act to amend the first section of an Act, entitled 'A further supplement to an Act, entitled "An Act to provide revenue by taxation," approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine,' approved the first day of June, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, as amended by an Act approved the eighth day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, entitled 'An Act to provide increased revenues for the purpose of relieving the burdens of local taxation, being supplementary to an Act, entitled "An Act to provide revenue by taxation," approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine, amending the first, fourteenth, sixteenth, twentieth, twenty-first, twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth sections of an Act supplementary thereto, which became a law on the first day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and eighty-nine, entitled 'A further supplement to an Act, entitled "An Act to provide revenue by taxation," approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine,' and providing for greater uniformity of taxation by taxing all of the property of corporations, limited partnerships, and joint stock associations having capital stock, at the rate of five mills on each dollar of its actual value, by relieving and exempting from the provisions thereof savings institutions having no capital stock," approved May 1, 1909.

Section 1. CAPITAL STOCK TAX ON MANUFACTURING CORPORATIONS.

There is a very general feeling throughout the State, to which the Pennsylvania State Grange gave particularly forceful expression, that manufacturing corporations, like other corporations, should pay tax upon the capital stock. This tax is imposed on the value of the assets as represented by the capital stock, but as it is not imposed upon other similar non-corporate assets, it is in effect a tax on the privilege of existing as a corporation. These corporations share, with others, this governmental privilege. The only ground for the exemption is the supposed encouragement that has thus been given to the location of manufacturing industries within the State. Primarily, however, the location of a manufacturing plant will depend upon the nearness to source of supply or to markets, or to supply of labor or the like, and the imposition of the tax, while a material element, is a minor one. Pennsylvania and New York alone treat manufacturing corporations differently from other general business corporations with respect to State taxes, and the pre-eminence of these States in that regard is largely due to natural advantages. New York exempts only those corporations which employ 40 per cent. of their capital in manufacturing within the State. Even a manufacturing State like Massachusetts does not so favor them. From the expression of opinions before it, your Committee believes that manufacturers themselves feel that as they have been exempt from 1885 on the theory of ,'infant industries," a small tax would be now not an appreciable burden. In order, however, that there need be no sudden readjustment of the conditions under which the manufacturer may conduct his business, in competition with like activities in other States, the tax ought to be a small one.

A change in the subject of taxation is often more oppressive than an existing unjust tax, because the incidence of the tax has been determined, consciously or unconsciously, and allowance for it has been made.

The capital stock of manufacturing corporations doing business in this State in 1905 (the last estimate available), amounted to $1,600,000,000, now, probably, $2,000,000,000. A tax of one mill on this latter amount would yield to the State the substantial sum of $2,000,000 per year, and your Committee recommends that it be laid.

A draft of an Act to accomplish this result is herewith submitted (see page 181).

By the same Act your Committee proposes to stop a gap in the existing law which the Legislature of 1907 made a possibly ineffectual attempt to fill. Companies doing an insurance business, as well as a general trust company business—notably the Provident Life and Trust Company, of Philadelphia—hold certain investments for their insurance department reserves. It was first decided at the suit of this company that these assets should not be reckoned as part of the capital stock, as they did not belong to the stockholders. (Com. vs. Provident Life and Trust Co., 9 District Rep. 479.) It was then attempted to impose the four mills tax on money at interest upon these assets; but this was successfully resisted on the ground that they were owned by the company in its own right and not as trustee for its policy holders, and hence exempt from the four mills tax, under the express wording of the Act of 1891, imposing the capital stock tax. (Provident Life and Trust Co. vs. Durham, 212 Pa. 68.) Accordingly the Act of 1907, P. L. 430, declared that the exemption should not extend to securities in which the stockholders did not have the entire equitable interest, thus attempting to exclude the shadowy borderland within which these $30,000,000 of assets fell.

But in giving a title to this Act a mistake was made. In the body of the Act the section intended to be amended was correctly quoted, and in the marginal note to the Pamphlet Laws it is correctly called the Act of 1893. But in the title, the Act to be amended is called the Act of June 27, 1879. The parent Act of all this series is an Act of 1879, which has long since been superseded. But it is the Act of June 7, not June 27. In spite of this the Court of Common Pleas No. 2, of Philadelphia, has decided that the assets in question (now amounting to fifty million dollars) do not come within the wording, at the same time declaring the title correct. Your Committee would recommend an alteration in the wording of the Act as in the draft submitted herewith, and also a correction of the title to meet a possible adverse decision by the Supreme Court, where the case is now on appeal.

Capital stock not invested in manufacturing is taxed at five mills, as heretofore.

ARTIFICIAL GAS COMPANIES.

Since the exemption of manufacturing companies from capital stock tax by the original Act of 1885 imposing this species of tax, gas companies have been exempt on the ground that they were manufacturing companies. Commonwealth vs. Allegheny Gas Co., 1 Dauph. 93; Commonwealth vs. Chester Gas Co., 5 Dauph. 121. At the same time it was held that their competitors, the electric light companies, were subject to this tax. Commonwealth vs. Northern Electric Light and Power Company, 145 Pa. 105. By the Act of 1889, the electric light companies were also subjected to the tax of eight mills on the gross receipts, which is laid on transportation companies of various sorts. As a result, the gas companies, many of which have a local monopoly unlike the electric light companies, are free from two taxes which their competitors bear. Your Committee is of opinion that the imposition of both these taxes on gas companies would equalize taxes on concerns which are legitimate competitors of one another, and at the same time would secure a substantial item of revenue. As long as the expense of electric light continues greater, and with the increased use of gas as domestic fuel, these companies will continue to thrive. The local monopoly given them by law makes them (like coal) a natural subject of taxation.

In the draft of the Act imposing capital stock tax on manufacturing corporations (see page 181) there has therefore been inserted, also, appropriate words to impose on artificial gas companies the regular capital stock tax of five mills.

An amendment to the Act of 1889, imposing the gross receipts tax on these companies, is also submitted herewith (see page 183).
